$500,000 more to be spent on schools in new budget

by JILL BETTNER

School expenditures will be increased by about $500,000 in the 1973-74 fiscal year, according to the proposed School Dist. 21 budget.

The increase is due mainly to salary raises, added cost of staffing, equipping two new schools and inflation.

Expenditures for the coming year are in the tentative budget at $11,680,210, as compared to last year's total cash outlay of $11,123,613.

Total revenue indicated in the budget amounts to $10,157,000. In addition to these funds, the district will also have some money left over in each account from the 1972-73 budget. Because bills are still being paid with these funds, it is not yet known exactly how much cash will be available for next year.

The remaining deficit will be made up in tax anticipation warrants, according to Dist. 21 Asst. Supt. John Barger. The warrants are issued by taxing bodies as a means of borrowing against future taxes.

TEACHER salary raises account for most of the increase in the educational fund, set at $7,586,135, compared to last year's total of $6,973,923. The salaries require about 60 per cent of the entire amount in the fund.

Dist. 21 teachers recently negotiated a six per cent increase in the total monies allotted for salaries. The funds are to be distributed among teachers according to a schedule devised by the Wheeling Faculty Council.

Funds for operating, building and maintenance, bond and interest, transportation and municipal retirement will also be increased. The only area where less money is budgeted than last year is for site and construction.

Washington Irving School in Buffalo Grove and Robert Lewis Stevenson School in Wheeling are both nearing completion and are scheduled to open next fall. No new buildings are planned in the next year.

Prospect Heights inching toward its incorporation

by STEVE FORSYTH

Prospect Heights inched toward unhindered incorporation Saturday in a meeting with three adjoining communities to discuss problems and negotiate differences.

At the meeting called by State Rep. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge, and State Sen. Bradley Glass, R-Northfield, representatives of Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect said there is no major opposition to incorporation of Prospect Heights as a city.

Heights, he said he would like to have the village control at least three sides of the boundaries.

PHIA president, Jack Gilligan said the changes could be made. Walsh said boundaries could also be smoothed out in the Waterman Avenue area, but Gilligan asked that any changes there keep residents of both sides of the street in Prospect Heights. The change would cut off part of Prospect Heights from Waterman to Rand Road, but Gilligan did not object.

A MAJOR AREA of concern was Pal-Waukee Airport, which the PHIA seeks to incorporate only the lower third. Juckett urged some other boundary should be drawn. All three villages and the PHIA expressed concern that the airport be maintained, even if it means forming a corporation of all villages involved to operate it municipally.

Work on the incorporation will continue immediately. PHIA spokesmen are scheduled to appear at the Arlington Heights board meeting tonight. Teichert said Mount Prospect would consider public hearings as soon as possible, and Hamer said he would submit a report to the Wheeling Village Board within a week, recommending that it consider the problem.

Costly 'dream'

Skyrocketing home prices push many out of market

by KURT BAER

Still thinking about someday moving into that dream house? Even if it exists, the chances are you can't afford it.

Real estate appraisers say prices on expensive homes are going up 6 to 10 per cent a year in many suburban locations. More moderately priced housing is increasing in cost even faster at about 12 to 15 per cent annually.

Housing salesmen will tell you that it's the old game of supply and demand that's pushing home costs higher and higher. Builders cite the cost of land, labor and materials, as well as the building requirements of local governments.

Taken together, all these factors have priced many people right out of the single-family housing market into lower-priced townhouses and condominiums.

"Most people want to live in houses. They don't want condominiums or townhouses, but they're got to live somewhere so they buy what they think they can afford. Today that often means a townhouse," says Al Gundelach, a real estate appraiser with offices in Elk Grove Village.

IN RARE INSTANCES where single-family housing is available at "yesterday's prices," such as at the Centex-Winston Grove development in Elk Grove, prospective buyers literally stand in line to purchase home sites that have been carved out of a cornfield.

"Those houses sold like hot cakes and the griddle wasn't even warm," Gundelach said, adding that he believes the success of the Centex-Winston project should prove a point to builders.

"Builders are too tied to the old notion that land should be only one-tenth the cost of the house. They think they should be able to buy land for $1,000 a lot, when they now have to pay $5,000."

"In Beverly Hills (Calif.), 50 per cent of the cost of a home is land and 50 per cent the actual house. By holding out for apartment development (because of the cost of the land) builders have severely limited the supply of (single-family) housing. It's a trap of their own making," he says.

MARTY MUNSON, Arlington Heights building director and a man who has been closely associated with the building industry for over 20 years, says today's builder is faced with unprecedented building costs.

"Lumber is the number one item. Price and scarcity are both going up phenomenally," he says. The cost of other home building materials — masonry, sheet metal, copper, aluminum and the wages of the men who work with them have also risen.

Insight out

TRUSTEE EMERITUS. Former Buffalo Grove village trustee Edward Fabish is apparently having a difficult time getting out of the habit of attending village board meetings. Fabish showed up last week at the first meeting held since his retirement. As he walked into the meeting, Village President Gary Armstrong commented, "Here he is, trustee emeritus. The first meeting, he's got to come back."

GET THOSE GOLF BALLS. Several chuckles could be heard last week during the reading of an agreement which will allow Buffalo Grove to construct a retention lake on the Arlington Golf Course. At one point, the agreement says the village must give back to the golf course any golf balls that are hit in the lake.

HOME SO EARLY? Whether the wives of the members of the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission believe it or not, last week's meeting really did end at 9:15 p.m. In fact, finishing at such an early hour was so unusual that chairman Carl Genrich told the commissioners, "If any body needs an excuse to go home to his wife I'll write it."

HUNGRY? Bratwurst has unofficially been the official meat of Wheeling. However, that trend may be on its way out. During last week's discussion by the Wheeling Jaycees, Jack Matzger was commenting on the fact that the Jaycees would be selling something new at their annual Fourth of July celebration. Before Matzger could tell the audience it was beer someone piped up "What's that — Polish sausage?"

'What do we do about Missing?'

The Wheeling Village Board tonight is expected to discuss what action to take in filling the trustee position vacated by Richard Missing.

The board delayed taking any action last week so the village attorney could prepare a legal opinion on the matter. That report will be presented to the board tonight.

By law, the board can either call a special election to fill the vacancy or appoint a trustee to serve until the next village election in 1975.

Village Atty. Paul Hamer said he made no recommendation about what action the board should take in filling the vacancy. "I don't recommend anything," he said. "I just point out the alternatives."

MISSING resigned his trustee position earlier this month to prevent a possible conflict between his job and Illinois law. He is the manager-buyer for Mark Drugs, a store that sells liquor. State law prohibits any elected municipal official from either the sale or distribution of liquor.

Until the board decides how to fill Missing's vacancy, outgoing trustee Michael Valenza will continue to sit on the board. The law does not relieve outgoing trustees of their duties until their successors take office.

The board is also scheduled to consider an ordinance that would exempt those single-family homes involuntarily annexed into the village from certain zoning codes.

Many of these homes do not meet present zoning requirements, and as such are considered non-conforming uses. Buildings which do not conform with zoning codes are subject to eventual razing.

The ordinance would remove these homes from the non-conforming zoning classification. It would also revise the zoning codes to allow single-family homes under the R-4 multiple-family zoning.

Riley students to be shifted to Stevenson

Several children in School Dist. 21 will be spending a lot less time on school buses next year when they begin attending new schools closer to home.

All children who presently ride the bus to Riley School will attend the new Stevenson School at Palatine and Wolf roads in Wheeling.

Elementary students in the Mill Creek subdivision and apartments are scheduled to go to Irving School, just off Arlington Heights Road. These children presently attend Longfellow School.

Both buildings are slated to be ready for the opening of school next fall, according to school officials.

Dist. 21 Asst. Supt. John Barger said last week that there will be no immediate changes in the attendance boundaries of other schools in the district because of the opening of Stevenson and Irving.

WATER FIGHTS and skill demonstrations added excitement to the parking lot of Randhurst Shopping Center, Mount Prospect, Saturday as the third annual Fire Recognition Week came to a close. Festivities Saturday included a parade on Elmhurst Road and a dance on the mall. The Mount Prospect Fire Department was host to 35 participating fire departments from the Chicago suburbs. The week included several demonstrations of fire and rescue operations and displays of new and antique firefighting equipment.

Judge agrees to set up juvenile court in Niles

A pilot program to establish a branch of the Cook County Juvenile Court in the suburbs will be set up in the 3rd Circuit Court district in Niles, Chief Circuit Court Judge John S. Boyle said Friday. Boyle made the announcement following a meeting Friday in the Civic Center with officials from the Northwest suburbs. Boyle said the program will be started on a trial basis in Niles for several months. If the program succeeds there, Boyle said he will consider expanding it into other suburbs.

The meeting took place in the wake of the state legislature's defeat of a bill that would have created the branch court by state law rather than judicial action. The bill was co-sponsored by Rep. Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights, and Rep. Brian Duff, R-Willmette, but was defeated in a House committee Tuesday by a 3-2 vote.

Mrs. Macdonald, the bill's chief backer, had sought passage in an attempt to decentralize the juvenile court. Currently all juvenile cases in the county are heard in the Audy Home in Chicago.

The meeting between Boyle and area officials was arranged after Boyle learned of the proposed legislation. As chief justice of the circuit court, Boyle has the authority to organize branches of the court but told local officials Tuesday he had not been aware of the concern for the branch court.

MRS. MACDONALD could not be reached Friday for comment on Boyle's decision. However, in comments made after her bill was defeated, Mrs. Macdonald said she was pleased that the meeting had been arranged and hoped it could accomplish the bill's objective.

Two local law enforcement officials, Rolling Meadows Police Chief Lewis Case and Arlington Heights Police Capt. Maury Evans, had testified in favor of the bill at the House subcommittee hearing Tuesday. Voting against the bill, however, was co-sponsor Duff.

Duff said Friday he voted against the bill because he had changed his mind on its merit. "It was a question of changing your mind," Duff said. "It looked like a good bill at first," he said. He added he later agreed with Rep. Harold Katz (D-Glenview) that the legislation could be unconstitutional because it attempted to override judicial authority to form the court.

An amendment had been added to the bill reaffirming the judicial authority, but Duff said he felt the amendment did not go far enough to eliminate the possibility of unconstitutionality of the bill.

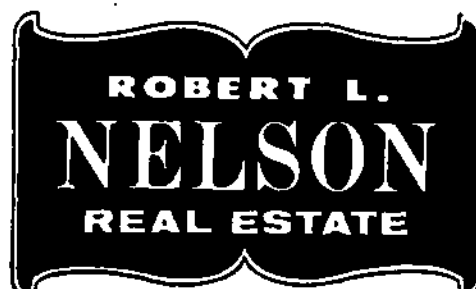

"The amendment kind of put it (the bill) in no-man's land," Duff, chairman of the judicial subcommittee, said Friday. "I felt that the bill was untimely," he added, saying he would prefer to see the branch court matter pursued through the judiciary.

Duff had praise for Mrs. Macdonald's efforts, however, saying the intent of the bill is "a good thing. Arranging the meeting with Judge Boyle is an example of the kind of thing legislators should be doing in addition to passing legislation," he added.

UFOs? Planes? What were those lights?

by STEVE BROWN

The unidentified flying objects sighted in the area might have easily been explained if Thursday had been New Year's Eve, but it wasn't.

Thursday night was a warm, clear spring evening and government and military officials were hard pressed to offer an explanation for the unusual lights seen in the southeastern sky by hundreds of area residents.

Police said over the weekend they received other reported UFO sightings, but not as many as had been reported Thursday.

Police departments in several villages were swamped with calls reporting UFOs. Most callers said they saw unexplained lights over the southern portion of the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

THE REPORTS from the public were supplemented by reports from at least a dozen police officers.

Two different military sources said the lights were probably reflections from aircraft landing lights at nearby O'Hare International Airport.

But witnesses to the phenomena said the UFOs appeared in groups of pulsating lights, some V-shaped and hovered at altitudes ranging from 1,000 feet to tree top level at about 9:30 p.m.

A spokesman for the Glenview Naval Air Station theorized aircraft lights must have caused the unusual effect.

But an official at the National Weather Service said the clear skies present at the time of sightings tended to discount the light reflection theory.

"BESIDES IN my 25 years on the job, I have never heard of any phenomena occurring at low altitude," he said.

Radar installations at O'Hare, Glenview and the Chicago-Gary Defense Base in Arlington Heights reported no UFO sightings.

Major James R. Lapp of Chanute Air Force Base, Rantoul, said he had UFO reports but said he had seen a meteor in the sky about the same time.

Puzzled officials, however, could not explain the eyewitness accounts of lights hovering for up to a half hour.

Police in Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove

Village, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and members of the Illinois State Police and the Cook County Sheriff's Police all offered similar accounts of the lights.

Schaumburg Patrolman William Barakavitch reported that he saw nine sets of lights in the vicinity of the WGN Radio transmitting tower. He said that he could differentiate the lights from those of nearby aircraft.

SHERILL ECKERSLEY, an Elk Grove Village fire alarm operator, reported a triangular object, hovering across from the fire station on Blesterfield Road.

She said the lights moved about 25 to 30 miles per hour.

"If I was the only one who saw it, I would really think I was crazy," she said, adding she had never seen anything like it. Other firemen also saw the object.

Early speculation that the lights came from helicopters was discounted after a check of many civilian and military installations revealed that no helicopters were airborne at the time.

The reflecting lights theory was also discounted by a leading authority in the UFO field, Dr. J. Allen Hynek of Northwestern University.

"I DO NOT BUY the reflections theory, because of the hovering effect that was reported," he said. Hynek, who was the scientific consultant for Air Force's UFO project, Operation Bluebook, has authored a book on similar sightings, "The UFO Experience."

Hynek said he believes the objects sighted were "nocturnal lights." He said he would reserve further comment until more information is received on the sightings. Associates of Hynek will be interviewing persons who reported the sightings.

"I do not buy the reflecting lights story either," said a police officer who asked that his name not be used.

"I did not see any little green men, but what I did see was the most unusual experience I have ever witnessed," he added.

Nabbed on battery charges

2 arrested linked to area burglaries

Two men arrested last week by Cook County Sheriff's Police for aggravated battery have been linked to numerous burglaries at apartment complexes and business in Wheeling and Northfield townships.

Police said the two men are connected with burglaries involving more than $6,000 in stolen property, including $800 of stolen tools taken from two Wheeling firms.

One of the men, James Ray, 24, of 900 E. Old Willow Rd., was also charged with last September's armed robbery of the Twin Drive-In on Milwaukee Avenue. Police said Ray took $77 from the drive-in theater.

The other man, Asem Zulfic, 19, of Northfield, was charged with a burglary at the drive-in where an $800 two-way radio and recorder were stolen.

POLICE also said both men were involved in numerous burglaries in the past few months at the Lamplighter Apartments, Birchwood Trace, Orchard Trace and Loch Lomond. According to police, more than $3,500 in stolen property was taken from storage bins in the apartment complexes.

The two men were connected with these burglaries after being arrested for aggravated battery on May 8. According to police, the two assaulted the driver of a car which reportedly swerved in front of them while driving.

In searching the truck driven by the two, police said they discovered more than $600 in stolen tools. Police added that the tools were stolen from Meridian Concrete Co. and Nat's Grading Service, both in Wheeling.

The truck was registered to James Nord, 963 Fletcher St., Wheeling. Nord was questioned by police and released.

Upon further investigation, police connected Ray and Zulfic with the apartment and business burglaries. They also connected the two with a burglary in Wisconsin.

Ray was charged with armed robbery, burglary, possession of stolen property and aggravated battery. He was being held on $15,000 bond until his court date tomorrow.

Zulfic was charged with possession of stolen property, burglary and aggravated battery. He is released on bond until his court date June 5.

Clark station held up

About $100 and an unknown amount of cigarettes were taken from the Clark service station at Ill. Rte. 83 and Hintz Road in an armed robbery early last Friday morning.

Cook County Sheriff's Police said two of the robbers held a knife to the station attendant's throat while a third suspect waited in the car.

According to police, the three drove into the station at about 3:30 a.m. The station attendant, Hubert Schavler of Chicago, described the robbers as white males in their early 20s with shoulder-length bleached-blond hair.

The final list for promotion to sergeant will be posted at the end of the 10 days.

School news notes

The "Spring Circus" at Poe School in Arlington Heights will open at 2 p.m. Thursday.

Doug Johnson, ringmaster, will escort parents and student into ring one (the first grade room) for animal walks. In ring two, Indians, cowboys and clowns will perform and in ring three, artists will show off their talents on the trapeze, tightrope and stunts. Several jugglers will also perform.

Ring sets for the circus have been designed by fifth and sixth grade students.

RECENTLY, MORE than 200 students from Cooper Junior High School in Buffalo Grove competed in the state music contest at Zion.

To qualify for the state competition, each performing group had to have received a first place rating in the district contest. Cooper was unique among schools in the state contest, in that it was the only school to qualify all four of its performing groups.

They included the concert band, under the direction of David Leigh, the seventh grade chorus, under the direction of Cheryl Siedentop; the eighth grade chorus, directed by Mrs. Karen Kolls; and the concert orchestra, directed by Renee Gladstone.

All four groups received first place ratings in the state competition.

CHILDREN in Mrs. Marilyn Spivak's fourth grade class at Tarkington School in Wheeling are participating in a project entitled "Mr. Popper's Poppin' Popcorn."

The children are selling popcorn for 10 cents a bag in the lunchroom. The money earned will be used to purchase something for the learning center.

FIRST, SECOND and third grade students at Tarkington School recently presented a program entitled "Carnival of Animals," with the help of music teacher Sarah Ward.

Each class presented an animal story in song form and showed animal pictures, drawn under the supervision of Dist. 21 art coordinator Len Presley.

Ralston, Trausch head list for police sergeant promotion

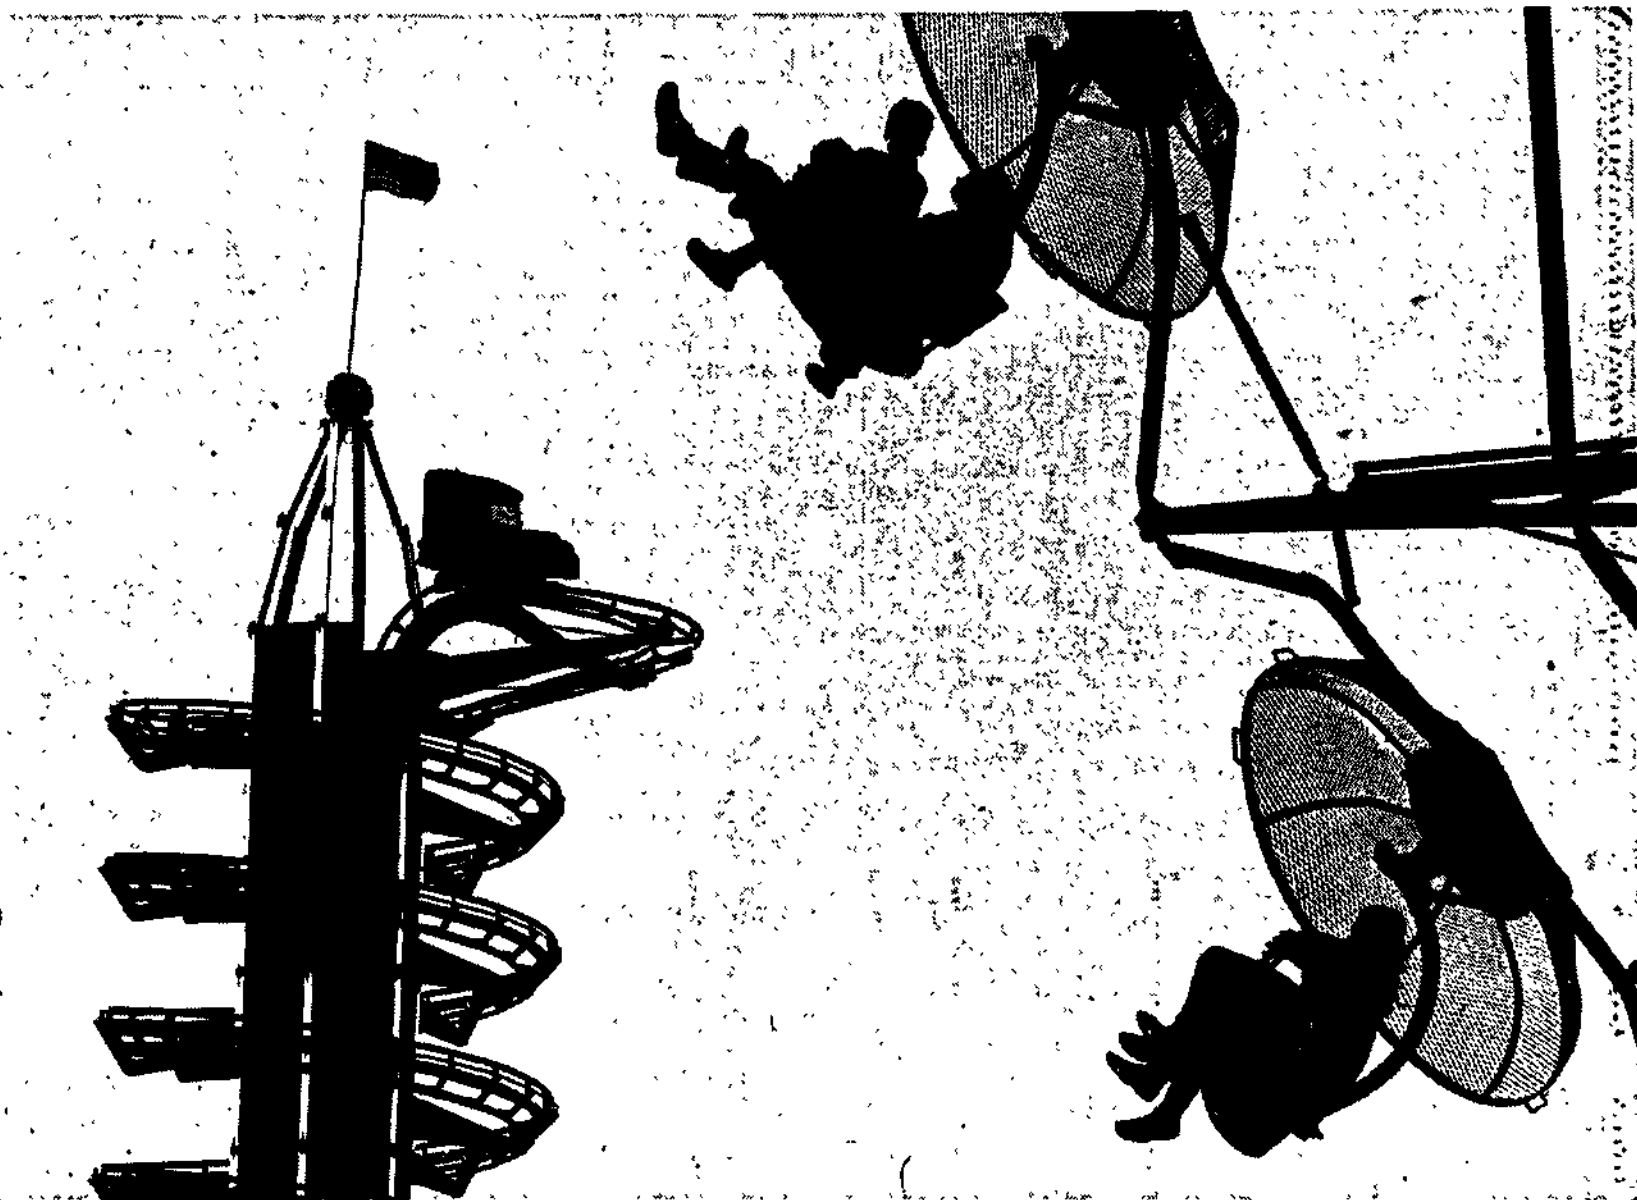

Wheeling patrolmen Bill Ralston and Clarence Trausch head the tentative list of policemen who qualify to become sergeants.

The list ranks each patrolman according to his final score on tests given to prospective sergeants. Promotions are made according to the list, with the highest scorers being promoted first.

Ralston heads the tentative list with a score of 85.8 per cent. Trausch earned a score of 82.5 per cent.

The scores are based on a combination of written and oral examinations, recommendations from the police chief and the number of years spent with the department.

The written exam accounts for 55 per cent of the score. The oral exam counts

Rep. Chapman proposes bill to protect home buyers

The disclosure of information aimed at protecting new home buyers will be covered in a bill proposed by State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights.

There are people who go out to buy a first home who need protection assuring they understand what schools their children will attend and whether the house is on a flood plain, said Mrs. Chapman. Some people don't even know what a flood plain is, she added.

Her proposed legislation, House Bill 1687, is co-sponsored by Representatives Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, and Richard Mugallan, D-Palatine. It will be up for consideration by the Illinois House of Representatives Registration and Regulations Committee.

The proposal will be known as the "Residential Housing Disclosure Act." It is the first major legislation of its type covering single-family homes, she said.

MRS. CHAPMAN said she was encouraged to sponsor the legislation because of a series of articles in The Herald and because of interest for the need of legislation protecting people buying new houses.

In a presentation tomorrow, Mrs. Chapman said she will seek the support of people from the area and has an indication Carol Johnson of Schaumburg's Timbercrest subdivision may appear to testify on needs for passage of the act.

Mrs. Chapman also encourages people write to their representatives if they agree legislation is needed.

"We're trying to make sure of getting it passed in this session," she said, adding, "I think it's needed now."

"If the bill has to wait until the legislature's next session for passage, there will be thousands of people in the state buying new homes without the protections it offers," she added.

THE BILL requires the developers of subdivisions with 10 or more homes to provide information on what type of land conditions exist on and around the property where the house is located.

It also requires an explanation of the adequacy of storm and sanitation sewer facilities and the proximity of the house to all public, shopping and church facilities.

Also significant, said Mrs. Chapman, is the requirement developers inform the buyer of zoning on nearby land and of any nearby utility easements.

This would prevent a salesman telling someone a park will be located where an apartment complex is planned, she added.

MRS. CHAPMAN said the intention of the bill is to give protection to home buyers both before and after the closing of the contract.

Another major feature of the bill is protection for a homeowner going to court to get satisfaction from a developer who hasn't lived up to the contract, she said.

The bill makes the developer responsible for any legal cost the homeowner faces in the suit.

Hotel rezoning asked for apartments

Owners of Wheeling's Union Hotel on Milwaukee Avenue are seeking to rezone their property for a planned development to include commercial and apartment buildings.

This property is now occupied by the hotel and Wheeling Auto Parts.

Leroy J. Minnich, one of the owners, said this rezoning would not affect the operation of the hotel. "We have no plans to discontinue the use of the Union Hotel," he said. "We spent a lot of money remodeling it, and we want to keep it."

In fact, Minnich said, the building now occupied by Wheeling Auto Parts might be used to expand the hotel. "We may expand the Union Hotel and make use of that property," he said. "It's a little up in the air about expanding, though."

Minnich said the development would mainly make use of land to the south and to the west of the hotel. He said the re-zoning request pertains to three parcels of land, totaling about seven acres.

THE LAND abuts the Walt Whitman School, and children from the school use the area for a play field.

Minnich said he and his partner, Peter Mandas, are proposing to build a U-shaped shopping center and apartment buildings behind the hotel. They are seeking several variations for the project including an increase in height to six stories and an increase in density to 25 units per acre.

According to Minnich, the shopping center would be built with a Western-style architecture to give it an authentic old-fashioned atmosphere. He said he and Mandas would probably oversee construction themselves instead of bringing in a developer.

Minnich said the project was a fairly large development. "But you can't put too much on it because we only have seven acres," he said. The village board has directed the zoning board to hold public hearings on the proposed project. No date for these hearings has been set.

Disposal plant not one to blame

It was reported last Friday that in a letter to the Wheeling Village Board, Ester Davis, 15 E. Jeffery Ave., said residents of the Meadowbrook subdivision once received "obnoxious odors" from the Wheeling Disposal Plant.

It was learned, however, that these did not come from that company. The odors were being emitted by the now defunct Nancy Lane Sewage Treatment Plant, according to Village Mgr. George Pas-solt.

TAN man wants to sunbathe au natural in forest preserve

Sky, sun and flowers don't wear clothes...should he?

by MARILYN HEISER

Jim Willis would like to sunbathe nude in the forest preserve and not be arrested.

The Hanover Park resident and founder of Truth About Nudity (TAN), says public nudity is not obscene, is not immoral, and shouldn't shock anyone. Not only is there no prohibition against nudity in the Ten Commandments; Willis cites biblical passages he interprets as advocating nudity.

With Playboy, Out and Penthouse flooding the newsstands, the Cheetah II operating in Half Day, and Deep Throat making the movie circuit, nude sunbathing seems rather tame.

Yet nude sunbathing in the forest preserve or in a private backyard remains against the law.

TALL, THIN, ENOUGH to blend into the grasses of the forest preserve, with intense blue eyes behind dark-framed glasses, Willis says the police and state's attorney have said he'd be arrested for sunning in the nude.

He'd be charged, they said, with indecent exposure, lewd behavior, obscenity, or if all else fails, with being a public nuisance and disturbing the peace.

He has sunbathed nude near a forest preserve. "You feel part of nature. Nothing is wearing clothing; the sky, sun, flowers, trees and birds are all nude. It would be nice to stay there always."

Nudity to Willis is primarily a Christian thing. He can cite the Illinois Appellate Court decision in 1957 which held that nudity is not obscene without lewdness. But his main concern is that nudity is okay with God.

"He made us this way. He can do no evil. If he creates us this way, it must be a good thing. The body is fine; we really shouldn't feel badly about it," he said.

DRESSED IN A purple-and-white striped shirt, purple tie and dark trousers, Willis talks in an office of a large housewares firm where he is employed as a marketing statistician. He's been married for many years and is the father of two girls and he is an active Catholic.

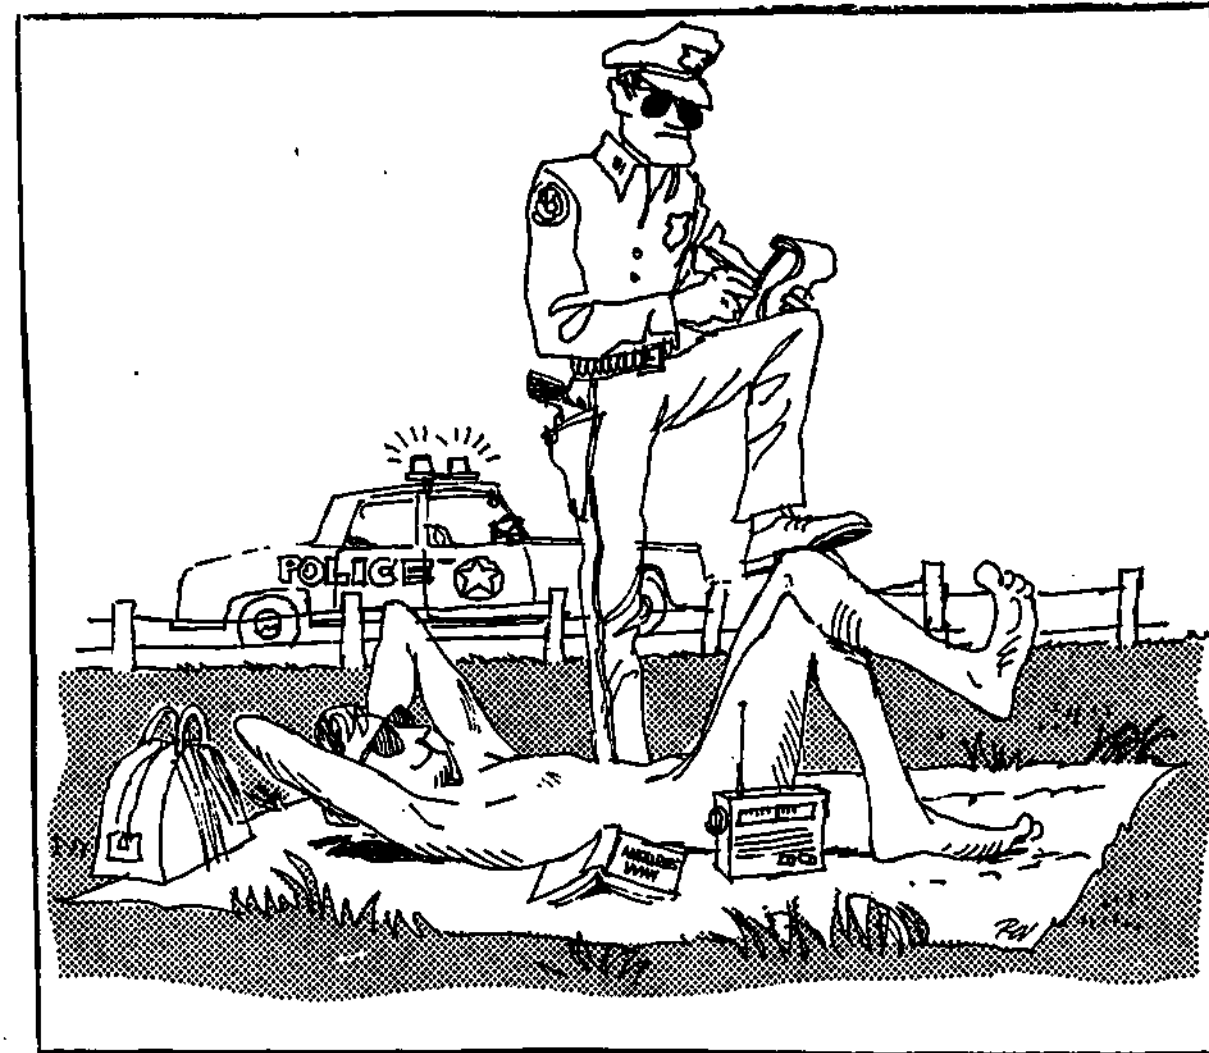

His family is not all that thrilled about TAN. His wife and 22-year-old daughter would just as soon have nothing to do with it. The little one, age nine, is "outgoing" and she's all for it, he says.

Some people might say Willis is slightly strange. Maybe even very strange. Especially when he discusses the dream that led him to his nudity theory and describes God as a being higher than the Supreme Court.

But Willis doesn't care if he's thought eccentric. "I think people are entitled to their opinion. I think of Columbus in his day — he was thought of as eccentric too. I realize I don't sound normal. I expect that."

ACTUALLY, to talk to him, Jim Willis sounds quite normal. Nude sunbathing is just not that odd. There are nude beaches in California and along the East Coast, he points out. Magazines are devoted to nude sunbathing. He shows pictures of nude people of various shapes and sizes, wandering along a beach — one is a clipping from a Chicago daily.

The difference is this: a cause for Jim Willis. Like in the 1960s when he marched with Martin Luther King. Now he's trying to get the Hanover Park Human Relations Commission to mediate his complaint against the police department. He says they are harassing him. "Well you could call it information or harassment depending on your point of view. They say they'll arrest me if I sunbathe in the nude."

A legal test of nudity-prohibiting ordinances is an idea he has in mind. Willis said he may sunbathe again to get arrested so he can begin court proceedings.

"I see the purpose of TAN to make nudity, maybe even sex, a more complete part of life — rather than a separate and distinct taboo," Willis says. Nudity should be natural, not erotic or titillating. It could take the edge off pornography.

He points to Denmark where pornography is not only legal but on display in many areas, and no longer of interest to anyone but the tourists.

NUDITY SHOULD be an everyday normal occurrence, Willis says. Another type of freedom of expression. However, he isn't willing to advocate strolling in Marshall Field's naked. "You walk before you run," he says.

In fact, he would just as soon the name of his employer isn't mentioned in this article. He doesn't think anyone would mind really, but he'd like to keep this a part of his private life.

A few people where he works are keyed into TAN, he says (there are only four active members thus far though), and he has posted notices at work advising people to listen to his radio presentations. He doesn't mention the subject, but anyone listening will get the message.

Nudity should be legalized, Willis says. It should be a matter of free choice. And essentially, as he points out, nudity doesn't hurt anybody.

"It's not a bad thing, like murder, you know."

Nude cyclist only wanted notice

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — It was a beautiful spring day, and one young sun worshiper took advantage of it by riding a bicycle nude for about four miles in the busy suburban Clayton shopping district.

The attractive, blond-tressed young lady wore only a sign saying, "Don't arrest me, I'm en route to analysis."

The 26-year-old cyclist pedaled past the St. Louis County Government Center, the Courthouse and the St. Louis County Police Department.

Security guard Walter Stogsdlil gallantly offered the modern-day Lady Godiva his coat when she paused at a stop sign, but she refused it, saying, "I want to get a sunburn. It looks like you could use some sun yourself."

She told police who finally picked her up and took her to St. Louis County Hospital for observation, "I guess nobody noticed me."

Social service seminar set

A seminar for policemen and representatives of social service agencies, medical and recreational groups, and schools will be held in the Northwest suburbs May 21.

The seminar, which will focus on helping youths in trouble, will include representatives from the communities of Buffalo Grove, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Mount Prospect, Niles, Park Ridge, Prospect Heights and Wheeling.

Sponsored by the Cook County Sheriff's Youth Services Department, the seminar has an over-all goal of coordinating various youth serving agencies within the local area.

The seminar will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Holiday Inn, 200 E. Rand Rd., Mount Prospect.

Among the speakers will be Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert, Cook County Sheriff Richard Elrod and Dr. William Simon of the Institute for Juvenile Research.

Watergate takes spotlight at GOP salute to Crane

Some 350 Northwest suburban Republicans met last week for a salute to U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, and as in most political gatherings these days, the dominant topic was Watergate.

Both Crane and Rep. Steven Symms, freshman Republican congressman from Idaho told some 350 guests at the Marriott Hotel that Watergate was the result of excesses of overzealous presidential advisers.

Crane echoed the theme which President Nixon emphasized in his televised address on Watergate and which seems to be developing into the GOP's line of defense in the scandal. Watergate, in the last analysis, "is the vindication of our system," Crane said.

He said the scandal proved that a free press and an independent judiciary provide adequate safeguards against misconduct in the executive branch of government.

CRANE EARLIER had volunteered praise for the Washington Post, understating his feelings about that newspaper by saying he is "no great champion" of its editorial policies. "But the Post clearly earned the Pulitzer Prize" for its Watergate reporting, he said.

He was somewhat less gracious in reference to the Post when he addressed the $50-per-plate dinner guests. He told the guests many conservatives consider the Post "Pravda on the Potomac," but conceded that the GOP must "give the devil its due" in this case.

Crane and Symms agreed that if President Nixon had responsibility for Watergate, it was in choosing the type of advisers who shielded him from unpleasant news.

Talking to reporters, Crane cited a statement by chief adviser H. R. Halde- man that his policy in talking with the President was "never to let him hear anything to the left of his most liberal position, or anything to the right of his most conservative position."

The presidential staff, said Symms, was dominated by "pragmatists."

"THE PROBLEM with the pragmatic approach as opposed to the philosophical approach," he said, "is that the pragmatic approach leads to the conclusion that the end justifies the means."

Crane said "the overwhelming number of slick young professionals involved were men of no philosophical commitment.

"The more of these pragmatic opportunists we can get out of politics, the better off we will be. You can deal with men who are committed to a philosophy because you know where they stand."

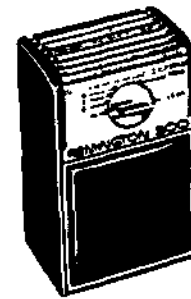

Crane also praised Symms and Rep. Trent Lott of Mississippi, who was unable to make a scheduled appearance at the dinner, as typical of a new breed of dedicated conservatives who he said are becoming a growing influence in Congress.

"Of the 44 freshman Republican representatives, easily 35 of them are men who share the philosophy of those of us in this room," he declared.

GUESTS AT THE dinner included Cook County State's Atty. Bernard Carey and township GOP committeemen Richard Cowen of Wheeling, Carl Hansen of Elk Grove, Bernard Pedersen of Palatine, and state Rep. Donald Totten of Schaumburg. Congratulatory telegrams to Crane were received from President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

George Busse of Mount Prospect, dinner chairman, said proceeds from the dinner will help defray office expenses of Crane, which he said are not fully covered by Crane's governmental allowance.

Religion Today

by Rev. Lester Kinsolving

SALT LAKE CITY—In 1960, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormons) had a membership of 1.6 million. As of the first of this year, this membership, in 78 countries, has doubled to 3.2 million.

This spectacular growth is due to a number of amazing things, not the least of which is the denomination's annual General Conference here. This really isn't a conference at all, because it is totally devoid of conferring.

Nobody ever questions the maintenance of this self-perpetuating hierarchy—which runs things with an impressive and unchallenged precision that would make old Vatican hands weep with envy.

Nobody ever asks for a full financial report of what may well be the nation's most enormous church treasury. And the canny First Presidency and Quorum of the Twelve Apostles keep the rank and file Saints apparently satisfied and dazzled with spectacular buildings. (Currently there is a $30 million office building opening here to house the Mormon headquarters offices, with $15 million more allocated for a similar building in Manhattan; as well as another $18 million for a new Temple in Silver Springs, Md., near Washington, D.C.)

FAR FROM providing any time for discussion or (God forbid) dissent, the Mormon General Conference consists entirely of 6,000 extremely clean cut and wholesome people of all ages in what for the late 20th century is the well nigh unbelievable activity of sitting for three days to hear addresses by three dozen elderly men.

Similarly miraculous is the fact that these Mormon leaders, men of genius in business affairs and ecclesiastical recruitment, are, with one or two exceptions, capable of delivering thoroughly prosaic and theologically puerile messages.

Considering the fact that the LDS Church is now tied with the Episcopalians as the nation's fourth largest denomination, these speeches are as dreadful as if the late John F. Kennedy had had his inaugural address ghost-written by Art Linkletter and Edgar Guest.

This seems to bother the earnest assemblage not one whit. It may even be more Mormon genius. For 4,000 of the 6,000 in the capacity Tabernacle congregation (with thousands more waiting in line outside) are bishops and stake presidents. They would probably be satisfied if President Harold B. Lee, a well-groomed and congenial man with an impressive voice, were to decide to test their obedience by a verbatim reading of 10 pages of the Salt Lake City telephone directory.

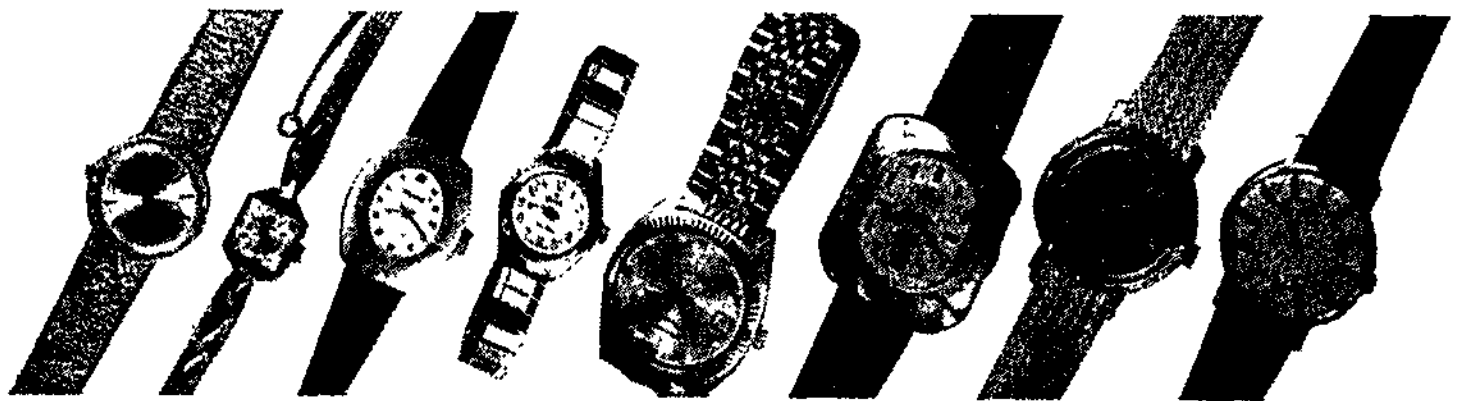

FOR EACH ONE of these secularily employed "nor prelates is aware that this power structure may, someday elevate him to the top LDS chairs. And this will mean that he too may speak to an international TV-radio hookup, as well as to a live congregation of 6,000 attentive people who hang upon his every word—even though he may not have the slightest forensic of literary skill or experience. What's more, his message—however purgatorial it may be to the listeners—will be back-dropped by something quite evidently out of Paradise: 400 voices, which no less a musician than Eugene Ormandy has described as the greatest choir in the world.

In how many other denominations can businessmen counteract the often painful or even lethal jolt of retirement by: (1) Being elevated to a group which has absolute control over the accumulation and spending of perhaps billions of dollars, and (2) Having one's words broadcast annually over 300 radio and TV stations, accompanied by the Mormon Tabernacle Choir?

Every member of this absolutely angelic choral group is a volunteer—as is another LDS glory: its 17,000 missionaries.

Would that the speakers at General Conference were not so drastic a contrast.

Skyrocketing prices push many out of the market

Is owning a home an impossible 'dream'?

ing codes too add to the cost of home building. But in Arlington Heights, which has long had a reputation for strict and costly construction standards, the building code is really just good building practice, he says.

"For instance, we require a self-sealing roof (one that is designed to prevent leaks) because this is the second high-wind area of the country," he says.

Building code requirements that may raise the initial cost of home building often will result in long-term savings to the homeowner, Munson says.

"Insulation is a real good example. Thicker insulation, insulation that carries a higher rating, will cost the builder more, but will save the homeowner money in both heating and air conditioning."

BUT IT IS precisely this kind of additional "hidden" costs — costs that cannot be passed along easily to the home buyer — that builders seek to avoid.

"Housing remains profitable as long as the builder can pass along the cost of development to the buyer," says Nick Jannotta, senior vice president with Real Estate Research Corp., Chicago, a national real estate consulting firm.

Where the benefits from building code requirements are not obvious to the home buyer, the builder has "an educational job to do," Munson says.

Rising costs have struck the apartment housing market too and in many areas rents have gone so high that tenants are abandoning their apartments for condominium units which they can own for the same monthly payment.

BOTH APPRAISERS Jannotta

and Gunderlach agree that the lower-priced townhouses and condominiums that are being substituted for single-family homes are in part a creature of today's money market.

"The 'cow pasture' builders aren't selling housing so much as they're selling financing," Jannotta says.

"I don't know about the future of condominiums," Gunderlach admits, "but I think we may see some big flops if we get into another credit crunch like the one that occurred in 1969-70."

Mortgage interest rates fluctuate. The rate is about 7.25 per cent, but is expected to jump to 7.5 per cent in the months ahead.

The decline in single-family building throughout the Chicago metropolitan area in recent years is well-evidenced in the Northwest suburbs.

THE NUMBER OF housing permits issued in Arlington Heights has dropped each year since 1967 when a record 805 permits, representing $22.8 million worth of construction, were recorded. It's the same with most older suburban communities.

Last year, by contrast, 471 permits were issued, representing a housing value of $16.7 million.

Bell Federal Savings and Loan Association, Chicago, which issues a monthly statistical survey on housing in the metropolitan area, reported that home construction last year dropped 6 per cent from 1971.

Today, there is not a major new single-family subdivision pending in Arlington Heights and every new multi-family development now being proposed is condominium in form.

As new housing starts decline and building costs increase, older homes take on added value because of what Jannotta calls "replacement costs."

"When an appraiser goes out to look at a house today one of the things he has to keep in mind is what it would cost to replace this older home with a new house. As new housing costs increase, so do the values of older homes," he says.

THERE MAY BE no better example of rapid appreciation than in Rolling Meadows, says Gunderlach. Most houses there were selling for about $12,500 when the city was incorporated 18 years ago. Today the same house is selling for $25,000 to $26,000 and still going up, he says.

Howard Kagay, a real estate expert with Baird and Warner Inc., says a strong demand, limited supply and ready money have turned today's housing sales into a strong seller's market.

"An average house (in the Northwest suburbs) today will be on the market maybe two weeks, whereas several years ago the average was 45 to 60 days," Kagay says.

Sellers are quick to adjust their prices and more often than not are getting the full or near the full asking price for the house.

"A man hears what a neighbor down the street got for his house and then raises his price accordingly," Kagay says.

"I paid $300 more than the asking price when I bought my home in my community, simply because there were several buyers who had made offers on the property," Jannotta recalls.

IN MANY AREAS, older homes tend to take on "character" which also affects prices, he says. Character often comes down to features like bigger trees, better locations and established neighborhoods.

Typically, people prefer moving into an established area, the experts seem to agree.

Snob appeal is another intangible that bears on the cost of housing.

"Money tends to go with money. For years the North Shore has had the reputation as the gold coast of the Chicago metropolitan area. Its residents have higher incomes and were considered better educated, more concerned, involved and successful in planning their communities," Jannotta says.

"Generally, as long as neighborhoods remain stable, well-located in relation to transportation, shopping and schools, the market is good and values are appreciating," he summed up.

GIVEN THAT NEW housing is getting more and more difficult to create, because of costs linked to land, materials, building codes and labor, large building corporations have begun looking for a way to beat the cost spiral.

Townhouses and condominiums have been one answer, but they are not an ultimate solution, according to Chester Moskal, vice president of Miller Builders, one of the largest home builders in the Northwest suburbs.

"Today's builder has got to look for cost-savings in materials and lower cost in construction and installation," Moskal says, citing materials like aluminum studs, plastic pipe, metal joists and component (prefab) construction.

Municipal requirements for street and underground improvements are also raising development costs, he says, adding that these costs are hard to pass on to the buyers.

"It's not easy to convince a prospective buyer that he has got brighter street lights or better (underground) pipes and should therefore pay more money."

AT THE TIME Miller Builders began developing the Northgate subdivision in Arlington Heights, about four years ago, the cost of land improvements was about $3,800 per lot, Moskal says. Today the price has risen to $5,700 per lot.

With many building trade union contracts expiring June 1, further labor increases this construction season are a virtual certainty.

"We don't know what increases to expect because no one has said what the (union) demands are going to be," Moskal says.

According to Munson, some builders are already hedging against the possibility of summer strikes among some trade workers.

Despite the inflationary costs, the experts seem to agree that today's housing market is as strong as any in years.

THE 1973 SEASON may not be a "boom" year in traditional terms which emphasize the number of new homes constructed.

But in dollars and cents, the market is "fantastic," Moskal says. "We're expecting our best sales year ever." Scarcity has brought prosperity, at least among housing hawkers.

It was probably a man with a "slow mover," a house that wasn't selling, who first coined the phrase, "Every house has its buyer." Today, those once almost desperate words of optimism have become watchwords of the industry.

Harper College starts teacher evaluation plan

Harper College today has a plan under which department chairmen, students and teachers will evaluate the college's faculty.

By a 7-0 vote the Harper board Thursday approved a plan calling for teachers to be evaluated by their department chairmen, fellow teachers and for the first time, students. Various weights will be applied to each group's or individual's evaluation in reaching an overall rating.

Questions about composition of a committee to review the plan and about a merit pay program, however, failed to delay the board's approval.

Faculty members Robert Broeke said he was concerned with a proposal that two students would sit on a committee to review the implementation of the plan. He said he questioned the "accountability" of students, who remain at the Palatine community college only two years.

Simeon Ugwu, student senate president, said the faculty was concerned because they suspected that "two students could vote with the administration and the faculty would lose." Also included on the review committee are three faculty members and two administrators.

COLLEGE PRES. Robert Lahti said the weight of the student vote was a matter up to the committee and not the decision for the board. By a 7-0 vote, the entire system was approved.

Later in the meeting, Thomas McCabe, Faculty Senate president, asked whether the newly adopted evaluation system ruled out merit pay for teachers about to sign 1973-74 contracts. He said the faculty did not want merit pay.

Board members and administrators replied that a decision on merit pay was a prerogative of the board, perhaps to be reached at a later date. McCabe countered that he urged the board to reach a decision on the matter before faculty members went on vacation this summer.

The plan, to go into effect this fall, will set up an evaluation procedure in four areas: instruction, institutional service, professional growth and community services.

In instruction, 35 per cent of the weight is given to division chairmen and 35 per cent to fellow teachers, while students evaluation is worth 30 per cent.

THE EVALUATION system has been under study since last year. Students have a voice in teacher evaluation for the first time under the new plan.

The only board members voicing dissent to the plan was William Kelly, who said he supported the plan with "great reluctance." He said he opposed peer evaluation and supported self-evaluation, but since the plan "was the result of many meetings," Kelly said he would vote yes.

In other action the board accepted the resignation of Roy A. Sedrel as director of computer services, effective at the end of the spring semester.

Lahti, in a memo directed to the board, said "Mr. Sedrel has been a loyal and dedicated administrator while serving as our computer center director, but wishes new challenges in his career. He has made valuable contributions to Harper during his tenure of service to the college."

Would increase U.S. food exports

Agriculture Secretary Butz urges Nixon trade bill OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said America's farmers can outsell the world if Congress gives President Nixon power to make concessions in order to open new markets for U.S. foodstuffs.

In testimony prepared for the House Ways and Means Committee, Butz appealed for passage of Nixon's trade bill.

The bill gives Nixon unprecedented powers to open U.S. doors to foreign manufactured products in exchange for a relaxation of Europe's barriers to the products of America's farmland.

Exports now account for the produce of more than 80 million American acres and more than $1 out of every $5 earned by farmers, Butz said.

Projected annual increases of 5 per cent a year will prove too modest if "we negotiate the reduction of barriers which distort the flow of agricultural trade among nations," he said.

Allowing farmers to put idle land into production benefits everyone, he said. Last year's increased exports of grains and soybeans — to Russia and elsewhere — created more than 100,000 non-farm jobs, he said.

The time is right to increase exports, he said, because the world's appetite for American meat and wheat is growing.

A year later: the Wallace tragedy

by BESSIE FORD

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace started to cancel his presidential campaign trip to Maryland on May 15, 1972 — not because of any premonition of danger but because the pilot who was to fly him hadn't shown up on time.

When Wallace and his security people arrived at a local landing field that warm Monday morning, the plane was fueled and ready to take off. However, the pilot had misunderstood the schedule and was nowhere around.

Wallace's campaign director, Charles Snider, was notified of the mixup. He assured the impatient Wallace he would get the pilot to the airport and the trip could be made, even if the departure was a little late.

E. C. Dothard, Wallace's chief state security man, remembers the day well, and how the governor sat in the backseat of a car reading the morning paper while the group waited for the pilot to arrive and fly them to Maryland.

THE FIRST RALLY of the day was at Wheaton, Md., and it went badly. Hecklers hurled eggs and other missiles at Wallace. They got so rough he decided against wading into the crowd to shake the few friendly hands.

Dothard was glad when the governor stopped quickly into the waiting car rather than risk aggravating the crowd further.

Wallace and the rest of his group went on to lunch. Wallace had a hamburger. Because of the heckling at Wheaton, Dothard recalls that he and other security men were worried about the next rally, at Laurel. They thought that perhaps the hecklers from Wheaton might follow them there.

But they were pleasantly surprised by the Laurel crowd, gathered at a shopping center. It gave Wallace and his party a very friendly welcome. They were so friendly, Dothard said, that he did not object when Wallace decided to shake hands with the people, leaving the bullet-proof shielded podium that was part of his standard campaign travel equipment.

"THAT CROWD was 98 per cent for us," said Dothard, who Wallace subsequently promoted to director of public safety and chief of the state troopers.

Wallace had autographed several pictures, pumped the hands of many well-wishers who leaned over the ropes to greet him, and had just about reached the corner of the cordoned area when the first shot rang out.

According to some versions of that assassination attempt, Arthur Bremer, a blondish former busboy from Milwaukee, was thought to have called out to Wallace to shake his hand to get near him. Neither Wallace nor Dothard, who was standing at his boss' left shoulder, can remember Bremer in the crowd.

Dothard thought the first shot, from a .38-calibre revolver was a firecracker that had been thrown from the back of the crowd by an anti-Wallace spectator. But more shots rang out, and Wallace and Dothard were knocked backward, both hit as were a Secret Service agent and a woman bystander.

DOTHARD RECEIVED only a flesh wound in the abdomen. From where he was sprawled he could see that Wallace, lying on the ground, was still conscious although his blue short-sleeved shirt was spattered with blood.

Mrs. Wallace, who had moved away from Wallace just before the shooting to talk to a woman who was an enthusiastic Wallace supporter, threw herself on top of her husband to protect him. His blood stained her yellow dress.

After first being put in a station wagon and then shifted to an ambulance when it arrived, Wallace and Dothard and some 10 other persons were loaded into the emergency vehicle and whisked off to a hospital. Wallace has said he prayed during that trip, and that he was in considerable pain.

Dothard, who had been at Wallace's elbow almost constantly since 1963, remembers asking one of the other security men how fast they were traveling. "When he told me we were going 110 miles per hour, I thought that was mighty fast," he said.

AFTER 54 DAYS in hospitals and a series of operations that saved his life but could not restore the use of his paralyzed legs, Wallace has begun to look more like the old fiery politician. He looks subdued in his wheelchair, but political talk still serves as a tonic that his doctors heartily prescribe.

He read Bremer's diary while he still was hospitalized at Silver Spring, Md., and learned that the young man had been stalking him. He talks about the shooting now almost as though it happened to someone else.

Wallace never has talked to Bremer, but says he has forgiven him and hopes that the young man, described as a "loner" by his Milwaukee neighbors, has asked forgiveness for himself.

Although he has had a year's bout with pain that sometimes drains the color from his face, Wallace still has a sense of humor and occasionally can make a joke about the shooting.

He said doctors told him that if he had known he was going to get shot that day he should have been naked and hungry. He said his clothes and light lunch complicated the surgery to remove the bullets.

WALLACE, WHO WILL celebrate his 54th birthday in August, has lost all hopes of being able to walk. Now shriveled to about half their normal size, his legs are only dead weight because of the spinal cord injury sustained in the shooting. He exercises on braces and sometimes on crutches but that is only designed to help the circulation in the rest of his body. He can stand only with support.

While critics were reluctant at first to say anything against Wallace after the shooting, some have since said he seems incapable of running the state and certainly should not consider a third bid for president.

However, Wallace has shown no signs of throwing in the political towel. When he was told he had won the Maryland and Michigan primaries the day after he was shot, he grinned.

Less than two months after the shooting, he flew to the Democratic National Convention at Miami Beach. He was unable to sway the delegates controlled by Sen. George McGovern, but he felt as though he had made his point later when McGovern was crushed in the election.

WALLACE'S ASSOCIATES think he will try for the presidential nomination again in 1976, refusing to let his wheelchair knock him out of the political arena. Dothard thinks his boss can campaign as well as ever.

Even before 1976, Wallace has to make another big political decision — whether to risk another gubernatorial race for an unprecedented third term. His friends say there is no decision to make; they say he already has made up his mind to run and only has to decide on his strategy.

A local newspaper, Montgomery Advertiser, has been critical of the Wallace administration since his 1965-66 term, and its editor-publisher, Harold Martin, suggests Wallace resign for health reasons. Martin charged that a group of parasites had moved into the driver's seat and was going to bring disgrace to Wallace.

Wallace still runs the executive department, he and his staff insist.

"We can tell he is just about back to normal," one aide said. "He isn't meek anymore when he asks that something be done. He just tells you and he wants action before he gets off the phone."

Bremer shunned in prison

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Arthur Herman Bremer, 22, the would-be slayer of Gov. George Wallace, is not popular with fellow prisoners in the Maryland State Penitentiary where he is serving a 53-year term. They leave him alone.

Two months after he began serving his term last summer, Bremer was involved in an altercation with another prisoner, claiming the man had made a homosexual advance.

The incident was investigated and the charge dismissed. Authorities held that Bremer initiated the fight. Since then Bremer has been left pretty much to himself.

Prison authorities describe him as moody, a nuisance, unwilling to talk with other prisoners and content to read and watch television. He has a job in the prison print shop, wrapping packages and doing other menial tasks. Prison spokesman Robert Grams says Bremer is seen often toting three or four books, but Grams doesn't know what he reads.

Bremer's original sentence was 63 years but this later was reduced to 53. He would be eligible for parole in 12 years under this sentence. Federal charges are still pending against him, however. These are being held in abeyance. U.S. Attorney George Beall has said he is reluctant to prosecute until all appeals have been disposed of.

In prison, Bremer has refused all requests for interviews. Most of his hours are spent alone in his 12 by 12-foot cell.

The Lighter Side...by Dick West

Telephones on TV make it hard to doze

WASHINGTON — I'm sure the Federal Communication Commission gets a lot of crank mail but I hope they won't dismiss this as just another crackpot complaint.

There's an insidious practice on television that the FCC should investigate. Here's the scene:

You are watching a late night talk show, or maybe a Sunday afternoon panel program, and you drop off to sleep. This is the most gratifying type of sleep known to man.

Studies have shown that a seven-minute nap during a panel program does more to knit the raveled sleeve of care than four hours of conventional sack time.

BUT BEFORE you can catch 40 winks (37 winks is the national average) your slumber is shattered by a ringy-dingy or two.

Fighting your way out of the fog, you stumble to the telephone. By which time the ringing has stopped.

It is then you realize it wasn't your telephone that was ringing. It was your television set.

This has happened to me so often I am now convinced it is a network conspiracy. Several times recently I caught them at it when I was awake.

There is this commercial with two housewives blocking the aisle of a supermarket while they extol the merits of a new oven cleaner. Midway through their colloquy, a telephone rings.

THE PHONE HAS absolutely no connection with oven cleaning. It obviously was arbitrarily superimposed on the sound track for the purpose of waking you up. And that's just one example.

Phones ring on street corners. In bank lobbies. In gas stations. On sand dunes. Ice floes. Wherever commercial is filmed.

It's a plot, folks. The networks know the human nervous system has a Pavlovian-like response to the telephone. A viewer may sleep through ball games, gun fights, sonic booms and senatorial interviews. But the telephone activates a visceral reflex that penetrates the subconscious.

They've even learned to anticipate the peak dozing off periods and to counteract them telephonically.

IT'S UNDERSTANDABLE, of course. Commercials are expensive and they don't want to take a chance on viewers sleeping through them.

But isn't this another infringement on our privacy and personal liberties? Isn't the right to sleep through a TV program practically guaranteed by the Constitution?

The FCC should stop this sneaky practice immediately. We must make the world safe for cat naps.

Many at-home cures for troublesome plantar warts

Dear Dr. Lamb — I was very interested in the letters concerning plantar warts in the paper.

For a number of years, I was plagued with them and had every conceivable treatment for them. They were cut out slowly, cut out quickly, burned out with a variety of acids, cauterized, X-rayed (to the tune of $25 a treatment) and even ultra-sound was tried. After an extensive surgical removal, which kept me on crutches and in and out of a hospital for three months, they grew back again. I was convinced nothing short of amputation would rid me of them. (I had nightmares about getting plantar warts on my stump!)

My husband was a medical student at the time and finally agreed to "search" for a cure. He found it in "The British Journal of Dermatology, 1963." It consisted of a paste of 20 per cent linseed oil, 20 per cent podophyllin in a base of lanolin. It was applied to the wart for seven days, covered and kept dry the entire time. After seven days, I removed the "plaster" and left it alone. Three months later I was completely free of warts, and have been to this day — nine years later.

We have since recommended it to others who had other unsuccessful treatments, and it worked for them too.

When I think of all the money, time and pain that was wasted on these other treatments, I shudder. The only problem I have now is a very sensitive scar from one of the surgical excisions.

Please pass this tip on to other "victims" and dermatologists alike. The entire cost of this "miracle cure" was one dollar!

Here's hoping everyone can be "plantar wart" free — and painlessly so!

Dear Reader — You won't be surprised to know that I received a long list of cures for warts, and I am glad to have yours. It is included here so various readers troubled with this problem can try it or ask their doctor if he wants to try it.

I was interested to know that many of the cures suggested included covering up the wart in some type of seal over a length of time. One of the suggested cures was to cover the wart with collodion for 10 days. Of course there were numerous suggestions about the use of liquid nitrogen which some doctors use with success.

While some of the treatments that have been suggested are very good, I must caution that some apparent cures are the result of spontaneous disappearance of warts that can, and sometimes does, occur.

Dear Dr. Lamb — The complicated procedures doctors use to remove plantar warts is a disgrace. My daughter had these warts all over her feet and they were removed several times by our doctor but always came back. Each removal left big scars. Then she got several on her face.

I read about a mixture that sounds ridiculous but we tried it and it works — just a few drops of spirits of camphor mixed with ordinary baking soda. I don't know why, but after three days she had no more warts. Please put this in your newspaper articles and let your readers decide for themselves. Thank you.

Dear Reader — Okay. But if it's a wart on the face I'd be happier if it was tried under a doctor's supervision, if at all.

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Oswald: "Defensive discard signals give the defenders a chance to reduce some of declarer's advantage, but they only work if both partners know what they are doing."

Jim: "The basic principle of defensive discarding is that a high card indicates strength and a low card weakness, but there is a most important corollary here. This is that when showing strength with one of equals you should always play the highest."

Oswald: "West opened the Jack of hearts and continued after South ducked. South won and played clubs. East held off until he was able to take dummy's queen with his ace. Then East cashed his last two hearts. South discarded the eight and four of spades and West dropped the 10-spot."

Jim: "East promptly led a spade. South guessed to play the Jack and the king became the eighth trick. East was indignant about his partner's strength-showing discard."

Oswald: "East was also 100 per cent wrong. The 10-spot discard showed strength but it also denied the Jack so East should simply have led a diamond

DuBrow on TV...by Rick DuBrow

Sportscasters strike out! Talent hunt badly needed

HOLLYWOOD — With sports the big attraction they are on television, you would think the networks would somehow be able to come up with more announcers as colorful and enjoyable as the events they are broadcasting.

With the exception of a few notable sportscasters, the announcers thrust upon the public are so mediocre and faceless that you have to assume television believes the events themselves are so attractive that almost anyone can go through the play-by-play and commentary chores.

NBC-TV has Curt Gowdy, who could take his place in an era of sportscasting as a reporter of class, sense and balance. He knows just when to turn on the emotion, and when to let events carry themselves. And the reason for this is that he obviously has a balanced view of life and his profession.

ABC-TV has Howard Cosell, who is undeniably a star in his field, but who falls into the category of an acquired taste. He knows his stuff, all right, but he is abrasive to many viewers, and seems to operate on the theory that few pictures are worth a thousand words, especially if they are his thousand words, and most especially if they are sprinkled liberally with four-syllable words. But all this, of course, is his stock in trade as a personality.

ABC-TV also has Keith Jackson, one of the most underrated sports announcers. He seems to be able to handle just about any chore, and he has much more in common with Gowdy than Cosell, but he also has a highly individual and recognizable voice and approach. Like Gowdy, he has the skill to blend straight play-by-play reporting with colorful commentary. And he has the perspective and humor that all truly topflight broadcasters must have if they are not to become boring.

I've suggested before that Jackson and ex-basketball star and coach Bill Russell are the best sportscasting team on network television, and I think the way they have worked together covering National Basketball Association games has been one of the genuine pleasures in television.

Russell has tended to get a little repetitious in his drill asides, but he has such a wealth of information to offer about his sport, and delivers it in such an engaging manner, that any criticism of his technique is just quibbling.

NOW, OF all things, an NBC-TV executive once told me that his network wouldn't go for sports commentary with a flashy tone because it considered itself the good, gray institution of television. Obviously, times and Howard Cosell have changed all that. But it does seem odd that networks have to be so desperate to find hyped-up angles to sportscasting when professionals, given their head, can do the job.

Aside from the Gowdys and Cosells and Jacksons and Russells, there must surely be plenty of other talented sportscasters. The only thing you can figure is that the networks need some astute talent scouts to seek them out — in the same way that other outstanding on-camera figures in video are discovered. ## Foreign companies join for television productions MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UPI) — Some of the most important programs now being made for television are co-productions by companies in different countries combining to meet the ever rising costs.

Francis Essex, one of Britain's leading television experts, believes this is a good trend for the industry on both sides of the Atlantic providing it is not forgotten that local programming is also an important part of television fare.

Essex, who is production controller for Associated Television (ATV), spoke at the 13th annual International Television Festival of Monte Carlo, sponsored by Prince Rainier. Into the daily run of big specials from a score of countries he dropped two programs — one on angling, one on gardening — which created a stir though they cost only $3,300 each.

TV notes

ABC's college football schedule for the fall will consist of 37 games, 13 national and 24 regional telecasts. First one is UCLA vs. Nebraska Sept. 8.

CBS has signed former pro football star Pat Summerall, who has been with the network since 1962, to a long-term exclusive contract for covering various sports.

"Airport," a major motion picture that has been one of Hollywood's biggest moneymakers, will have its television debut on ABC in the 1973-74 season.

Movie star Burt Reynolds, who has starred in two video series, will head up six late-night 90-minute shows for NBC in 1973-74. They will be talk-variety programs, taped wherever Reynolds may chance to be at any given time. There will be guest stars. They will be aired at 11:30 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays. ## Local lobbyist a poor idea Hiring a lobbyist to represent local governments in Springfield would be nothing more than a new method of wasting our hard-earned tax dollars.

We don't need more representation in Springfield, especially that unofficial kind, for we already have five state senators (Glass, Graham, Regner, Nimrod and Mohr) and 15 state representatives (Duff, Porter, Katz, Friedland, LaFleur, Mugallian, Totten, Juckett, Schlickman, Jaffe, Walsh, Bluthardt and Williams, and Mrs. Macdonald and Chapman).

These men and women — 20 of them — should not, of course, limit their scope of concern to the Northwest suburbs. They have responsibilities for the welfare of the entire state, as well as their home communities.

But a locally supported proposal to hire a lobbyist to permit some local officials to "keep in touch" with Springfield legislators seems to be a plan to avoid having to deal with duly-elected state legislators.

The plan, backed in varying forms by Mayors Bob Atcher, Robert Teichert and Roland Meyer, is ostensibly designed to look after "special interest" legislation; in Atcher's case, he has expressed special concern about legislation which might redistribute tax revenue from regional shopping centers.

We share his concern with the legislation. We don't feel, however, it's prudent to hire a lobbyist and thus to dilute further the services of such groups as the Illinois Municipal League or the Northwest Municipal Conference; rather, Atcher, as a first step, should sit down with State Rep. Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, and talk about the problem.

State legislators are supposed to reflect the public's will in their deliberations, and there's the subtle implication in the lobbying efforts that the legislators do not (according to local officials) serve the public. The proposal seems nothing more than a trick to by-pass the legislators.

There's no "special interest" legislation in Springfield that should be important enough to require a middleman between mayors and the legislature. Local officials should have a creative role in working for such legislation, but their first avenue should be directly to local legislators; any plan to hire lobbyists is a waste of money that could be better spent on improving local communities for the common good.

Abe who?

With motherhood out of favor or at least under severe attack, it comes as sad news but no real surprise that another traditional American institution has fallen upon hard times.

This institution is Abraham Lincoln — or to be exact, observances associated with the great man's birthday.

Each year for many years, the Lincoln National Insurance Co. had judged the best editorials and editorial cartoons about Lincoln that appeared in the public prints. During recent years, unfortunately, response to the contest steadily diminished to the point where the element of competition was almost entirely eliminated.

This year, for example, so few cartoons were submitted that each would have had to "place."

In the opinion of Mark E. Neely Jr., editor of the company's "Lincoln Lore," the establishing of "Presidents' Day" in February has had the effect of taking the focus from Lincoln's birthday as an event worthy of comment in itself and blurring it to cover both Lincoln and Washington.

He has therefore regretfully decided to drop the contest indefinitely.

Our fading surplus

President Nixon's plan to sell off the bulk of the nation's $6.25-billion stockpile of strategic goods has run into some snags.

Many of the most desirable items have already been sold, reports Business Week magazine, some $2-billion worth during the Johnson administration.

For example, once-plentiful supplies of nickel are entirely gone, as is more than two-thirds of the copper in the stockpile since 1965.

While items like cobalt and tungsten have good sales prospects, other materials in the stockpile have been replaced commercially by synthetics and have lost much of their value. Still others are "garbage" unfit for sale.

Some materials, such as zinc and aluminum, are covered by long-term disposal agreements and producers would have to renegotiate sell-off rates with the government. Finally, certain markets could be plunged into chaos by too-rapid sell-off, damaging U.S. relations with friendly nations. Items in this category include diamonds and titanium.

The single most valuable item remaining in the strategic stockpile is tin, says the magazine. But selling just "a shade too much" could make the market tumble and wreak havoc in Bolivia and other producing nations.

It was a good idea, while it lasted.

Hits political 'dealing'

Your editorial, "Legislature should go home," properly spotlights some of the forces that bring discredit to state government. Unfortunately, the conclusion suggests a sense of ultimate futility and may encourage your readers to believe that representative government cannot be made to work.

In my opinion, the main hope for political salvation is the election of legislators who are independent of political, economic or sectional pressures. There are a few Illinois legislators of both political parties who are known to reject such pressures and to view themselves as "problem solvers." Unfortunately, they receive pitifully little recognition or encouragement from the media. In fact, our all-too-cynical press frequently considers such men and women as "ineffectual."

As long as the public expects politicians to "play the game" by the old rules, we may never raise the level of government. Your editorial writers may help the situation by explaining why so many members of both the House and Senate will vote the way they are told! They may wish to investigate the reported "deal" by which both the Scenic Rivers Bill and the Lake Michigan Bill of Rights were torpedoed in the House last week.

Essentially, as your editorial suggests, legislative action on important matters is frequently resolved by deals between the leaders on both sides of the aisle. The press and the public must repudiate the "dealers" and support candidates who will act solely on the merits of every issue. Since our political parties are not, at this time, likely to support "issue-oriented" candidates, the public, with media support, must either repudiate both political parties or insist that they fundamentally change the way they operate.

League backs County Board shift

On Monday, May 7, the Board of Commissioners of Cook County will adopt a new reapportionment plan. This plan specifies that the president of the County Board run for that office at-large and also be elected as a commissioner. In addition, the plan calls for the at-large election of nine commissioners from Chicago, instead of the present ten, and six commissioners from suburban Cook County, an increase of one commissioner for that district.

We concur with the board's decision to comply with the one man, one vote criteria, but we do not believe that the proposed ordinance satisfies the changed and changing role of county government.

The 1970 Constitution specifies the president as chief executive officer, assigning to him responsibility for administering the offices, programs and policies of the executive branch of county government, a responsibility he formerly shared with the board of commissioners. We believe the president should run at-large but not be required to be elected as a commissioner.

The grant of home rule power to the board of commissioners gives them legislative authority not previously enjoyed, with the prospect that county government will assume a more active role in the solution of urban problems acting alone or in concert with other units of local government. It becomes imperative, therefore, that the most qualified candidates for these offices be elected.

The League of Women Voters of Cook County recommends that this ordinance be modified to specify election of commissioners from each of nine single-member city districts and six suburban single-member districts, maintaining the integrity of the city-suburban boundary. This change would give the voter only two candidates from his district to evaluate, as opposed to 12 to 18, in addition to candidates for the office of president of the board. The campaign burden for the candidate would also be reduced.

Municipalities whose populations have outgrown the at-large election concept have exercised their statutory prerogative to elect their board members on a district basis. With the burgeoning population of Cook County, we believe it is time for the county to do the same.

Mimi Hynek, President
of Cook County

EDITOR'S NOTE: On May 7, the Cook County board deferred action on the reapportionment plan. It will be acted on within 30 days.

Seeks U.S. honesty

At a recent dinner which I attended, given by the Committee on Illinois Government honoring Abner Mikva for "excellence in politics," the speaker, author David Halberstam, noted that Mikva was "the kind of politician which our founding fathers had in mind."

What an irony to contemplate the significance of this comment at a time when public officials in the highest places in government are deeply involved in corruption and criminality, and remember that Ab Mikva didn't quite make it back to Congress!

EDITORIAL: Changing the role of the grand jury in America.

The press' ego

I was delighted to read the letter written to the Herald by Art Clausen of Conant High School.

In a day and age when "liberalism" is supposedly a sign of profound intellect, especially in our "under 30" population, young Mr. Clausen's views are encouraging.

His statement that "journalists are citizens, too, and should thus be required to submit to the same laws of the land that you and I are subject to" is a statement of fact, disregarded by many working journalists.

There appears to be a point in much of today's reporting when the journalist loses perspective and begins to indulge in his or her own ego satisfaction.

The power of the written word can only be matched by that of the spoken, in this respect politicians and reporters, much to their dismay, have a lot in common.

Tom Wellman Discipline ideas need reviewing

"Do the things you ought to do, whether you want to do them or not," said the school board member ten days ago.

The speaker was Jack Costello, a Dist. 214 board member who was quietly outlining what he felt was the role of his district towards discipline. He was speaking at a meeting called to consider modifying the district's policies.

What Costello was doing, whether he realized it, was hitting on the kingly of the traditional view towards high school discipline which has existed ever since the idea of public education was invented.

Preparation for life, it is called. The theory states that if you learn to lead a well-behaved and responsible life in high school, you are prepared for a lifetime of happiness and wealth (that's implied in the theory) when you become an adult.

Do right, the theory states, and this reporter is not one to quarrel with doing right. After all, I hold down a reasonably responsible job, I clip my fingernails and buy vehicle stickers — and try to avoid trouble before trouble hits me.

But there are others who don't "do right," as public education suggests. Many, many young persons are now living in communes, in a manner that Jack Costello might regard as shocking. And there are other young persons — many of them — who are hitchhiking across America or around the world — in a way we never learned about in school.

At the Dist. 214 discipline meeting, the discussion centered on maintaining order in our high schools — but it was evident that, in many cases, "order" depended on local community standards, even in such areas as dress citizens in such matters.

The point of a locally elected board, however, is to reflect the will of local citizens in such matters as maintaining order. The fact that few members of the public attended reflected general satisfaction with the district's discipline policies — and an acceptance of community standards.

And the district does seem to be keeping order. But there's the sneaky feeling that, in addition to keeping order, individual differences aren't being nurtured in this or any other local district. Conformity is "in;" brash creativity defies the system, and is "out."

Indeed, until the U.S. Supreme Court softened the need for dress codes, school districts could wield absolute dress conformity. Fashion was damned; today, dress must be "disruptive" before school administrators will panic.

Prepare for life, they say about the rules. But what do the rules do for our children when they grow up, move away and inhabit a world where our green suburban values do not exist?

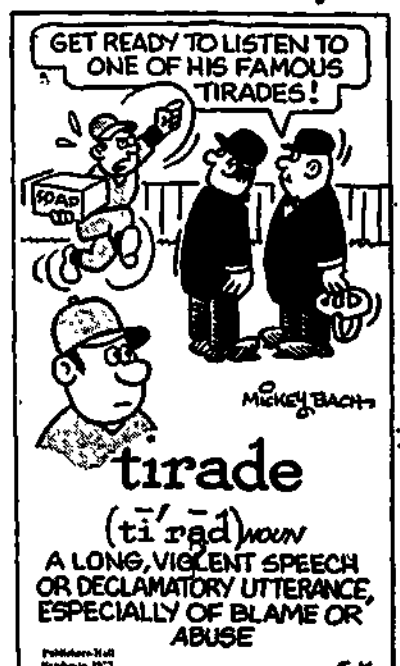

What does it do for children who will confront undreamed-of options? Does it offer them the flexibility to adapt to worlds which operate without schedules, without class changes every 50 minutes? Or does it imprison them with a set of rigid attitudes that deny that different social conditions exist beyond Hoffman Estates and Des Plaines?

Put another way, there's little cultural diversity in the Northwest suburbs. There's no black population of size here, and there's no influx of strikingly different ethnic groups.

There's the danger here that we talk to only ourselves — and we rely on preparing our children for life as we know it. And there's the danger that standardization will destroy whatever shreds of creativity and independence our children possess.

Our children's schools are generally more oriented today towards creativity than ever before, but school-as-preparation-for-life-as-we-see-it remains. Let's keep order in our schools, but let's also consider the attitudes which underlie our concept of order.

Illinois not receptive to self-serves

by LEA TONKIN

Self-service is sweeping the gasoline retailing industry. It's the first major change in service stations in many years, say oil company marketing executives. Unfortunately, it is illegal in Illinois and several other states.

This help-yourself approach is no gimmick, say Mobil Oil Co., Phillips Petroleum and others in this field. In the South and West, stations offering self-service are increasing by the thousands each year. The low cost is appealing to motorists, who are willing to forego the windshield wash and other niceties in order to save four to six cents a gallon.

"In many parts of the country it is legal, and wherever it is, it's on the rise," says Herbert Hugo, Midwest Bureau chief for the Platt's Oilgram publication. Self-service takes on many forms he said, from the unmanned pumps where the motorist hops out and mans the pump, to the more automated systems where an attendant monitors the operation from a nearby booth.

Self-service does cut down on labor costs. Hugo added, "One of the major problems in the industry has been in getting dependable workers, and the public seems to go for self-service."

"But I can't see this sweeping the industry unless some state laws are swept away, too," he continued. Fire hazards prompt the restrictions in Illinois and other states where self-service operations are now effectively banned.

ANOTHER OBJECTION to the self-service stations is the potentially disruptive effect on prices. Cut-rate prices tend to create or aggravate price wars. During the current supply squeeze, however, this may not be a factor.

THIS PROTOTYPE shows the automatic system for fueling current-model cars, using an overhead crane to locate the car's filler pipe and gas cap, magnetically opening the cap and inserting the filler hose.

Hugo says Arco stations are enjoying success in Illinois with the "miniserve" pumps. The motorist pays two cents less a gallon for gasoline, by forfeiting the regular windshield wash, oil check and other services at these special pumps. An attendant pumps the gasoline.

A team of Amoco Oil Co. researchers recently announced they have come up with a completely automatic system of fueling passenger cars. The company has conducted an experimental operation of the self-service concept.

"In spite of electric dispensing pumps, computing registers, and nozzles with automatic shut off, automobile refueling is still basically a manual operation which entails customer inconvenience and excessive service station manpower," said Amoco engineers Irwin Ginsburgh and Theodore O. Wagner.

"AUTOMATIC refueling would benefit the motorists because it requires less effort on his part and is quicker," Ginsburgh maintains. "It is also less likely to spill gasoline or scratch his car. And it could help offset the effects of inflation of gasoline prices."

He added that self-service would benefit a service station operator because it would ease his manpower problems.

Service stations could use automatic refueling in several ways, say the Amoco engineers. It could be the primary fueling method; it could be a companion to conventional equipment; or it could be used at unattended remote locations.

A motorist could drive up to the service area and activate the system by inserting a credit card or token into a computerized control unit, selecting the grade and amount of gasoline desired. At this point, a fueling nozzle would come up out of the ground and couple with the car's filler pipe, forming a vapor tight connection. This would permit the fuel delivery to begin. Bottom loading of fuel tanks would be accomplished through the use of a fueling mechanism located underground, protected with a manhole-type cover when not in use.

UNDERSTANDABLY, dealer associations are lined up solidly against the self-service operations in many states.

Ralph Porcelli, assistant to the executive officer of the Gasoline Retailers Association of Metropolitan Chicago, says the self-service stations could put many people out of work.

Fire hazards are the primary objection to automatic fueling operations, contends Porcelli. In Illinois and other states, safety considerations block the operation of self-service operations. Fire marshals recently closed down self-service operations in Palatine and Wilmette, he said.

"It does save on labor costs," continued Porcelli. "But you're asking a lot of inexperienced people to start looking under their own hood." Tremendous damage could result from mishaps at service stations where 20,000 to 30,000 gallons of fuel may be stored underground, he said.

Business Today

by BERNARD BRENNER

WASHINGTON — The omnibus farm bill approved this week by the Senate Agriculture Committee includes — in addition to headline — catching new programs for grains and cotton — significant new moves to strengthen milk prices.

In last-minute work on the measure, the committee added an amendment lifting dairy price supports for the current 1973-74 marketing year to 80 per cent of the fair earning power parity price.

In a companion move, the panel approved an amendment limiting dairy product imports to 2 per cent of the total annual domestic consumption of milk.

BOTH AMENDMENTS are expected to be opposed by the administration, which has set dairy supports for the current marketing year at the legal floor of 75 per cent of parity, and has been increasing dairy import quotas this year in an effort to counter food inflation for consumers.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz, rejecting appeals for higher supports from dairy lenders and lawmakers, has set this year's milk support at $5.29 per hundredweight, or 75 per cent of parity. Butz had gone a step further by asking Congress to remove, for future years, the legal barrier against setting supports below 75 per cent of parity.

The Senate Agriculture Committee amendment would push supports to roughly about $5.63 a hundredweight for the rest of the year ending March 31, equalling 80 per cent of parity, but would then allow supports in the following year to drop back to 75 per cent of parity.

IN THE IMPORT field, the ceiling imposed by the Senate bill would be above the amount of dairy foods imported last year, but below the amount expected to enter the country this year.

Dairy industry experts estimate that under current law, the import volume permitted by quotas is about 1.6 per cent of national consumption. But this year, using discretionary provisions, the President has already authorized over-quota imports of 25 million pounds of nonfat milk and 64 million pounds of cheese.

In addition, he announced a move Thursday under which a further 60 million pounds of nonfat milk will be admitted by June 30. As a result, total dairy imports for the year ending June 30 will be "well above" the 2 per cent of national consumption ceiling which the Senate amendment would impose.

Wall Street chatter

NEW YORK — "The time frame is narrowing in which the market may switch from a negative psychology to more neutral ground, spurred especially by the availability of a growing number of stocks at irresistibly low bargain price level," the Shearson Investment Policy Letter said. If such a turn-around does develop, the letter cautions the investor not to expect a significant rally in prices because of inflation and lingering uncertainty over the Washington leadership.

The stock market despite its buffeting by Watergate developments and the ebb and flow of anti-inflation hopes is entitled to a rally, according to The Outlook. "Evidence is building up that the market has reached an area that could provide a bulwark against decline for the intermediate future, at least, and one from which a good rebound could be seen," the letter said.

"Favorable earnings, an ultimate determinant in security prices, seems to have been ignored," the Business and Investment Service said. The higher cost of money, market inflation, the balance of payment situation and the unhealthy Watergate situation have combined to erase the good news of higher earnings, according to the service. It urges investors to hold a large proportion of prime securities since they have made a better showing than other stocks in the current market recession.

Energy sources to be tight, Standard Oil exec forecasts

The United States is in for an "extremely tight" supply-and-demand balance of energy sources, according to an officer of Standard Oil (Indiana).

Speaking at the firm's annual meeting, George V. Meyers, executive vice president of the giant petroleum producer, said his company is not now forecasting any need for formal rationing of refined products.

"Spot shortages and tight supplies of light products will prevail, and the industry will be unable to maintain a nationwide balance between supply and demand," Meyers said. "In this supply-limited environment, refiners will be forced to allocate their output."

IN REGARD to gasoline, Meyers said "the gap between supply and demand may be as high as 5 per cent during the heavy summer driving months." He said Standard estimates that the nation's refined product demand in 1973 will increase more than 6 per cent over last year, but that U. S. refinery capacity, already inadequate in relation to product demand, will not be used completely in the short term because of limited crude oil availability.

Myers said the public can make an important contribution to helping the country through a difficult period by voluntarily conserving fuels.

NI-Gas seeking first general rate increase

(UPI) — Northern Illinois Gas Co. has announced it will seek a general rate increase later this year due to increasing costs and decreasing gas supplies.

The company, seeking its first general increase in 20 years, said the request for higher rates will be submitted to the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The company has not yet determined how large an increase it will seek, President C. J. Gauthier said.

He said the company expects to receive 15 per cent less gas this year from its principal pipeline supplier than it did last year. Northern Illinois Gas receives some 820 billion cubic feet of gas per year.

Transcendental meditation

New trend in relaxation

by GENIE CAMPBELL
(First of Two Parts)

My inquiries into transcendental meditation (TM) were acknowledged with smiles, more smiles and enlightening testimonies. Converts who regularly practice the technique lay claim to undiminished sensations of well-being.

"It's soothing, very relaxing... you're just incredibly aware of it after it happens," I was repeatedly told.

Yet though my own appetite for mental tranquility was whetted, the skepticism in me said — o.k., prove it.

Glowing reports that tension and stress fade away by employing a simple, almost mechanical technique requiring only two short quiet periods a day, can be easily misconstrued as a well-designed promotional campaign.

INDEED, WHAT could TM promise in an hour's worth of instruction that advocates of yoga and zen take years to acquire?

Like a number of others I first heard about TM six years ago when, in true Hollywood style, it gained overnight notoriety with the Indian pilgrimages made by Mia Farrow and the Beatles.

The technique was brought to my attention again when TM innovator Maharishi Mahesh Yogi visited Chicago in March to lead a symposium on the Science of Creative Intelligence (SCI), the theoretical framework behind transcendental meditation.

Motivated by a reporter's inquisitiveness and a natural desire to find that certain "bliss consciousness," I attended the public lecture by the grey-haired, bearded monk, who dressed in a long white "kafani," exuded a gentle presence all his own. He sat, according to habit, crosslegged, encircled by a cluster of flowers which later I learned signify "the full bloom of life."

MAHARISHI SPOKE of "restful alertness" and "cosmic consciousness" and told how TM "opens our awareness to a quiet steadiness of mind" — likening it to the quiet steady surface of an ocean.

In the role of a piper offering relaxation and peaceful serenity just for the asking, Maharishi labeled TM "a means of daily rejuvenation," a technique when regularly practiced "allows for full creative expression."

Converts describe this meditative period as a unique state of "restful alertness" indicative of a fourth major state of consciousness as natural to man as the other three physiologically defined states... wakefulness, dreaming and deep sleep.

TM is a process in which an individual sits in a comfortable upright position with his eyes closed. Effortlessly he lets his mind drift toward a mantra, a certain word that has been assigned to him on an individual basis by a trained teacher.

STILL INTRIGUED by the simplicity of its operation and magnitude of ability to be a daily cure-all for pent-up frustrations, I was initiated into TM at the International Meditation Society (IMS) center in Prospect Heights.

Now I tend to answer inquiries with... "you're just incredibly aware of it after it happens."

Gross personality changes I have not experienced, nor do my friends feel I'm a changed person.

What I have acquired is a great deal more patience and stamina. I still get uptight but not nearly as often. Periods of moodiness are likewise less frequent and, most important, I have more energy to see me through a long day.

I actually find myself awakening ahead of my alarm clock that is even set a half hour earlier to allow sufficient time for morning meditation. Arising is becoming a pleasurable routine rather than a human drudgery of the established workday world.

THOUGH I HAVE felt no great spurts of creativity in two months of meditating (I'm hoping it just takes time), a chronic allergic case of bronchitis with which I have suffered for almost a year, has ceased to bother me. Certainly 40 minutes a day is a small price to pay.

The Maharishi first introduced TM into this country 13 years ago after spending two years alone trying to teach the meditative technique in his native land of India.

Realizing that working singly it would take him at least 200 years to teach the entire world, he decided instead to enlist dedicated followers as teachers and concentrate on the U.S. because as he puts it, "Americans are creative and open to new things."

AMERICANS ARE ripe. What other nationality is more fervently searching for a simple method to neutralize a highly competitive and demanding lifestyle?

And notwithstanding, what other country could better afford TM?

There is money involved. Initiation into transcendental meditation costs $45 for students and $75 for adults. Checks are payable to the IMS, a non-profit organization.

TM as a method of experiencing deep physical and mental relaxation is unique in that no special religious or philosophical beliefs are required. A simple mechanical process, it also bypasses national and political barriers as well as differences in age, sex and intelligence.

Maharishi says everyone has the ability to learn TM. "Anyone who can think can meditate."

AFTER GRADUATING from Allahabad University in India as a physics major, Maharishi studied with Swami Brahmananda Saraswati (referred to simply as Guru Dev) who is credited with reviving the ancient practice and urging Maharishi to spread TM throughout the world.

With a reported 10,000 new meditators a month in this country alone, over 250,000 altogether, Maharishi in 1972 initiated a World Plan to train a teacher for every 1,000 people on earth and establish 3600 centers around the world, one for each million population.

His program for world peace is based on the simple ideology that a family who practices TM together is happier... happier families make happier nations... and that ultimately makes for a very happy world.

CURRENTLY there are about 375 meditators in the northwest suburbs, an area that is just feeling its transcendental growing pains.

An IMS center to service this locale first opened in January. Operations are directed by Rod Richards, Joe Ellen Sander and Bill Stephens.

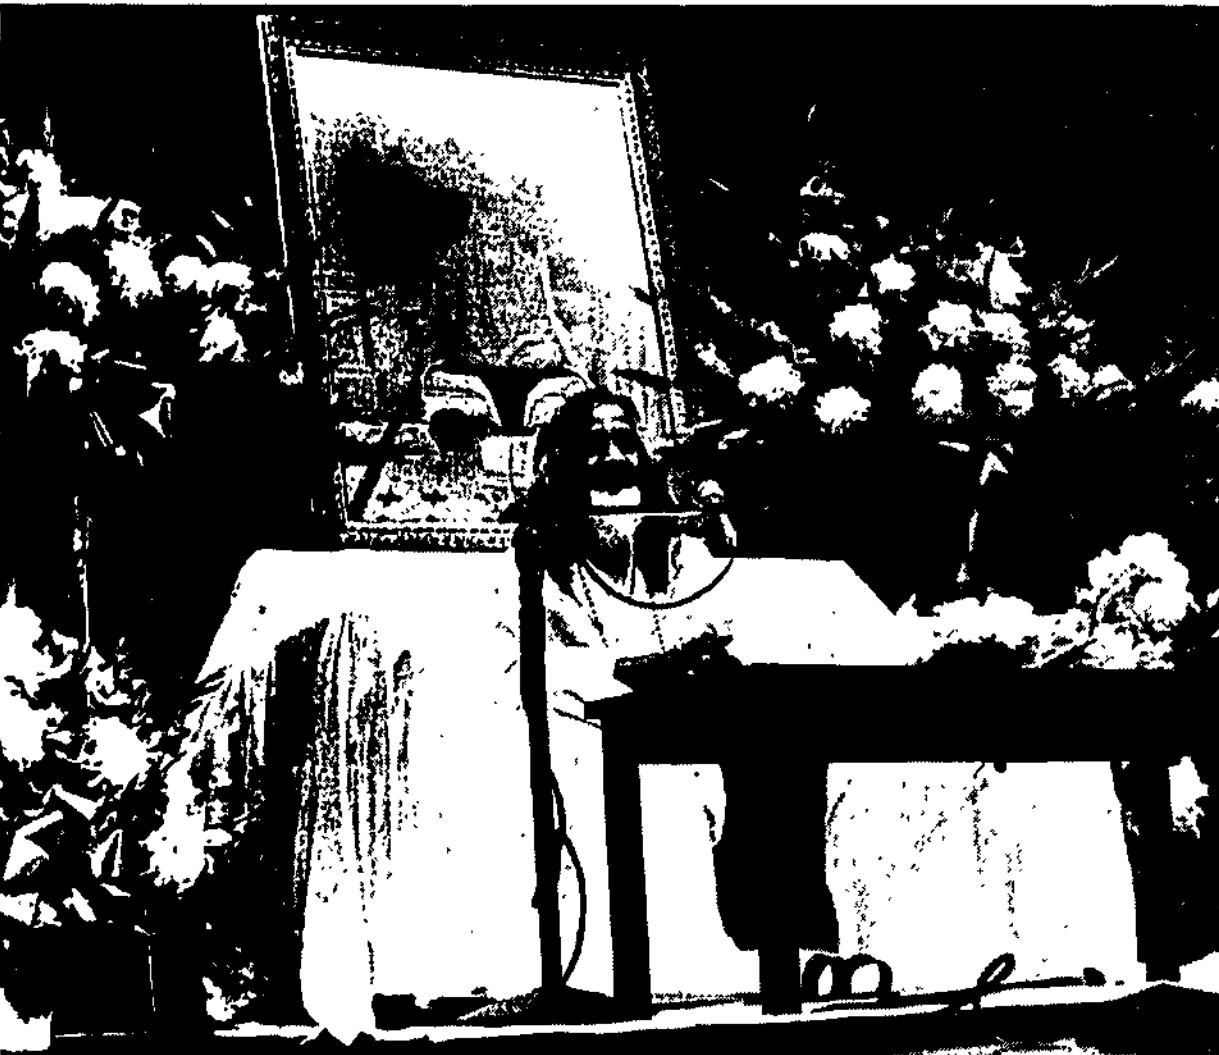

The three, like many meditators, became so enlightened over the technique of transcendental meditation that they took the SCI course and then studied under the Maharishi himself at his training center in Spain.

Surprising many people are the all-American clean-cut appearances of instructors, something the Maharishi requires of his devoted followers. He does not wish to antagonize any segment of society that might otherwise be open to TM.

Suburban Living

area have not only been initiating high school and college students, considered the first to always try new mind developing techniques, but also housewives, businessmen who meditate while commuting, and even whole families. Special programs have been instituted for children as young as four.

Teaching procedures of TM are standardized. They consist of two public introductory lectures followed by a short interview. An initiate then receives an hour of private instruction during which he is assigned his mantra, a secret word whose sound rather than meaning is of primary importance.

NEW MEDITATORS are urged to attend seminars on three consecutive nights following initiation in order to discuss problems and compare experiences. They are also advised to check in regularly to make sure everything is in working order. No additional charges are made for these periodic tune-ups.

"This is one field where the teachers get more out of it than the students," said Stephens who is originally from Barrington.

Like all instructors, he is reimbursed for personal living expenses from the national headquarters of The International Meditation Society located near the campus of the University of California in Los Angeles.

"If the rent and grocery bills are paid, we're happy," continued Stephens who strongly refutes rumors that Maharishi is commercially motivated, owns his own Lear Jet and guards a fat bank account.

"All the Maharishi owns is the clothes on his back. He is naturally taken care of wherever he goes by other instructors and meditators. But personally he has no possessions of his own."

Richards added, "He always used to tell us... where would I put my money? I have no pockets. My fortune is the hundreds of thousands of meditators around the world."

Basements do attract clutter

I am almost afraid to write about the basement because when my husband reads this, he won't think it's funny. However, maybe by the time he sees it, I'll have the place cleaned up.

At first I thought I wanted a basement because of the threat of tornadoes. I remember huddling in a soggy crawl space during a storm in 1970 — pretending it was great fun to be down there with the spiders and the mice and a wide variety of insect life that shuns the light of day. At that time I promised my soul if I came out alive, the next house would have a basement.

And it did. However, if a storm hit right now, the safest spot one could find beyond the basement door would be the third step from the top. From there on down, the basement would be more of a hazard than any storm.

IT WASN'T ALWAYS that way. When we first moved in I forgot about the storms and thought of all the convenient storage and work space that a basement would offer. My husband built shelves which we quickly filled. Then he built more shelves which also were filled in a very short time. That was in 1971, and the last glimpse I caught of a shelf was of one of the top ones early in 1972 when I offered to store a Girl Scout troop's Christmas tree.

Now I don't mean to imply that everything down there belongs to someone else, but one's having a basement does attract storage requests. My most unusual was a plea to keep some large centerpieces for a few days between two women's club events. The only problem with that one was my having to turn off the heat and daily spray the flowers with a fine watery mist.

I have finally recognized the source of this urge to clutter a basement. It is that basements built in the last 15 years or so simply do not look like basements. They are — as mine used to be — relatively bright, dry, airy and free of dark corners for unknown things to grow or lurk in.

A BASEMENT NOW is part of the house. Though my husband buys that concept, I still cling to the old-fashioned basement image. As a result I subconsciously do my best to make our basement look as dark and dingy as they did in the good old days when no one knew what was down there until the owners of the house died.

Unfortunately, my husband has made it clear that he doesn't intend to wait that long. Before I clean it, though, I think I'll check out a great idea. I have heard of outfits that will turn crawl spaces into basements. Maybe there is someone who could engineer the project the other way around.

'Y' women pay up pledge

$116,500... it buys a lot of recreational equipment for Northwest Suburban YMCA in Des Plaines. It's enough to cover the cost of the "Y" instructional swimming pool, or one of the complete gymnasiums, or four racket courts.

It's also the ample figure of total contributions made to the "Y" building fund by the Women's Auxiliary during its past 13 years of existence. You might say the women helped build the "Y."

They have just completed a five-year pledge of $50,000 and paid the final installment of $7000 at their spring luncheon last Wednesday at Seven Eagles in Des Plaines.

But they aren't finished yet. Because the YMCA needs expanded facilities to keep up with its continuous growth, the auxiliary has pledged another $8000 to be raised during the coming club year. Most of the money comes from operation of the snack bar, plus the annual pancake day and a fun fair.

THE AUXILIARY'S volunteer force which makes all this possible was awarded certificates and charms for hours of service during Wednesday's program.

The luncheon speaker, Peter O'Reilly, whose specialty is investigating fraud, felt right at home with the "Y" group because his topic was "How to Protect Yourself in the Clinches." He fully expected the women to arrive with gym bags in hand, ready for a class in self defense.

For the past eight years O'Reilly has headed the Consumer Fraud Divisions of the Attorney General's Office of the State of Illinois and the State's Attorney's Office of Cook County. He presently heads his own management consulting firm.

O'Reilly divulged a lot of eye opening information on door-to-door salesmen, letters addressed to occupant, phone calls that start with "you have been selected" and requests for donations to faraway charities.

"There are just three little words to mentally tack on to the phone introduction that goes 'you have been selected'... they are 'to be cheated,'" said O'Reilly. "If you can mentally say these three words to yourself as you receive the salesman's message, you'll be in the proper mood to respond."

Although the caller works within the law, he is trying to make a deal — nothing is free. As O'Reilly put it, "you have to give to get." There is always money involved and that money is yours.

As for sending donations by mail to causes all over the country, he urged sending a check instead to your local YMCA, your church, or institution, home, hospital or agencies operating in the immediate area. Here you can check their operation and witness the good they do in the community.

It's the countrywide finance drives depending mostly on mail contributions that are questionable. Only a few cents of the dollar you give gets to the real cause. The rest is eaten up by the cost of the campaign.

However, O'Reilly agreed that well known national organizations such as the Boy Scouts, Salvation Army, Red Cross, etc., who have a fine longtime record, can be counted on to use their funds to the fullest.

As for door-to-door salesmen, his advice is "buy your merchandise at the store not the door." Unless you know the company and its products well, you cannot count on quality.

Fashion

by Genie

Since rain is "reigning" this spring, what better fashion item to discuss than weathercoats for men. They appear to be the best investment of the season . . . other than an umbrella.

Yet even when the atmosphere does clear to let the sun come out, the all-practical coat for both sportswear and business occasions is still in great demand.

The fashion climate is right this spring for lighter and brighter shades and colors. Coats are ranging from an "old salt" color to nautical in navy and tropical in shades of orange. Grays, tans, nutmeg and light blue join wheat and bamboo under the fashion umbrella. Fashion liberals may choose patterns like gien plaid, checks or houndstooth.

BELTS ARE BACK on weathercoats with single-breasted or double-breasted styling. Some all-purpose coats are now even wash and wear. Check the tag carefully beforehand if you want to avoid the dry cleaning route.

As for coat length, below-the-knee, to-the-knee and three-quarter length versions are offered, though the short coats are the smartest this season.

Two new popular styles just introduced are the Troon and the Repp. The Troon is fashioned by Gleneagles while the Repp is part of the new Johnny Carson Collection.

Single-breasted, both coats are patch pocketed with trim detail. The Troon is 50 per cent polyester and 50 per cent cotton. It's machine washable.

The Repp, of 100 per cent woven stretch polyester, requires dry cleaning.

The rainwear collection for After Six features some coats with raglan sleeves.

INFLATION AND the devaluation of the dollar are catching up to the men's clothing industry and forcing a lot of changes for fall. Prices are climbing though the manufacturers are trying to remain competitive by keeping them down.

Estimates are that men's suits will run from five to 15 per cent higher, so the trend is toward unstructured suits which cost less to make, using stretch wovens which are more economical than imported fabrics made expensive by devaluation.

Western Illinois graduates marry

Two Western Illinois University graduates spoke wedding vows April 14 in the First United Methodist Church of Arlington Heights. The groom was the first and the bride the second president of the university's Student Alumni Foundation.

The bride is Deborah Dale Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Anderson of 1163 Hemlock, Mount Prospect. The groom was Robert Eugene Fetch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Fetch of Camden, Ill.

For the double ring ceremony, performed by Dr. Charles Jarvis, the bride wore a gown of white ribbon lace over bridal satin with long sleeves and ruffled neckline and hem. The gown and train were accented with seed pearls. Deborah's mother made the gown as well as those of all the attendants.

The bride's headpiece held a fingertip veil, and she carried a bouquet of stephanotis, stardust, baby's breath and white roses.

THE BRIDE'S SISTER Karen was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Leah Lyon of Mt. Carroll, Ill.; Dorothy Hays of Viola, Ill.; and the bride's sisters, Christanna and Marcelle, were junior bridesmaids.

The girls' dresses formed a rainbow of colors in mint green, yellow, pink, orchid and light blue. The gowns were short-sleeved with empire waist, fashioned of ribbon lace.

They wore matching sun bonnets and carried bouquets of yellow iris, pink carnations, blue bachelor buttons and purple statice.

BEST MAN was John Richey of Jacksonville, Ill., and groomsmen were Neil Hoover, Jacksonville; Bernard Fetch, brother of the groom; Thomas Anderson, brother of the bride; Perry Douvris, cousin of the bride, Mount Prospect; and William Kavanaugh, Crestwood, Ill.

Following a reception at the Seven Eagles Restaurant in Des Plaines, the couple took a 10-day honeymoon in the Ozark Mountains of Missouri.

The bride, a graduate of Wheeling High School, has a degree in home economics from Western Illinois in Macomb. Her husband has a degree in industrial arts education and teaches in a Moline high school.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fetch

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: Have you ever written anything about cuts and nicks on patent bags? I've got a terrible scratch on my best bag and don't know how to start doing anything with it. —Doris Oelrich

You've come to the right place because just within weeks I had the same headache. Some of the small fry were around the place and one of them got hold of my beautiful leather bag. I don't know what was used, but two long scratches were glaringly obvious — and deep.

My first impulse was to dip 0000 steel wool in a good shoe polish and try to smooth out one of the scratches. This proved a mistake because the finish started to come off, too. Turned to a soft cloth, dipped it in the polish and rubbed this into the scratches. As the polish filled in, the gashes became less noticeable. His ribs got fascinated by the operation and took over. His right arm did the job and if you didn't know the scratches were there, you'd never notice it. One last word: It calls for polish with a good dye in it.

Dear Dorothy: I'm supposed to cut down on the use of salt which I find a bit difficult. Remember hearing that grated and dried lemon peel was palatable and a good substitute for salt in many dishes. How do you make it? —M. H.

It's simple to wash lemon strips and put them in a slow oven until they are dry enough to use. Then put them in an airtight jar. But why not experiment first with lemon juice or reconstituted lemon juice? You may like both substitutes.

Dear Dorothy: Noticed your little tips on preserving cut flowers. Did you know a teaspoon of wood alcohol to a large vase of roses will keep them lovely for days? —Kathy S.

No, this one is absolutely new to me — can hardly wait to try it.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill., 60006.)

Nine state qualifiers in tennis; Arlington wins crown, West shares

by PAUL LOGAN

One outright team title, one shared and nine state qualifiers put smiles on four area tennis coaches in district tournament play Saturday.

This was how the winners fared:

• Arlington scored a six-point tie after the opening round with Prospect and won going away with 13 points. In doing so, the Cardinals qualified five of a possible six athletes and won the school's 11th district title in the process. Only defending state champion Hinsdale Central managed to qualify more in the Chicago area.

• Maine West, winner of only one other district, managed to share the trophy with Lake Park and Fenton with nine-point totals. The Warriors only had one contestant make it as their No. 1 seeded doubles team was upset.

• Elk Grove's duo did the damage to Maine West en route to the finals before losing out for the doubles title.

• Prospect managed to qualify one singles player as its No. 2 seeded doubles team was also shocked in the semifinals.

FOREST VIEW DISTRICT

So what's new, you might say. Arlington captured its 11th straight district title, the ninth while under the coaching of Tom Pitchford.

A laughter for Pitchford's boys, right? Not necessarily.

The usual life-of-the-party smile was wiped from the Cardinals' very successful coach early Saturday morning. True, there was a lot of "red" on the courts, but there was a lot of "blue" (Prospect), too. Arlington's coach — wrapped in a red football raincoat — was actually worried.

"This was the first district I ever had to worry about," he admitted afterwards.

Pitchford was concerned because heading into the semifinals the Cardinals and the Prospect Knights were deadlocked at six points each.

Then came two surprising victories that prompted Pitchford to call the district "probably the most satisfying team and individual performances I've ever had at Arlington."

Bringing back the Card coach's smile were the efforts of doubles players Todd Reese and Craig VanGorp and former

Sloan dazzles in shot put; Elk Grove tops league

Track & Field Editor

It was almost as though the meteorologic Powers That Be decided they didn't like the time the Mid-Suburban League had chosen for its conference track and field meet.

There had been sunny skies and warm temperatures most of Friday, almost ideal weather for a track meet. Then, as though someone turned a great switch in the sky at 3:00 — starting time for field events — it became overcast and a nasty chill crept into the air.

Under such conditions one wouldn't expect a banner night for throwers. But obviously the weather did not at all bother Elk Grove as a team and individuals like Rolling Meadows' John Sloan, Wheeling's Steve Drake or Fremd's Jerry Finis.

They were the ones who made the big news in a meet that had its share of high points, the football-like conditions notwithstanding.

Elk Grove, just one of several teams figured to have a chance for top honors, got maximum efforts from just about everybody in emerging on top by two points over Hersey. The Grenadiers of coach Jim Wendler led by that slim margin with three events to go, but quickly widened their lead to eight to clinch it going into the final event.

An upset victory by Damian Archbold in a clutch situation in the mile run and Scott Dorsey's second and Jeff Stewart's fifth in the 220, next-to-last event, sewed it up although the Grens had had other heroes earlier in the evening.

Sloan made the loudest noise for any one individual event when he put the shot an eye-popping 60 feet, 3/4 inches to set a new conference record by nearly four feet and approach the all-time area record of 62-9/16 by Palatine's Andy Merutka in 1962.

His effort, at least entering Saturday meets, stood as the best in the state this year and 11th best in state history for all meets (not just the state finals). Only 13 other prep shot putters in Illinois had ever surpassed 60 feet in competition.

All this despite the fact that going into the meet, Sloan owned only the third-best area distance and had not yet gone over 58 feet, indoors or out.

Drake lived up to his advance billing as best half-miler in the area and one of the best quarter-milers to win both events, making him the meet's only double winner. His times were 1:56.1 (a new high for the area) and :50.6 as he collected 12 of Wheeling's 19 points.

For consistency, Finis has been the best weights man in the area this year and he disappointed no one with a first and second for 10 of Fremd's 13 points. Jerry's 165-foot, 7-inch discus throw for an easy victory was the best this area has seen in more than two years. He was runner-up to Sloan in the shot with 57 1/2, one of many 57-plus efforts he has had.

Getting back to the team situation, Elk Grove's other big men besides Archbold and Dorsey were the Grens' fine hurdlers, Dave Jensen and Steve Busse, and long jumper Joe Lawson, who also pulled an upset. Lawson won with the best jump in the area thus far, 21-3/4, and he did that right after Hersey's Dave Kuntz had sailed to a three-foot lead. "That Lawson is a real competitor," sighed Hersey coach Larry Travis.

Jensen and Busse came through as they have all year as Elk Grove's most dependable point-getters. Jensen set the meet's only other record aside from Sloan's shot mark with :19.7 in the 180 low hurdles (best ever around a curve). The old mark was :19.9 set last year by another Grenader — Frank Tauscher.

Jensen also took third in the high hurdles with :15.2 and Busse was second twice with hurdles times of :15.1 and :19.8.

Archbold had not been one of the high-ranking milers in the area but came through when his team needed it most. He won one of the most thrilling races of the night in 4:30.4, less than a half-second in front of Arlington's Tom Holub. Those were the big points and Archbold knew it, waving his arms in triumph after snapping the tape.

Dorsey, like Busse, accounted for eight big points with his two seconds on :50.9 in the 440 and :22.7 in the 220. Elk Grove's 880 relay was third (1:33.6). Bill Butler fifth in the high jump (5-10), and area football player of the year Jeff Stewart fifth in the 220 (:23.3).

Winning coach Jim Wendler remarked, "We knew it would be tough, but we didn't feel there was anybody better than we are. We knew we'd need over 40 points."

Tourney play continues; Falcons entertain Lions

One nice thing about the baseball state playoff series is that it gives a team which has fallen short of its goals in its league season a chance to make amends.

St. Viator is pretty much out of the picture in the Suburban Catholic Conference chase although the Lions had their sights set on a title. But Saturday they showed that they're intent on making up for that as coach Pat Mahoney's squad whipped cross-town neighbor Arlington, 6-3, in the first tournament game for both at the Forest View District.

The Lions, 10-5 overall, will play at the same place at 4:00 today against Forest View for the district title and right to advance to regional play next week. Last year the Lions lasted longer than any other area team in the playoffs, going to the Sectional finale before bowing out.

The way the game started was anything but an indication of what was to come. It looked like a good omen for Arlington when its leadoff hitter, Robby Harth, blasted a home run. And the Cardinals were ahead 2-0 after two and a half innings.

But this only seemed to arouse St. Viator as it exploded for six runs in the third, triggered by Tom Chapman's homer, and pitcher Mike Cook coasted the rest of the way.

Cook allowed nine hits but just two came in the last four innings. He walked two and struck out eight in going the distance for another victory.

Cook and Jim Bucaro also had two hits apiece in the Lions' five-hit attack while Arlington's Greg Hauptly was three for four and Harth and Ray Heidenson had two hits each.

Dave Sherrow lasted until the fifth on the hill for the Cards, giving up five hits, five walks and seven runs. Dan Cunningham finished up, allowing no hits but one more run.

After Harth's leadoff round-tripper, Arlington pushed two more across in the third on Harth's single, a fielder's choice, a double by Heidenson and singles by Dar Townsend and Hauptly.

But the Lions roared back. Chapman led off their half of the third with a belt over the right-field fence, Steve Bobowski was hit by a pitch, brother Stan walked, and Cook, Bucaro and Mark Rickerson all singled, the latter hit good for two runs.

St. Viator picked up one run each in the fifth and sixth on a balk and a wild pitch.

Hauptly would have been four-for-four for the Cards had not his hard smash to left-center been hauled in on a dazzling

FALCONS RALLY FOR WIN

Rallying for three runs in each of the final two frames, Forest View earned a bid in the championship game of its own district Saturday with a 6-3 triumph over upstart Rolling Meadows.

Overpowering southpaw Rick Haaning received a call out of the bullpen from Falcon head coach Tom Seidel and after yielding a two-run single, slammed the door on the Mustangs over the final two innings while Forest View dramatically staged a wild comeback.

The Mustangs were in command through four and one-half innings behind the gutsy hurling of righthander Gordy Johnson who was sailing along with a no-hitter.

Johnson's teammates staked their ace starter with a 3-0 advantage, but Forest View capitalized on three Meadows misplays and timely hitting to reverse the decision.

Many area entries in 'just miss' category

Prospect, Wheeling golfers earn sectional positions

Golf Editor

Anyone handicapping the high school golf teams in this area would have gone broke this season. The surprising and even shocking developments during the course of the season would have busted Jimmy the Greek.

But Friday's two district playoffs at Buffalo Grove and Indian Lakes would have cost the mortgage for those playing favorites.

The unexpected haunted both sites in the initial stage of state qualifying action under near-perfect climactic conditions.

The Buffalo Grove District was forecast to be a horserace between host Hersey, Barrington, Deerfield, Lake Forest, Prospect, and Palatine with room for only three at the ensuing Deerfield Sectional.

Lake Forest lived up to expectations by firing a superb 313 and Prospect rallied to land second with 314. But the other contenders were hardly counting on the presence of Wheeling which came out of nowhere to notch the final team-qualifying berth with a 317.

Ditto for the Lake Park-hosted tourney at Indian Lakes. Area clubs had anticipated a good showing in the less-spectacular field, but teamwise, the seven local entries were shut out.

Lake Park used its home-course advantage to win the affair with a nifty 316 while neighbor Addison Trail claimed second with 320 and St. Edward of Elgin third at 321.

AT BUFFALO GROVE

By scanning the competition, it didn't figure that area clubs would fare well against the likes of Lake Forest, Barrington, and Deerfield, but the circumstances ironically produced a profitable venture.

While Lake Forest parlayed four sub-80 rounds into the winner's circle, Prospect gained sectional passes on the super efforts of third-place medalists Rich Reed and Craig Calkins — both of whom toured the 4,772-year layout in 77.

Bob Horwath, playing as the Knights' seventh man, carded a sparkling 79 and Craig Ridley chipped in with an 81 to prolong the life of Prospect.

Wheeling's incredible feat was initiated by sophomore Rich Groessl who entered the meet with a previous top score of 84 for 18 holes and a nine-hole low of 46. But the Wildcat youngster sizzled for rounds of 39 and 38 for a tremendous 75 which he eventually parlayed into meet medalist honors by winning a one-hole playoff.

Mark Bull supported his teammate's stellar effort with a 78 while Dave Schultz carded a helpful 81 and John McDougall an 83.

Hersey, the Mid-Suburban League's dual-meet champion, finished a heart-breaking fourth with 319 while pre-meet favorites Barrington and Deerfield landed fifth and sixth, respectively with 320 and 321.

Back on the local scene, Fremd played well enough to bag eighth with 327 shots ahead of Arlington's 329 for ninth, St. Viator's 337 for 11th and Palatine's disappointing 346 for 13th.

The Huskies looked like clinch qualifiers once Jeff Kallman's medalist-sharing 39-37-75 was posted, but once Cal Peterson's 80, Bruce Conroy's 82 and John Haack's 82 were added in, Hersey was two strokes away.

Fremd surpassed expectations on rounds of 80 by Joe Murken, 81 by Bob Frank, 82 by Cliff Garcia and 84 by Brian Brown while Arlington got off to a good start behind Steve Sluka's 78 while Doug Sandell added an 82, Steve Ringel an 84 and Jeff Palmer an 85.

Viator finished way off its usual game as Mike Brawley carded 82, Larry Pelfer 83, Kevin Hanigan 85 and Ray Carroll 87 for the Lions' low four scores out of seven players.

Palatine stuttered to its robust total off Jim Sobczynski's 83, John Lonergan's 87 and a pair of 88's by Bob Capoun and Steve Pircher.

Individually, the top five medalists in the meet automatically advance to the Deerfield Sectional. Fremd's Groessl and Hersey's Kallman were shoo-ins with 75's while Reed and Calkins of Prospect (77) will join Mark Habyan of Lake Forest (77).

AT INDIAN LAKES

Another tear-jerker developed for area entries Conant and Forest View — both legitimate district crown contenders who finished barely out of the spotlight in fourth and fifth.

The Cougars clawed just two strokes behind the final qualifying berth with a 323 while Forest View was another two shots behind with 325.

Maine West pulled up in eighth with 339 to best 10th place Elk Grove's 342, 13th place Schaumburg's 349, Rolling Meadows' 363 for 14th and Maine North's 372 for 15th.

The Cougars looked like gold when Dave Love signed his third-medalist scorecard with a 39-36-75 and Kevin Eakins contributed a nifty 39-39-78. But Keith Kellogg's 83 and Dave Domek's 87 left Conant two shots short.

The Falcons may have carted off the trophy had seven scores been considered, but consistency was not the key to this meet. Despite Greg Martindale's leading 81, 82's by Gary Mayer and Ron Romak and an 83 by Rick Keyser, Forest View was four shots off the pace.

Maine West got a pair of team-leading 83's from Scott Kiston and Jeff Potter and added Mike Lopata's 86 and an 87 by Glen Dalbke.

Mark Okuma came up with Elk Grove's best score of the afternoon with an 82, but Scott Walker was right behind with an 83, Mark Christensen posted an 88 and Keith Moore an 89.

Schaumburg's pacesetter was Jim Norman who toured the 7,000-yard Iroquois layout in 84 strokes with Joe Castrogiovanni next at 85 followed by Vince Troyka's 88 and Dale Jensen's 92.

The Mustangs rode Tom Carlstrom's 88 to its 14th-place finish and added Todd Sander's 99, John Stahl's 92 and Carl Schweikert's 93 to the scoreboard.

Maine North was paced by Jim Geishecker's 85, Don Snelton's 90, Bob Russo's 95 and Rick Jacobson's 102.

The individual medalists continuing on to the sectional at West Aurora include Conant's Love and Eakins in addition to Bob Brodbeck of Lake Park (74), Jay Whitehead of Addison Trail (75), Elgin Larkin's Phil Mann (76) and Jim Jaroch of Addison Trail (77).

Lions' linksmen in league golf

You can bet the 12 members of the Suburban Catholic League's golf circuit won't be too impressed with St. Viator's incredible dual-meet credentials over the past four years when the dozen teams converge today at Village Green Golf Club for the annual conference meet.

Instead, the Lions will have to prove they're capable of playing as a team in the eyes of their opponents. Each of the 12 clubs will start seven players and count the four low scores toward the heavily-weighted encounter.

Challenging Viator, who boasted a superb 12-2 overall mark in dual meets, will be defending champion Carmel of Mundelein, Benet Academy, Driscoll, Immaculate Conception, Marmion, Marian Central, Montini, Notre Dame, St. Edward of Elgin, St. Frances De Sales and St. Patrick.

In the SCC, dual meets have no bearing on the final standings. Everything hinges on the conference meet outcome and the one-day stand.

But Viator, with its exceptional record on its home links at Rob Roy and a wealth of depth, figures to draw the favorite's role. The Lions, playing inconsequential meets with Notre Dame, St. Patrick and Carmel, swept their league competition by at least a margin of seven strokes in each instance.

St. Viator head coach Ken Peck has nominated Mike Brawley, Kevin Hanigan, Ray Carroll, Larry Pelfer, Mick Fliton, Tom McEnerney and Jim Pavik to seek the elusive title.

A tournament official called Village Green "a very gamey course that most likely will be playing difficult with some challenging pin placements."

Although a par 35-35-70, the 6,500-yard layout is perhaps one of the best trapped courses in the area and boasts water hazards at five holes.

Carmel was a runaway winner of last year's meet — whipping this same field by 20 strokes at McHenry Country Club with a nifty 318. St. Viator finished second. A frosh-soph meet will complement the varsity.

Highland Park gets Maine West golfers

Maine West finished one dozen strokes off the pace, dropping a 173-161 varsity golf match to Highland Park last week. The Warriors' season record dropped one notch under .500 at 7-8.

Scorers for coach Ken Olson were Glen Dalbke 41, Tom Grueter 42, Jeff Potter 43 and Greg Holden 47.

Ken Meek to boost Meadows into a 1-0 advantage that grew to 3-0 two frames later.

Saungling again started the Mustang uprising with a crisp single to left and Johnson followed with a safety through the hole between short and third. Joe Riplinger filled the sacks when his sacrifice bunt attempt was played into an outless fielder's choice by the Falcons.

With still nobody out, Haanling was summoned and greeted by a two-run single by Mark Klomp before the fireballing lefty struck out the side with no further damage.

Forest View started making hay in the bottom of the fifth as Greg Pfaff drew a leadoff walk. Johnson also passed Craig Stiles and a boot on a pop fly at short loaded the bases.

Haanling finally reached Johnson for Forest View's first hit of the afternoon — a two-run single that bloomed into center and Dale Schoenbeck drove home the tying marker with a single that hit the bag at third.

With Haanling also silencing the Mustangs with his arm, Forest View directed its winning rally in the last of the fifth as Pfaff singled to left, moved up on a sacrifice and advanced to third on Bill Miller's infield hit.

Both runners waltzed home on Haanling's booming triple to right-center and the lumbering hurler finished his excursion around the bases when the relay throw got away at third.

Ron Henricks put the icing on the cake for Gary Wennerstrom Saturday afternoon.

The senior second baseman cleared the bases in the third inning with a two-out circuit blast to help Wheeling and twirler Wennerstrom into their district finals with a 10-0 pasting of Highland Park.

The margin of victory trimmed the length of the contest to four-and-a-half innings. Wennerstrom did not yield a hit during his five-frame stint on the mound.

Henricks connected after the Wildcats had already built up a 2-0 lead with single tallies in each of the opening innings. Ron DeBolt's club followed up the grand slammer with another four-run outburst in the fourth and achieved victory early under the 10-run rule when the Parkers failed to make any noise in the fifth.

Wennerstrom, who has only been tapped for two runs in 36 innings of toil this spring, got into trouble only once Saturday while serving up the curtailed no-hitter. He walked the bases full in the fourth with only one out but then worked a flyout and a strikeout from the next two batters to keep the scoreboard clean.

The Little Giants had posted a shutout themselves, 8-0 over Lake Forest Thursday, to earn a crack at the 'Cats. Earlier Saturday Deerfield had trimmed Stevenson 10-5 and now the Warriors will collide with Wheeling for the district championship Monday at 4, weather permitting.

In bombing Highland Park, the Wildcats started off quick. Leadoff batter John Theriault singled to open the first inning and one out and a stolen base later George Kaage singled him home.

Henricks hinted of things to come when he doubled down the third base line in the second stanza. Ken Margalusi ripped a one-base hit to right center moments later and Wheeling led 2-0.

There were two outs in the third when Pat McGinn walked, Howie Brauer singled and John Carlberg walked. Henricks promptly deposited one on the other side of the fence in right center field 350 feet away.

To put the guests out of misery Wennerstrom opened up a parade of singles in the fourth. Theriault was next to hit safely, then Kaage singled and drove home Wennerstrom. McGinn singled and drove in two more runs, and Brauer and Carlberg added one-base blows to the cause.

CONANT ADVANCES

Ken Hubbard could be a candidate for an Oscar if he were in show biz instead of the baseball line.

But it would only be in a supporting role.

Hubbard doesn't always get the support he needs when he's working on the mound himself but he constantly pitches in when someone else is pitching. Saturday he stroked what proved to be a game-winning four bagger as his Conant team derailed Schaumburg in second-round district action at Barrington 8-4.

The victory was the second of the tournament for Jerry Cunningham's band — they had turned back Fremd Thursday 5-4 — and coupled with a Bronco triumph over Palatine earlier Saturday set up a showdown between the Cougars and the tourney hosts in the finals Monday at 4 p.m.

Hubbard's long shot was in support of Tim Domek who also needed mound help from Mike Atkocallis and some batwork from several others to preserve the victory. The Saxons never led but they did serve up enough firepower in the late innings to make things interesting.

Conant jarred the scoreboard in the first inning after two were already out. Hubbard reached on a miscue and Paul Gobhardt slashed a triple to right center for one. Then Neal Thompson singled him home, stole second and was also singled home by Tim Dern.

Schaumburg had hits in the first two innings including a no-out triple by Sam Aiello in the second but waited until the third to break into the scoring column without benefit of a safety. Keith Trimble walked, went to second on a passed ball, advanced to third on a ground out and raced home on an error off the bat of Pete Kowalski.

The Cougars retaliated in similar style in the bottom of the third with two outs. Thompson walking, stealing second and coming the rest of the way around on a an infield bobbie.

This put the score at 4-1 and set the stage for a wild windup including a minor melee. In the top of the fourth the Saxons trimmed the margin to two runs when Randy Anderson tripled to left and scored on an error but Hubbard replied to this with his home run in the fifth, scoring Jeff Ironside, who had reached on a miscue, ahead of him.

The blast went over the fence in left center, 340 feet distant, and provided Cougars with enough runs to win. They led at the time 6-2.

Singles by Anderson and Dan Gallagher chased Domek from the mound in the sixth. The Saxons also pulled off a double steal then with Anderson coming home to make it a 6-3 contest.

In the bottom of the sixth the scuffle broke out after Mark Isakson had walked. A player on each side was ejected and when the dust cleared pinch hitter Gary Oslance reached on an error off new pitcher Ray Krallcek while Isakson came all the way around to score.

Ironside then reached on a misgloved grounder too, and Oslance came in with Conant's final run of the day.

Schaumburg wasn't done yet. Singles by Krallcek and Kowalski opened up the seventh and Krallcek tallied on Mark Goergen's sacrifice fly. Atkocallis bore down after that however, getting the Saxon cleanup hitter on a called third strike to end the contest and propel his team into the finals.

PALATINE FALLS, 4-2

"We both played a very very good ball game," said Palatine coach Al Berman of his team's opening round district game with hosting Barrington on Saturday.

The only problem for the Pirates was the Broncos' edge offensively. The Broncos hammered out four more hits and two more runs in bumping Palatine from further tourney action, 4-2. Conant plays Barrington today for the title at 4:00.

Barrington regained the lead for the second and final time in the sixth. Starter and loser Buddy Hughes gave up two runs in that frame and one more in the seventh.

Palatine had tied the game in the first inning. Andy Knotek walked and was doubled in by Steve Kirk. Kirk's blow just missed clearing the fence for a homer by about a foot.

The Pirates took their only lead in the third. Following singles by Rich Hoff and Knotek and a sacrifice by John Smith, Kirk singled in the final run. He paced Palatine with 2-for-3.

Hughes, normally a strikeout artist, could only manage two this outing to go with a like number of walks.

WEST OUSTS PROSPECT

Prospect got caught looking when it meant the most Friday afternoon as the last of Jay Liggett's nine strikeouts boosted Maine West into semi-finals of its own baseball district.

Bases were loaded and two out when Liggett powered three strikes past the Knights' Paul Obuchowski to end a 3-2 game smitten by intermittent rain showers.

The Warriors of Al Carlsens, who play Maine East in Tuesday's second round district action, hung on for victory after taking a 3-1 lead into the seventh.

Prospect was just a base hit away from winning after two Liggett walks plus an error had thrown chaos into an apparently secure Maine West win.

The pesky Knights began their ill-fated rally with Ken Kalberg drawing the third of Liggett's four free passes. When Steve Mahanna grounded to Slapke, Kalberg should have been erased at second.

But Warrior second baseman Danny Myszka missed Bill Slapke's toss, Kalberg roaring into third before right fielder Chris Bouchee, who had two-run homered earlier, could retrieve the ball.

Up stepped Steve Wolski, a late inning replacement for Jim Anderson, for his only at-bat of the game. He ripped a liner through the third-short hole, scoring Kalberg with the game's final run.

Mahanna stopped at second on the play. He and Wolski both advanced when Mark Keane, pinch hitting for losing pitcher Mark Blasco, dropped a perfect sacrifice punt.

Jim Dumke, Prospect's lead-off batter, couldn't advance his Knight teammates when West third sacker Jeff Schwarz made an excellent back-handed catch of his foul pop fly.

That left it up to Jim Altobelli, the Knights' best hitter against Liggett with two-of-three, both singles and one a bunt. Altobelli worked the count to three-and-two, then watched Liggett toss a ball four curve.

Up came Obuchowski and down went the Knights during what had to be a very frustrating afternoon.

Although played at Maine West, the Warriors were visitors. They jumped on Blasco for an immediate 2-0 lead when Jeff Schwarz doubled and scored on Bouchee's two-out circuit shot.

It was Bouchee's third homer of the week. He launched a pair against New Trier West last Wednesday.

Prospect cut Maine West's lead in half after its first at-bat. As would be true in the seventh, walks helped get Liggett in trouble.

He opened by passing Dumke. An error by shortstop Slapke with Altobelli at-bat left men at first and second. They both moved up when Liggett uncorked a wild one.

Obuchowski followed with his pop to short before Ray Seiber socked an RBI fly ball to Roger Blumer in center.

There was no more scoring by either club until the fifth when the Warriors pushed across their eventual winning run.

Myszka, who would err in the seventh, walked and moved up a base on Mark Elchhorn's perfect sacrifice bunt.

The second of Schwarz's two hits, a looper into right center, sent Myszka home for a 3-1 lead. His excellent speed was aided by Blasco's inability to relay home. He dropped the outfield throw.

In this strong pitching battle, Maine's other hits were a center field single by Scoring over the soft, lush, springtime fairways at Mount Prospect Country Club remained difficult. Low gross honors were shared by John Rice and alternate Dave Johnson both carding less-than-sensational 40's.

Low net honors for the session went to alternate Jim O'Keefe with a 52 gross 30 net.

There were only three birdies garnered among half a hundred Tuesday night players. Marty Schnepf birdied 5, Jim Werdeil 13, and Ken Porter 17.

Williams to visit Penney's

Billy Williams of the Chicago Cubs, who was named "Major League Player of the Year" for 1972, will visit Penney's sporting goods department in Woodfield Thursday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Williams' visit is part of Penney's Sporting Goods Carnival.

The Cubs' star will be available for questions on sports in general and, of course, his own team, and he will distribute autographed pictures.

In 1972 Williams became the first Cub in 27 years to win the National League batting title. In addition to leading the major leagues with a .333 batting average, he finished second in runs-batted-in with 122 and third in home runs (37), hits (191), and doubles (34).

Williams went 8-for-8 on July 11 in a doubleheader to fall one short of the major league record.

plays behind them in singles, wasn't as fortunate.

Rodig, seeded second, was knocked from the tourney by Zimmerman 6-3, 7-5. "He was off his usual form," said Pitchford. "However, he won a couple of big points for us."

Zimmerman helped lead Prospect to a 10-point total before running into red-hot Miller. Both were tired in the finals, but Zimmerman (6-3, 230) seemed to be more so than his smaller (5-10, 140) and quicker foe.

After Arlington and Prospect, the final team standings went like this — Rolling Meadows and Hersey with four points, Palatine and Fremd with two, St. Viator with one and Forest View with none.

ELK GROVE DISTRICT
A pair of seconds on the Grenadier courts put Maine West and Elk Grove into the elite net field two weeks from now.

Maine's Steve Wild cruised in straight sets to the finals before Fenton's Steve Pauly ruined things. Pauly ended the Warriors' bid for their second outright title with scores of 8-6, 6-3.

Len Greenberg, who made up half of the district champion doubles team last year, nearly did the same this time with partner Ken Pollitz. After two fairly easy matches, they disposed of the top seeded Maine team of John Anderson and Joe Thimm 7-5, 6-2.

The elation probably didn't wear off in time as Coach Ken Rundquist's boys dropped the first set of the finals to Lake Park's Brian Arimura and Duane Hemmerle, 7-5. They bounced back to win the second, 6-4, but lost the third, 6-4.

doubles performer Rex Miller.

Reese and Van Gorp, seeded third, dropped their opening set to Prospect's fine doubles team that was seeded No. 2 — Jeff Risteon and Charles Clemens, 6-1. This was the same combo that handed Arlington a loss the week before with Van Gorp and Miller taking the rare defeat.

In a shocking turnaround, Reese and Van Gorp won 6-0, 6-1.

A short time later, an all-Arlington doubles final saw Jim Merkel and John Paczkowski win decisively 6-0, 6-2.

Miller provided the other shocker by knocking off top seeded Matt Borman of Palatine 6-1, 4-7, 6-3.

Then Miller, ranked third, met Rob Zimmerman, ranked fourth, for the crown. Miller continued possibly the best tennis day of his young life with a dramatic comeback victory — 1-6, 6-3, 6-3.

"I was going to shoot my wad or just get one group in," said Pitchford of his decision to use his top two singles players in doubles and the shuffling of his other twosome. "After the seeding meeting, I was quite concerned."

"Let me give credit to Prospect, they played well," he added.

Prospect coach Jim Wright decided just before the seeding meeting Thursday to change his lineup. It nearly worked. Only some super play by Miller, Van Gorp and Reese spoiled his plans.

Merkel and Paczkowski, who waltzed through their four matches with only seven lost games, have to be considered one of the top doubles teams in the state right now. Teammate Don Rodig, who

Professional athletes to play golf for charity at Inverness

A large contingent of Chicago area professional football players will pit their golf skills against a group of safety equipment distributors from across the country in an unusual charity golf tourney.

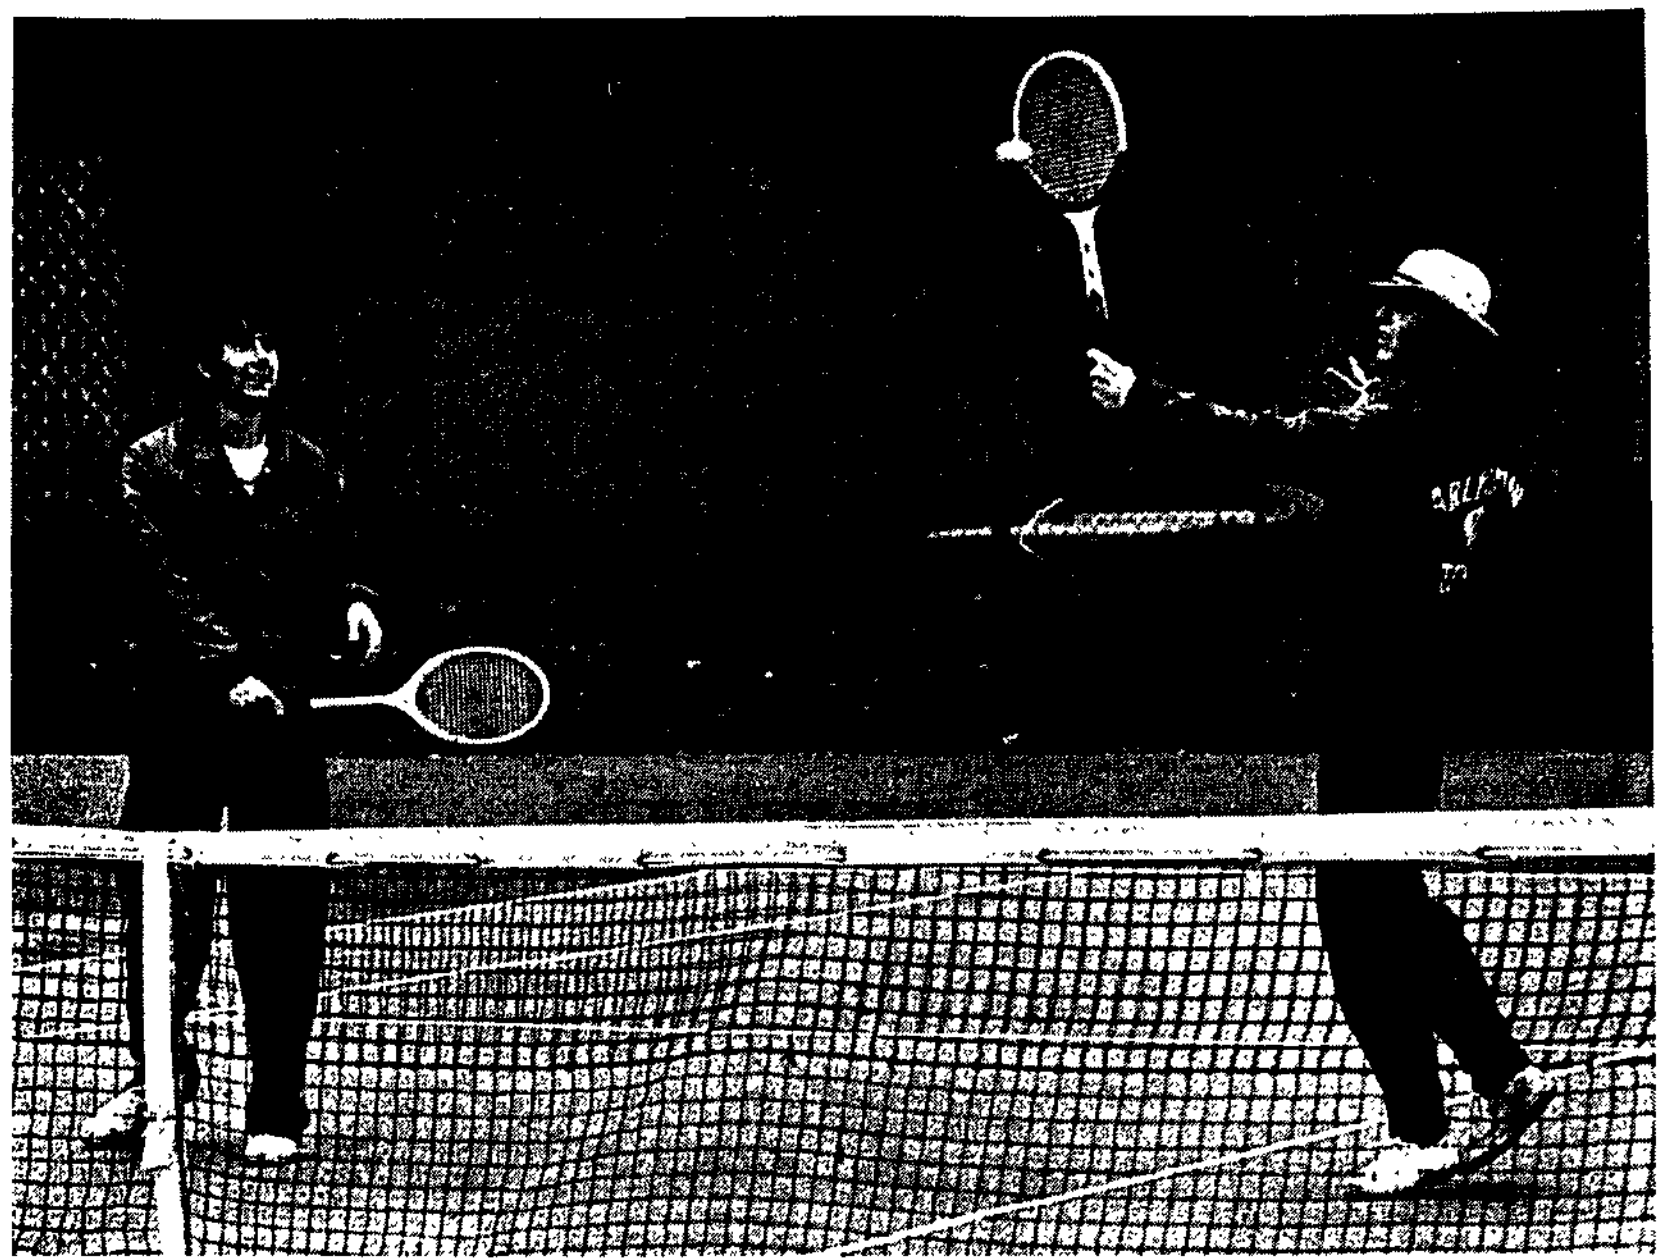

The event takes place on Thursday, May 17 at Inverness Golf Club in northwest suburban Palatine, and the proceeds will go to the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

Called the "Solstrom Invitational," the 18-hole "am-ath" outing is sponsored by the Solstrom Manufacturing Co. of Palatine. That firm, manufacturers of safety glasses and other eye, ear, face and head protective equipment, is celebrating its 50th anniversary this year.

Among the professional athletes who have promised to play for charity are Jim Grabowski, Doug Buffone, Rich Coady, Greg Schumacher, Dave Hale, Bob Newton, Bob Asher, Bill Staley, Jim Seymour, Jack Concannon, Bob Jeter, Don Shy, Jeff Curchin and Bobby Douglass.

Tee-off time is 9:30 a.m., with one athlete included in each foursome. The outing will include a videotape golf clinic for those wanting help with their game. Prizes will be awarded at a dinner that evening at the club.

The talented twosome was almost as casual in its four matches. They topped teammates Todd Reese and Craig VanGorp 6-0, 6-2 in the finals. Both doubles teams now advance to the state tournament.

TOO LATE comes a throw from the backstop after a wild pitch, as Ed Katzman of Forest View slides in with his team's fifth run in a 7-3 victory over Hersey in the Falcon District. Huskie pitcher Tom Good takes the late throw. Katzman had belted a triple to drive in a run moments earlier.

Mid-Suburban League baseball report

Fremd holds lead with 5-0 victory

While district tournament action is in the main spotlight, Mid-Suburban League play continues whenever it's possible for two teams to get together.

In late action last week Fremd, Palatine, Arlington, Elk Grove and Wheeling picked up league decisions.

ROGGENBUCK STARS

Ken Roggenbuck handcuffed the opposition on one hit and provided some muscle himself as Fremd turned back Wheeling 5-0 in a make-up conference tilt Friday on the Viking field.

The hard-throwing Vike right hander struck out 10 and walked just one in posting his third loop win in four decisions. The lone safety off him was a clean shot up the middle by George Kaage in the opening stanza.

The victory compensated Terry Gellinger's crew somewhat for an eliminating setback in district play the previous day by allowing them to maintain a one-game lead in the Mid-Suburban's North Division race. Fremd is now 7-2 and the Wildcats trail by two games with a 5-4 slate.

John Slack provided the hosts with all the runs they needed when he drilled a two-out single in the second inning scoring Fred Smith and Gordy Stark. Both those tallies were unearned but the hosts made it legitimate in the fourth on Roggenbuck's base hit after Mark Pettit and Slack had both preceded him with singles.

The Vikings padded their advantage in the fifth inning. Jeff Brisson singled, stole second and went to third on a wild pitch, and he scored on a late throw to the plate while Bob Burke was reaching on a fielder's choice.

Then Smith singled and Pettit unloaded another single to send Burke home with Fremd's fifth run of the game.

PIRATES WIN MARATHON

After battling to a no-decision scoreless deadlock one month ago, Hersey and Palatine carried their struggle to extremes in a rematch — fighting an additional 11 frames before the Pirates emerged with a 5-4 victory.

The two evenly-matched clubs were knotted at 4-4 after regulation play the second time around, but John Smith's bases-loaded single in the bottom of the 11th finally declared the Pirates a winner.

Rubber-armed Steve Kirk hurled all 11 frames for the Pirates to pick up the decision while Brian Nelson and Tom Good shared the pitching chores for Hersey in a contest marred by strong winds and intermittent rain.

Hersey drew first blood in the rematch on Allie Welch's first of two triples and an error at short, but Palatine vaulted into a 3-1 lead in the third on a walk to Mike Hughes, Buddy Hughes' single, Mike Sorci's double, a fielder's choice and two errors by the Huskies.

The pendulum swung back to Hersey in the fifth as three runs crossed on Casey Frankiewicz's infield hit, a sharp single to left by Mike Broderick and Welch's second triple, but Palatine tied the count at 4-4 with a single tally off Andy Knotek's bunt single, an error and Kirk's sacrifice fly to right.

Both teams threatened in the extra frames, but it wasn't until the 11th that another runner finally creased the plate. Palatine upped its record to 5-4 while Hersey dipped under .500 at 4-5.

CARDS SILENCE MUSTANGS

Arlington maintained its contending status one game behind North Division leading Fremd with a well-played 3-1 decision over Rolling Meadows.

The Cards, increasing their record to 6-3, remain a game out of first and second to the Vikings' 7-2 mark while Meadows settled at the .500 mark at 5-5.

The contest was highlighted by a tense pitching duel between Arlington's Dan Cunningham and Rolling Meadows' Mike Saugliuz. Cunningham was touched for only two Mustang singles while Saugliuz yielded just four hits to Arlington.

The contest was scoreless through two innings before Arlington erupted for all of its runs in the third. Saugliuz knocked down the first six Cards, but Wayne Geary singled to right, advanced on a passed ball and Brian Devey's error sacrifice and Cunningham also reached on a boot at third to score a run.

The second Arlington tally scampered home on a wild pitch and John Dillon ended the scoring with a run-scoring single to left.

Meadows cut the margin to 3-1 in the fifth when Saugliuz was hit by a pitch, advanced to third on an error in left and tallied on Bruce Hanson's sacrifice fly.

Both pitchers were in complete control, however, and neither team threatened the rest of the way.

'CATS IN 13-0 CRUSHER

Following a host of close games this season, Wheeling needed a laugh. It came at Glenbard North — 13-0.

After a slow offensive start that saw the Wildcats post single tallies in the first and second innings and nothing in the third, they erupted for 11 in the final four frames.

The big RBI men in the 15-hit attack with two each were George Kaage and the Slepicka brothers — Tom and Ken. This threesome accounted for four of Wheeling's six extra base hits with Kaage leading the way with a towering homer and a double. The Slepickas hammered two-baggers.

Kaage, Wheeling's rangy first baseman, creamed starting pitcher Joe Dowling's offering in the fifth with Ron Henricks on base and "the outfielder was just getting to the ball when George was rounding third base," said Coach Ron DeBolt. That shot knocked Dowling out of the game and started a pair of big innings for the 'Cats.

Two outs later in the fifth, a triple by Bob Peter — who led the 'Cats with a 3-for-3 plate performance — and a double by Tom Slepicka hiked the score to 7-0. The rout was on.

Wheeling slipped out five singles and a double (Kaage) while scoring five in the sixth. The Slepicka brothers, Ken Margalski and Willie Kozel accounted for the RBIs with one each.

Ken Slepicka doubled in the final run in the seventh.

Kozel, who pitched the fourth and fifth innings, was the winning pitcher. Gary Wennerstrom started. Peter tossed the final two frames. The trio allowed just four hits in combining for the shutout.

Wheeling jumped out in front in the first inning when John Therault walked, stole second and scored on Kaage's single. The 'Cats used speed again in the second. Peter singled, stole second, moved up on a ground out, Margalski walked and a delayed double steal scored Peter.

Howie Brauer, one of 10 'Cats who hit safely, doubled in the fourth and scored on Peter's single. The latter moved around and eventually scored on a wild pitch.

GROVE ROLLS, 8-3

Walks and stolen bases continued to be Glenbard North's downfall at Elk Grove Friday.

In a prelude to Monday afternoon's scheduled Lake Park district opener between these two clubs, Elk Grove parlayed 10 stolen bases, 13 walks and a sprinkling of power into an 8-3 triumph over the visiting Panthers.

It was the 12th successive setback for GBN in conference action this spring without tasting victory.

Jim Laing provided the hosts with that touch of power, clouting a two-run circuit blow in the second stanza. Laing's shot turned out to be his own game winner although he needed help on the mound later before posting his third victory in as many starts.

The Gens put together a pair of three-run spurts in the first two innings. Larry Larpisa delivered the big hit in the first frame, a two-run single to right center after Mike Emmer had walked. Scott Schollen had reached on an error and Frank Bavaro had walked to load the bases.

Glenbard retaliated with a run in the top of the second on Steve Fowler's two-out double coupled with an Elk Grove miscue. The Grenadiers came right back with another trio in their half of the inning with Mike Brandt walking and Laing belting his 340-foot homer to dead, left first to chase GBN starter Bob Blaha.

After the homer Emmer walked and advanced on a passed ball and Loren Crites singled. Then the Grove pulled off a successful double steal to up their lead to 6-1.

It was 7-1 after three innings. Brandt walked and stole second and third, Laine walked and stole second, Emmer walked, to crowd the bases and Crites walked to force in Brandt.

The guests picked up a run in the fourth on Mike McHale's single, a passed ball and Lon Yearly's one base rap. In the fifth they earned their third and final run of the contest on a ground out after George Kostopoulos and Mike Rigdon had both singled.

Elk Grove's final tally, in the sixth, was the result of a walk to Laspisa, two more pilfered sacks and a passed ball.

Three area squads win in tennis play

KNIGHTS IN SHUTOUT

The once beaten Knights had little trouble getting by visiting Forest View, 5-0. Playing No. 1 singles again, Rob Zimmanek bested Joe Karwinski by 6-0 counts.

Mark Meyers was pushed by Greg Meyer in the first set, 7-5. Then Prospect's second singles player won 6-3.

Spencer Clark handled Charles Cooksley 6-3, 6-2.

Jeff Risteen and Charles Clemens posted 6-1, 6-2 decisions over Chris Phillips and Jeff Aubert 6-1, 6-2.

In second doubles, John Waters and Steve Ristow went 6-4, 6-3 with Dave Jacob and Randy Router.

VIKINGS NEARLY PERFECT

Only a first doubles loss prevented Fremd from blanking visiting Rolling Meadows. The final score was 4-1.

The Vikings were in almost complete command of singles as Chris Laffey beat Don Bohac 6-4, 6-1, Rich Courtney held off Mark Shannon 7-5, 6-4 and Mike Lincoln topped Stan Hilly 6-3, 6-1.

The Mustangs proved much tougher at doubles. Besides Curt Anderson and Chuck Fischer defeating Bob Norris and Mitch West 6-3, 7-5, Larry Pressl and Paul Germano pushed Tom Jensen and Dan Seely three sets before submitting 3-6, 6-0, 10-8.

HUSKIES HOLD ON

Hersey maintained its third place position with a narrow 3-2 win over hosting Palatine.

Keith Rayner, playing second singles, posted the only win in that category — 6-4, 7-5 over Steve Snyder. The doubles teams did the rest.

Jorn Hastings and Alan Myers defeated Andy Hazel and Lew Sevey 6-3, 7-5 at first doubles. Then Bruce McAllister and John Walsworth held on to beat Fred Hoegler and Dave Bais 6-4, 3-6, 6-1.

Matt Borman bested Dave Schunk 6-0, 6-2 in first singles for Palatine. Mac Benlison then outlasted Mark Johnson 3-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Hersey posted a 4-1 win on the lower level.

SCHAUMBURG COMES UP SHORT

Pete Viohl and Mike Passaglia emerged the only winners at Cary Grove. Viohl stopped Dave Throsen by 6-2 scores and Passaglia went the distance before besting Rob Skanso 7-5, 4-6, 7-5.

Coming up short were these Saxons:

Bob Boyne over Mike O'Loughlin 6-4, 6-2; Dick Schaffer and Kevin Johnson over Jim Brennan and Ed Amatis 7-5, 6-3; and Bob Beckert and Jim Borne over Drew Kron and Gary Wright 6-1, 6-3.

Schaumburg made up for the varsity setback with a 5-0 frosh-soph win.

Knights Boosters Club helps students trainers

"Booster clubs should be more to a school than coffee at the basketball games and windshield stickers."

Quoting the basic philosophy of the Prospect Knights' Boosters Club president, George R. Busse made public still another activity of the very active Knight's parents group . . . the education of student athletic trainers for the Prospect athletic department.

"In looking for something we could do to benefit the entire athletic program," Busse explained, "we discovered the Student Trainer's Program conducted by the Cramer Chemical Company of Gardner, Kan., the nation's leading supplier of trainers' supplies."

Not only does Cramer make available a very comprehensive correspondence course for prospective high school student trainers, but they conduct Student Trainer Workshops at 12 universities around the country each summer," Busse continued.

Enlisting the aid of Knights' trainer,

Ed Brenner, and Athletic Director George Gattas, three Prospect students were enrolled in the correspondence course early this spring, and are now doing their homework in the basics of the prevention, recognition and treatment of athletic injuries.

The boys selected are Randy Hooper, Don Arlow, and Scott Heatherington.

At the conclusion of the correspondence phase of the program, one boy, exhibiting the most inclination and aptitude for athletic training, will be selected by Brenner and Gattas, to go to Western Illinois University at Macomb, for the Student Trainer's Workshop held there from July 5 to 8.

"All expenses for the trip, of course, as well as tuition, lodging, and food, will be paid for by the Knights' Booster Club," Busse concluded. "And with this program, we feel we will have contributed just a bit to the physical welfare of all Prospect athletes."

Harper remains red-hot; winning streak at seven

If Harper College baseball followers would like to forget the first seven games their team played, the rest of the season would be super.

After dropping their first seven games, the Hawks started their comeback. Over that period following their early slump, they've racked up 14 wins and lost just five times.

Coach John Eliasik's team pulled even and then passed up the .500 mark last

West netters lose to Highland Park, Deerfield; now 10-4

In no surprise whatsoever, Highland Park and Deerfield both shut out Maine West in varsity tennis activity last week.

The Warriors, who still sport a very fine 10-4 record, simply ran into two net teams that rank not far behind defending state (Illist Hinsdale Central. (Everybody ranks behind Hinsdale Central!)

Among the best matches in the double dip disaster was Steve Wild's first singles performance against Dane Neller of Deerfield. Neller, ranked nationally in his age group, was victorious by 6-2 and 6-4.

Singles teammates Harrison Bowes and Rob White are just sophomores for Deerfield and also ranked nationally. They defeated John Anderson and Jeff Trecker respectively.

Juniors Frank Lux and Steve Niles gave Deerfield's No. 2 doubles team a gritty headache before succumbing, 7-5 3-6 and 6-4.

Maine West did not seriously contest against Highland Park although Anderson was a 6-1 and 6-4 second singles loser to nationally ranked Mike Barr.

In both meets, West coach Roger King employed Jack Semler and Joe Thimn at first doubles.

weekend with a doubleheader sweep of hosting Rock Valley, 8-4 and 7-6. This lifted their present winning streak to seven straight games.

They also handled Skyway Conference foe McHenry 12-9 on Thursday and Kennedy-King on Friday, 4-3. In all four games, the Hawks showed their stuff by producing late comebacks for the victories.

As if the schedule isn't lengthy enough (they've already played 26 games), the Hawks pushed both seven-inning games on Saturday into extra innings before plating the winning run.

The first game of the doubleheader saw the visiting Hawks score three in the sixth and one in the seventh to tie the game at 4-4. Pinch hitter Gary Pemberton's single scored two and an error let in the third in the sixth. Another miscue forced both teams — luckily for Harper — three more extra innings.

In the ninth, Mark Jesse doubled in Bob Chen to break the tie. Following a walk and a single by Dean Sheridan that loaded the bases, Keith Steelman singled in two more. The final run came on an error.

Don Kunde went the first five innings with Terry Moriarty picking up the win over the final four.

Jesse paced the hitters with 2-for-3.

Sixteen errors — that's right, 16 — made the second contest with Rock Valley look like some fielder's had stone gloves.

Trailing 6-2 (both third inning runs coming on — you guessed it — errors), the Hawks pushed across four in the top of the seventh. Tony Fricano and Jesse each singled in one, Chen doubled in another and the tying run scored on a miscue.

Harper can thank the Trojans' second baseman for the 11th inning rally. His three blunders, Jesse scored without the help of a hit to win 7-6.

Moriarty started with George Patee relieving him in the fifth for one inning. Mark Wicklund went the final five for the win.

Pemberton and Bob Andreas led the Hawks with 3-for-5 plate performances.

Friday's victory over Kennedy-King was possibly the most dramatic. Trailing 3-2 with two outs and nobody on in the bottom of the ninth, the Hawks stormed back.

Jesse singled and Mike Honel promptly tripled him in with the tying run. Sheridan then followed with the third straight clutch hit to score the winner.

Harper had held a 1-0 lead through the first three innings thanks to a home run by Chen in the opening frame.

After the Chicagoans tied it in the top of the fourth, Harper jumped back out in front without a hit. Pemberton walked, stole second, moved to third on a wild pitch and scored on Steelman's sacrifice fly.

Honel and Fricano were the top hitters with two each.

Steve Perry, who relieved Bob Frantell in the seventh, was the winning pitcher.

Harper fell behind 8-2 after the first five innings at Crystal Lake before making its move against its SC opponent.

After pulling to within one by scoring five runs in the sixth and seventh innings, the Hawks hit the Flying Scots with a six-spot in the eighth.

Steelman singled in the go-ahead run with two-run doubles by Sheridan and Honel doing the rest of the damage. Sheridan finished with 4-for-6 with Bruce Eberle next with 2-for-4.

Wicklund, Patee, Frantell and Moriarty all pitched with Frantell matching the victory.

Mid-Suburban schools in track routs

A pair of routs were results of makeup track meets involving Mid-Suburban League schools in tuneups last week for the conference meet at Conant.

Schaumburg had little trouble disposing of Forest View, 84-42, and Rolling Meadows rolled over Fenton 93½-44½.

Schaumburg took first places in 10 of 15 events with Eric Porter being the only double winner in the 100-yard dash (1:0.5) and 220 (2:3.8). He is one of the favorites in both events in the conference meet.

Other Saxon winners were Mike Carey, Ed Martin, Mark Hoorich, Bob Cummlings, Mike Jones, Arnie Jackson, Ken Jaffke and Bruce Mahlig.

Forest View's five firsts came in the two relays and in three field events by Mike Jule, Jim Burke and Kurt Haaland. (See summary of all places below).

The Falcons' frosh-soph squad remained undefeated in league duals (6-0) with a 79-48 triumph.

Rolling Meadows captured firsts in 12 of 17 events. Double winners were John Sloan (56-11 in shot put and 125-9 in discus), Jeff Ramas (21.9 in the low hurdles and 15.9 in the high hurdles), and Steve Balogh (6-2 in high jump, 19-6 in long jump).

Other Mustang winners were Jerry Porters with 2:07 in the 880-yard run, Greg Sharon with 11-0 in pole vault, Joe Brightwell with 40-2 in triple jump, and all three relay teams — the 440 (4:46.8), 880 (1:37.9) and mile (3:51.1). Members of the 440 and 880 relays were Brightwell, Jeff Kosmoski, Mike Quinn and Pat Gegan and the mile unit was Quinn, Jim Tofilon, Jim Hupp and Jim Huddleston.

On the frosh-soph level Rolling Meadows was edged 70½-69½ by Fenton.

Spartans tip Norsemen, 5-4

Bill Harrison came in and watered down the fire too late Friday as Maine North struggled from a five-run deficit to make it close, then lose, 5-4, at Glenbrook North.

Coming on in the third inning, Harrison threw four innings of shutout, two-hit ball at the Spartans who tapped starter Jamie Kozlowski for five runs and six hits through two frames.

Kozlowski worked two batters in the third, both reaching, before he yielded to Harrison. Now 0-5, Kozlowski struck out one and walked one.

The Norsemen, who dropped to 4-9 on the year, permitted Glenbrook two first inning runs on a pair of hits and an error. Three more Spartan tallies came home in the second on three hits, an error and three wild pitches by Kozlowski.

Maine began its determined catch-up bid in the third when singles by Mickey Drewes, Kozlowski and Graham Wiener produced a run.

They had a three-run fifth behind a walk to Kozlowski, then playing the outfield, plus singles by Kevin Patten, Neal Schawel, Brian Bradfield and Harrison.

The last three produced runs. The Norsemen will meet Notre Dame at 4 p.m. today on the Maine West field in resumption of the Warrior-hosted IHSAA district competition.

Other scorers for the Bruins were Bill Cesa with a goal and two assists, Kevin Bonfield with a goal and one assist, Bob Anderson with a goal and Dan Kowalewski with an assist. Bobby Kruttsak turned in another fine performance in net and was great in stopping several breakaways.

The lone Saints' goal was scored by Steve Mogensen on an assist from Scott Neilson.

Brutus 8, Jets 1.

Showing why they are the first place team in the R.M. League, the mighty Bruins romped to a 6-1 victory over the Jets, ending the season with 13 wins, 3 ties, and one loss. The Jets were the victims of a relentless Bruin attack which had all the Bruin skaters lighting up the scoreboard. With Bobby Kruttsak defending the net, the offense was led by Kevin Bonfield, getting his first three goal hat trick of the year. Other scoring was Don Post one goal, one assist; Mike Sweeney one goal, two assists; Jim Kile two goals, one assist; Bill Cesa, one goal; Dino Guerin one goal; Tony Gallo, two assists; Bob Anderson one assist and John Cullen one assist.

with the Sabres coming out victorious 3-2. Sabre goals were scored by Danny Myers, Ed Peszek, Jim Hockett (2) and Steve Pryor. Assists were credited to Pryor, Steve Knapp, Myers, and Peszek.

Grove trackmen win title

because everybody else (in the finals) had a better time. Then Dorsey and Stewart came through in the 220. We're real pleased to win."

Travis, coach of the Hersey group which was just two points shy, nevertheless was pleased also. "We surprised a lot of people," he said. "Some of our kids aren't ready yet. We've been pointing for the district. But you can't take anything away from Elk Grove."

"I'm proud of our kids because they did better than expected. It was the same with our sophomores — they never expected second place either. A lot of them on both levels did better than they ever have."

Palatine, figured to be a top contender after winning Class B of its own Relays, was third, 14 points off the pace. Following were Schaumburg, Rolling Meadows, Arlington, Wheeling, Conant, Fremd, Glenbard North, Forest View and Prospect.

This, of course, is the final order of standings and Elk Grove is the undisputed champion since the conference meet is all that counts. Dual meets don't, and that brings up another point. The best dual-meet teams are not necessarily the best large-meet teams and vice-versa. In MSL dual standings so far, Palatine and Fremd are 5-0 — yet they were both well down — while Elk Grove is only 4-2 and Hersey 5-2.

Fremd romped to its second straight easy frosh-soph title. Many of the Vikings' top runners are sophomores and they were not used in varsity races.

Hersey had three winners with Mark Conard's 13-6 pole vault tying the area best, the mile relay unit of John O'Connell, Dave Jones, Chris Cooney and Dan Leider winning an exciting race by :02 over Arlington, and Kuntz adding a surprise win in the 100-yard dash (1:0.3) to his second in long jump (21-2½).

Kuntz accomplished this despite being injured part of the season.

Runners-up for the Huskies were Cooney with 1:57.8 (again, as Travis said, better than expected) and the 880 relay (Kuntz, Kaitschuck, Jim Spicuzza and Jim DiLenge) with 1:33.2, just one-tenth behind Schaumburg. Thirds were by Leider with :51.2 in the quarter and John Andrews with 20-9 in the long jump.

Palatine's only win came on Scott Williams' 9:29.5 in the two-mile and its only runner-up was Mike Murphy with 6-0 in the high jump. The Pirates had plenty of other places, but not enough high ones.

Schaumburg would have made a more serious challenge, but its distance ace Arnie Jackson — league cross country champion with the best area two-mile time — was not up to par with a foot injury and didn't place. Eric Porter led the Saxons with first in the 220 (2:2.5) and second in the 100 (1:0.4) and anchored the winning 880 relay time of 1:33.1.

Rolling Meadows' big man, of course, was Sloan. Another Mustang first was by virtue of Steve Galogh's 6-2½ high jump. Bob Sloan was third in shot put and Jeff Kosmoski the same in the 220.

Arlington did not have any winners but three runners-up — Bill Schmid with 9:31 in the two-mile, Tom Holub with 4:30.8 in the mile and the mile relay with 3:26.8, barely missing a win which would have equaled the Cards' peak area time.

Conant was paced by its pole vaulters, Scott Clark (second) and Doug Pappe (tie for third). Each went 13-3, as did two Arlington vaulters, Greg Morand and Dave Augie.

Jim Burke led Forest View with one of its two places, 149-2 in the discus.

Parker homers, Demons rally for 5-2 triumph

Ron Parker's two-run shot over the right field fence and some heads up pinch running by Mike Donatucci keyed a five-run seventh inning that allowed Maine East to come-from-behind and better Glenbrook South, 5-2, on Friday.

The Blue Demons were down, 1-0, when approaching their last at-bat. Almost immediately, they led by one after Bob Rinka walked to open the frame, then proceeded home on Parker's four-bag blast.

So quiet for six innings, registering just one hit, Maine East kept up its relentless attack with some help from Titan blunders.

After Dan McDonnell took the big "K," walks to winning pitcher Dave Ellin (1-1) and Doug Moorad plus a wild pitch put Demons at second and third.

It was Donatucci running for Ellin at third base. When Warren Henricks followed with a ground ball to the hot spot, Donatucci beat the throw home for a 3-1 lead.

Moorad got around to third on the play. And when Henricks, who has been safe on a fielders choice, took off for second, the GBS relay soared into center, allowing Moorad home and a 4-1 margin.

Henricks scored the inning's fifth run on Bob Lloyd's single.

As it turned out, Donatucci's run was the victory tally as Glenbrook South came back for a run off Ellin and reliever Greg Maloney in the seventh.

When Ellin yielded a hit and walk, Maloney came in and sandwiched an out between two more walks. After a run scored, he settled down, striking out one batter and getting the last on an infield grounder, Dan Lowy to McDonnell.

Glenbrook South scored one run in the second on three successive singles plus a fielders choice.

Ellin's ine score pitching read two runs, seven hits, six strikeouts and two walks.

$500,000 more to be spent on schools in new budget

by JILL BETTNER

School expenditures will be increased by about $500,000 in the 1973-74 fiscal year, according to the proposed School Dist. 21 budget.

The increase is due mainly to salary raises, added cost of staffing, equipping two new schools and inflation.

Expenditures for the coming year are in the tentative budget at $11,880,210, as compared to last year's total cash outlay of $11,380,210.

Total revenue indicated in the budget amounts to $10,157,000. In addition to these funds, the district will also have some money left over in each account from the 1972-73 budget. Because bills are still being paid with these funds, it is not yet known exactly how much cash will be available for next year.

The remaining deficit will be made up in tax anticipation warrants, according to Dist. 21 Asst. Supt. John Barger. The warrants are issued by taxing bodies as a means of borrowing against future taxes.

TEACHER salary raises account for most of the increase in the educational fund, set at $7,586,135, compared to last year's total of $6,973,923. The salaries require about 60 per cent of the entire amount in the fund.

Dist. 21 teachers recently negotiated a six per cent increase in the total monies allotted for salaries. The funds are to be distributed among teachers according to a schedule devised by the Wheeling Faculty Council.

Funds for operating, building and maintenance, bond and interest, transportation and municipal retirement will also be increased. The only area where less money is budgeted than last year is for site and construction.

Washington Irving School in Buffalo Grove and Robert Lewis Stevenson School in Wheeling are both nearing completion and are scheduled to open next fall. No new buildings are planned in the next year.

BARGER AND Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill said they are pleased with the substantial increase in the total assessed valuation of property within the district. Because of the increase, Barger said some residents may see adjustments either up or down in their education tax bills.

"Our tax base is definitely improving," Gill said. "But we're still playing a catch up game to other school districts. Our assessed valuation is way low compared to most of them."

Commenting on the financial outlook of the district next year, Gill said administrators will have to carefully watch spending.

"It will be tight again this year just like it always has been," he said.

Gill added that school officials are still hoping for an increase in the amount of state aid to education.

Cambridge drainage suit still an unresolved issue

The intricacies of an Illinois drainage law dating back to the late 1800s will be the subject of controversy at an upcoming court hearing in a 17-year-old suit.

Nicknamed the "Cambridge Drainage Suit," the case was first filed in 1956 by Cambridge subdivision Developer Richard Brown. It was to force a Wheeling resident, William Frazer, to remove a dam that was holding back stormwaters in the then newly built Buffalo Grove subdivision.

Officially the suit was settled in 1969 with a detailed agreement to build a series of retention reservoirs on Wheeling area apartment projects.

But Cook County Circuit Court Judge Daniel Covelli still is holding sessions for reports on construction progress.

At the next session, set for June 11, Covelli will hear testimony from an engineer who argues the 1969 settlement violates drainage laws and court precedents because the water is not discharged from the same point as it was before Cambridge was built.

According to Wheeling Village Atty. Paul Hamer, the engineer also will argue the settlement plan forces water to cross a natural watershed boundary.

Hamer said the engineer will testify on behalf of Harold Haar, a Jackson Drive property owner who has intervened in the case.

Haar and other Jackson Drive residents are concerned about increased flooding of their property as a result of the temporary drainage system which had been built under the settlement.

Meanwhile, Ben Pekin, the developer of Tahoe Village which is to hold one of the retention lakes under the final drainage system, has told Wheeling officials he cannot begin on the basin until his plans receive final village approval.

Riley students to be shifted to Stevenson

Several children in School Dist. 21 will be spending a lot less time on school buses next year when they begin attending new schools closer to home.

All children who presently ride the bus to Riley School will attend the new Stevenson School at Palatine and Wolf roads in Wheeling.

Elementary students in the Mill Creek subdivision and apartments are scheduled to go to Irving School, just off Arlington Heights Road. These children presently attend Longfellow School.

Both buildings are slated to be ready for the opening of school next fall, according to school officials.

Dist. 21 Asst. Supt. John Barger said last week that there will be no immediate changes in the attendance boundaries of other schools in the district because of the opening of Stevenson and Irving.

Insight out

TRUSTEE EMERITUS. Former Buffalo Grove village trustee Edward Fabish is apparently having a difficult time getting out of the habit of attending village board meetings. Fabish showed up last week at the first meeting held since his retirement. As he walked into the meeting, Village President Gary Armstrong commented, "Here he is, trustee emeritus. The first meeting, he's got to come back."

GET THOSE GOLF BALLS. Several chuckles could be heard last week during the reading of an agreement which will allow Buffalo Grove to construct a retention lake on the Arlington Golf Course. At one point, the agreement says the village must give back to the golf course any golf balls that are hit in the lake.

HOME SO EARLY? Whether the wives of the members of the Buffalo Grove Plan Commission believe it or not, last week's meeting really did end at 9:15 p.m. In fact, finishing at such an early hour was so unusual that chairman Carl Genrich told the commissioners, "If any body needs an excuse to go home to his wife I'll write it."

HUNGRY? Bratwurst has unofficially been the official meat of Wheeling. However, that trend may be on its way out. During last week's discussion by the Wheeling Jaycees, Jack Matzger was commenting on the fact that the Jaycees would be selling something new at their annual Fourth of July celebration. Before Matzger could tell the audience it was beer someone piped up "What's that — Polish sausage?"

Costly 'dream'

Skyrocketing home prices push many out of market

by KURT BAER

Still thinking about someday moving into that dream house? Even if it exists, the chances are you can't afford it.

Real estate appraisers say prices on expensive homes are going up 8 to 10 per cent a year in many suburban locations. More moderately priced housing is increasing in cost even faster at about 12 to 15 per cent annually.

Housing salesmen will tell you that it's the old game of supply and demand that's pushing home costs higher and higher. Builders cite the cost of land, labor and materials, as well as the building requirements of local governments.

Taken together, all these factors have priced many people right out of the single-family housing market into lower-priced townhouses and condominiums.

"Most people want to live in houses. They don't want condominiums or townhouses, but they're got to live somewhere so they buy what they think they can afford. Today that often means a townhouse," says Al Gundelach, a real estate appraiser with offices in Elk Grove Village.

IN RARE INSTANCES where single-family housing is available at "yesterday's prices," such as at the Centex-Winston Grove development in Elk Grove, prospective buyers literally stand in line to purchase home sites that have been carved out of a cornfield.

"Those houses sold like hot cakes and the griddle wasn't even warm," Gundelach said, adding that he believes the success of the Centex-Winston project should prove a point to builders.

"Builders are too tied to the old notion that land should be only one-tenth the cost of the house. They think they should be able to buy land for $1,000 a lot, when they now have to pay $5,000."

"In Beverly Hills (Calif.), 50 per cent of the cost of a home is land and 50 per cent the actual house. By holding out for apartment development (because of the cost of the land) builders have severely limited the supply of (single-family) housing. It's a trap of their own making," he says.

MARTY MUNSON, Arlington Heights building director and a man who has been closely associated with the building industry for over 20 years, says today's builder is faced with unprecedented building costs.

"Lumber is the number one item. Price and scarcity are both going up phenomenally," he says. The cost of other home building materials — masonry, sheet metal, copper, aluminum and the wages of the men who work with them have also risen.

Munson admits that local build-

Trustees to act on MSD pact

The Buffalo Grove Village Board will act tonight on an agreement with the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) and the Illinois Division of Waterways that will help finance a five-acre retention lake on the Arlington Golf Course.

Last week the MSD and the state agreed to help finance the project. Under the agreement the state will pay $130,000 and the MSD will pay $120,000 toward the $250,000 project. The remaining $75,000 will come out of village funds.

Two weeks ago the village reached an agreement with the owners of the golf course which will allow construction on their property.

If the board approves the agreement tonight, construction of the lake will begin in October. The lake, which will have a capacity for about 16 million gallons of water, will reduce the amount of water in the White Pine Ditch and Buffalo Creek.

At present, the White Pine Ditch sometimes overflows its banks and floods some backyards during heavy rainstorms. Although the retention lake will not eliminate all of the water in the ditch, it probably will prevent it from overflowing, Village Mgr. Daniel Larson said.

IN OTHER business tonight the board is scheduled to:

- Vote on an ordinance which will increase the cost of building permits.
- Consider an ordinance which will increase the cost of electrical inspection fees.

- Review a request by Stan Lieberman for annexation and rezoning of some property on Dundee Road.

- Review proposals for improving village engineering standards.

- Review an ordinance in Morton Grove which prohibits homeowners from installing automatic dialer alarms on their homes.

In a workshop session, the board will review a proposal by the American Consulting Services for the study of the Arlington Hills, Ballantrane and Cambridge areas for sanitary sewer infiltration.

The board will also review the proposed 1973-74 village budget at the workshop session.

VIP plans Dixieland Jamboree May 19

The Buffalo Grove Village Independent Party (VIP) is planning a Dixieland Jamboree Saturday May 19 to raise funds to pay its campaign expenses from the recent village election.

The event will be at 9 p.m. at Bill's Buffalo House on Buffalo Grove Road. The cost is $1.50 a person. For tickets contact Pat Duncan at 537-9273 or Pat Peterson at 537-7231.

Correction

The Herald incorrectly reported last Friday that primary students at Kildare School in Long Grove will be assigned to Twin Groves School when that building opens early next year.

Students in grades one, two and three will go to Willow Grove School and pupils in grades four through eight will be assigned to Twin Groves.

ICC investigation asked

Local union calls for halt to Central Telephone drive

A local labor union has asked the Illinois Commerce Commission to investigate and halt Central Telephone Co.'s local phone solicitation drive.

In a complaint filed last week with ICC, local 336 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers contends that "unrequested telephone solicitation is a breach of the privacy of the user's telephone." The complaint states that the phone company is contacting persons with both listed and unlisted numbers to push for installation of pushbutton phones and expanded service.

Martin Brown, of the telephone firm's public relations office, refused comment. "We don't have a copy of the complaint. We don't feel it would be prudent to comment until we do," he said.

THOMAS L. BEAGLEY, president and business manager of the union, mailed the formal complaint to ICC's Springfield office late Wednesday.

"It appears to us outrageous that a public utility, which has been granted an effective telephone monopoly within a geographic area, is utilizing its status in order to engage in this reprehensible sales campaign and require its employees to participate in such conduct."

Beagley said the ICC can investigate operations and management of regulated utilities. "The phone company has all numbers — including unpublished. Nobody can ordinarily get the unpublished ones. Now, the phone company does the very thing the customer is trying to avoid."

The union represents about 1,000 Central employees including an estimated 40 to 50 commercial clerks who have been ordered to conduct the solicitation.

ABOUT A WEEK ago, "the firm tried to start this," Beagley said. Some clerks refused the duty and were suspended and the solicitation stopped briefly.

Last week, when the company ordered the solicitation, the clerks briefly walked off the job. "It lasted about three or four hours. Then, the company backed off. But, they told the clerks last Thursday that they must do it," he said.

"We think it's wrong. But, we advised the girls to go ahead and that we would protest through the ICC," he said.

The phone solicitors offer a prepared statement in calls to customers that includes information from company records — number of house phones and type of service. The customer is asked to install touch phones, add additional phones or expand service, Beagley said.

Big cut for township mental health center?

Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center may receive only 56 per cent of the grant it requested from the state — which would prevent the center from hiring needed additional staff members.

Jordan Rosen, executive director of the center, said the Illinois Department of Mental Health recommended that the center receive only $52,000, the same amount awarded last year. The center had requested a grant of $91,978 for this year. Grants are usually made in July.

Rosen said the center is considering an appeal to the recommendation. He said, however, that the state may not permit an appeal to be made.

Without the full grant, the center will not be able to hire additional staff members, according to Rosen.

WHE THE CENTER received its first grant of $52,000 last July, about 60 clients were being treated and there was no waiting list. The center is now handling about 360 cases and has a waiting list of 50.

Rosen has reported to the mental health center board of directors that the current case load requires maximum use of staff and facilities.

If the state grant is only $52,000, Rosen said the center may seek additional funds from the two township governments and from municipalities within the townships.

The mental health center is a recently formed organization designed to provide mental health care for all residents within the two townships. The center was developed as a new agency from Elk Grove Village Community Service.

Community Service was a village agency that provided mental health counseling, youth services and other community programs. The agency was funded by the village and various charity organizations.

EARLY LAST YEAR, Community Service requested a grant from the state health department to provide a mental health center for Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships. Previously, the two townships, along with Palatine and Wheeling townships, received state-funded mental health care from the Northwest Mental Health Association in Arlington Heights.

The state approved the Community Service request and split the area originally served by the NMHA. Palatine and Wheeling township residents continue to receive mental health care from NMHA.

As a result of the initial grant last year, Community Service had to reorganize to create a new agency that would receive and administer funds for mental health care.

Although the mental health center and community service are separate agencies, they share some common members on the two boards of directors and Rosen is executive director of both.

Texaco asks one-year antipollution delay

Texaco Inc. has requested a one-year deadline extension from the Illinois Pollution Control Board to install antipollution equipment at gasoline loading stations near Des Plaines.

PCB has scheduled a 9:30 a.m. hearing June 19 in city hall to examine the petition filed last week.

A state regulation requires installation of fume reduction equipment — to eliminate 83 per cent of odor — at gas loading docks by Dec. 31, 1973.

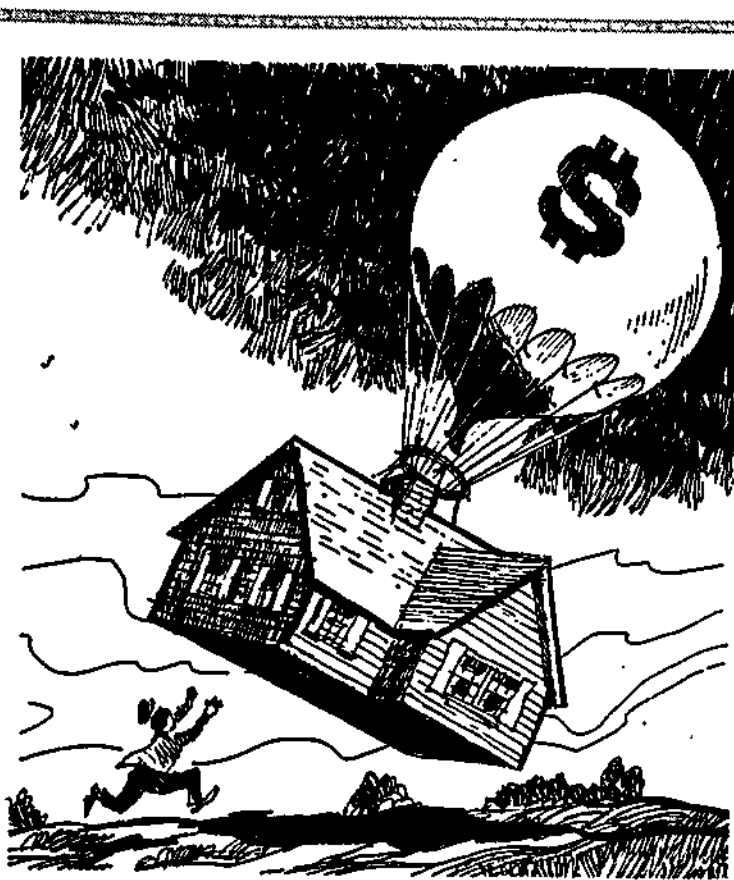

Texaco, near Ill. Rte. 83 and Oakton Street, southwest of Des Plaines, has cited cost and complexity of equipment required in seeking an extension to Dec. 31, 1974. The firm loads gas trucks that supply O'Hare Airport and local service stations at four docks at the tank yard.

Burglars get $215

Burglars stole $215 in cash after entering the home of Dorothy Stark, 1414 Phoenix Dr., Des Plaines police said Friday.

Police said it is unknown how the burglars got into the house adding there were no signs of forcible entry.

Police believe the burglary occurred between April 29 and May 4.

Still thinking about someday moving into that dream house? Even if it exists, the chances are you can't afford it.

Real estate appraisers say prices on expensive homes are going up 6 to 10 per cent a year in many suburban locations. More moderately priced housing is increasing in cost even faster at about 12 to 15 per cent annually.

Housing salesmen will tell you that it's the old game of supply and demand that's pushing home costs higher and higher. Builders cite the cost of land, labor and materials, as well as the building requirements of local governments.

Taken together, all these factors have priced many people right out of the single-family housing market into lower-priced townhouses and condominiums.

"Most people want to live in houses. They don't want condominiums or townhouses, but they're got to live somewhere so they buy what they think they can afford. Today that often means a townhouse," says Al Gunderlach, a real estate appraiser with offices in Elk Grove Village.

IN RARE INSTANCES where single-family housing is available at "yesterday's prices," such as at the Centex-Winston Grove development in Elk Grove, prospective buyers literally stand in line to purchase home sites that have been carved out of a cornfield.

"Those houses sold like hot cakes and the griddle isn't even warm," Gunderlach said, adding that he believes the success of the Centex-Winston project should prove a point to builders.

"Builders are too tied to the old notion that land should be only one-tenth the cost of the house. They think they should be able to buy land for $1,000 a lot, when they now have to pay $5,000."

"In Beverly Hills (Calif.), 50 per cent of the cost of a home is land and 50 per cent the actual house. By holding out for apartment development (because of the cost of the land) builders have severely limited the supply of (single-family) housing. It's a trap of their own making," he says.

MARTY MUNSON, Arlington Heights building director and a man who has been closely associated with the building industry for over 20 years, says today's builder is faced with unprecedented building costs.

"Lumber is the number one item. Price and scarcity are both going up phenomenally," he says. The cost of other home building materials — masonry, sheet metal, copper, aluminum and the wages of the men who work with them have also risen.

Munson admits that local build-

Fourth-grade students seeing 'stars'

Lucille Ball, Sonny and Cher, Flip Wilson, Superman, Road Runner, Fred Flintstone and Fat Albert would all be Des Plaines residents if Alice Beyer's fourth grade students had their way.

The South School youngsters wrote letters to their favorite stars last week inviting them to live in the community.

The 9 and 10-year-olds topped anything ever said by Des Plaines Mayor Herbert Behrel in their effusive praise for the town. Through their eyes Des Plaines is pollution free, flood free, has great transportation, an exciting river, wonderful people, super parks and the best trees.

Dear Sonny and Cher,

You should come and live in Des Plaines. There is a lot of beautiful land here and you can get ideas for a song. Lots of people like to live here. So a lot of people could come to your show. So why don't you come to live in Des Plaines.

Sincerely yours,

Carol Bleiker

Dear Fat Albert,

There's lots of room to sit down in Des Plaines and to play baseball. You could find many stores to go too and lots of schools to go too. In Chicago they have more pollution than in the suburbs. Des Plaines has parks and lots of people to play with.

P.S. Loose weight

Rick Fang

Dear Ruth Buzzi,

Please come to live in Des Plaines. It's a very nice place. There are lots of classes to take like knitting and serving. There are lots of pretty parks. When you come to the park bring your purse. Because there are lots of men who might want to smuggle close to you. But you know what to do. Anyway the people are mostly nice around here. There is hardly any pollution. You'll really enjoy it here.

Your friend,

Anne Salder

Dear Lucille Ball,

I live in Des Plaines, Ill. It is a nice, quiet town. There is not so much smog. You would probably want to come here because it is quiet. It is in the suburbs of Chicago. I like Des Plaines. It is exciting. We have a canoe race every year. I like it. You race on the Des Plaines River. You would like the Des Plaines River. I live four blocks away from the river. In spring we have hard rain and the river gets very, very high and almost comes over. But we never get flooded.

Your friend,

Hillary Hann

Dear Randall Mantooth,

Please come to Des Plaines, Ill. You get a chance to live in an apartment or a house that you own. You also have good transportation from the airport, train station, and with automobiles.

P.S. bring your truck

Mike Drelicharz

Dear Bozo,

I wish you could live in Des Plaines. Des Plaines isn't very polluted. There are not that many circuses, but there are a lot of stores and parks. If you want to live in Des Plaines bring Mr. Ned, Cookie the cook and the bigtop band. And please don't cut your bushy hair, there is enough room in Des Plaines for it.

Your friend,

Pam Nelson

Dear Flip Wilson,

I would like you to come and live in Des

This Morning In Brief

The nation

President Nixon may be invited to "state his side of the case" in the Watergate scandal to a Senate committee that opens public hearings this week, the panel's senior Republican said. Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., vice chairman of the special Watergate committee, also hinted his panel has Nixon under investigation and said "clearly" that the President should be impeached should the facts show he was involved in the affair.

UFOs? Planes? What were those lights?

by STEVE BROWN

The unidentified flying objects sighted in the area might have easily been explained if Thursday had been New Year's Eve, but it wasn't.

Thursday night was a warm, clear spring evening and government and military officials were hard pressed to offer an explanation for the unusual lights seen in the southeastern sky by hundreds of area residents.

Police said over the weekend they received other reported UFO sightings, but not as many as had been reported Thursday.

Police departments in several villages were swamped with calls reporting UFOs. Most callers said they saw unexplained lights over the southern portion of the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

THE REPORTS from the public were supplemented by reports from at least a dozen police officers.

Two different military sources said the lights were probably reflections from aircraft landing lights at nearby O'Hare International Airport.

But witnesses to the phenomena said the UFOs appeared in groups of pulsating lights, some V-shaped and hovered at altitudes ranging from 1,000 feet to tree top level at about 9:30 p.m.

A spokesman for the Glenview Naval Air Station theorized aircraft lights must have caused the unusual effect.

But an official at the National Weather Service said the clear skies present at the time of sightings tended to discount the light reflection theory.

"BESIDES IN my 25 years on the job, I have never heard of any phenomena occurring at low altitude," he said.

Radar installations at O'Hare, Glenview and the Chicago-Gary Defense Base in Arlington Heights reported no UFO sightings.

Major James R. Lapp of Chanute Air Force Base, Rantoul, said he had UFO reports but said he had seen a meteor in the sky about the same time.

Puzzled officials, however, could not explain the eyewitness accounts of lights hovering for up to a half hour.

Police in Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove

Village, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and members of the Illinois State Police and the Cook County Sheriff's Police all offered similar accounts of the lights.

Schaumburg Patrolman William Bartkavitch reported that he saw nine sets of lights in the vicinity of the WGN Radio transmitting tower. He said that he could differentiate the lights from those of nearby aircraft.

SHERILL ECKERSLEY, an Elk Grove Village fire alarm operator, reported a triangular object, hovering across from the fire station on Blesterfield Road.

She said the lights moved about 25 to 30 miles per hour.

"If I was the only one who saw it, I would really think I was crazy," she said, adding she had never seen anything like it. Other firemen also saw the object.

Early speculation that the lights came from helicopters was discounted after a check of many civilian and military installations revealed that no helicopters were airborne at the time.

The reflecting lights theory was also discounted by a leading authority in the UFO field, Dr. J. Allen Hynek of Northwestern University.

"I DO NOT BUY the reflections theory, because of the hovering effect that was reported," he said. Hynek, who was the scientific consultant for Air Force's UFO project, Operation Bluebook, has authored a book on similar sightings, "The UFO Experience."

Hynek said he believes the objects sighted were "nocturnal lights." He said he would reserve further comment until more information is received on the sightings. Associates of Hynek will be interviewing persons who reported the sightings.

"I do not buy the reflecting lights story either," said a police officer who asked that his name not be used.

"I did not see any little green men, but what I did see was the most unusual experience I have ever witnessed," he added.

Park district budget may reach $980,000

Des Plaines Park District total income and expenditures for fiscal 1973-74 may reach $980,000, a 2.29 per cent increase from the current operating budget of $957,951.

The figures are only tentative, according to Park District Director Robert Kunkel. "It won't be known how much our assessed valuation is going to be," he said.

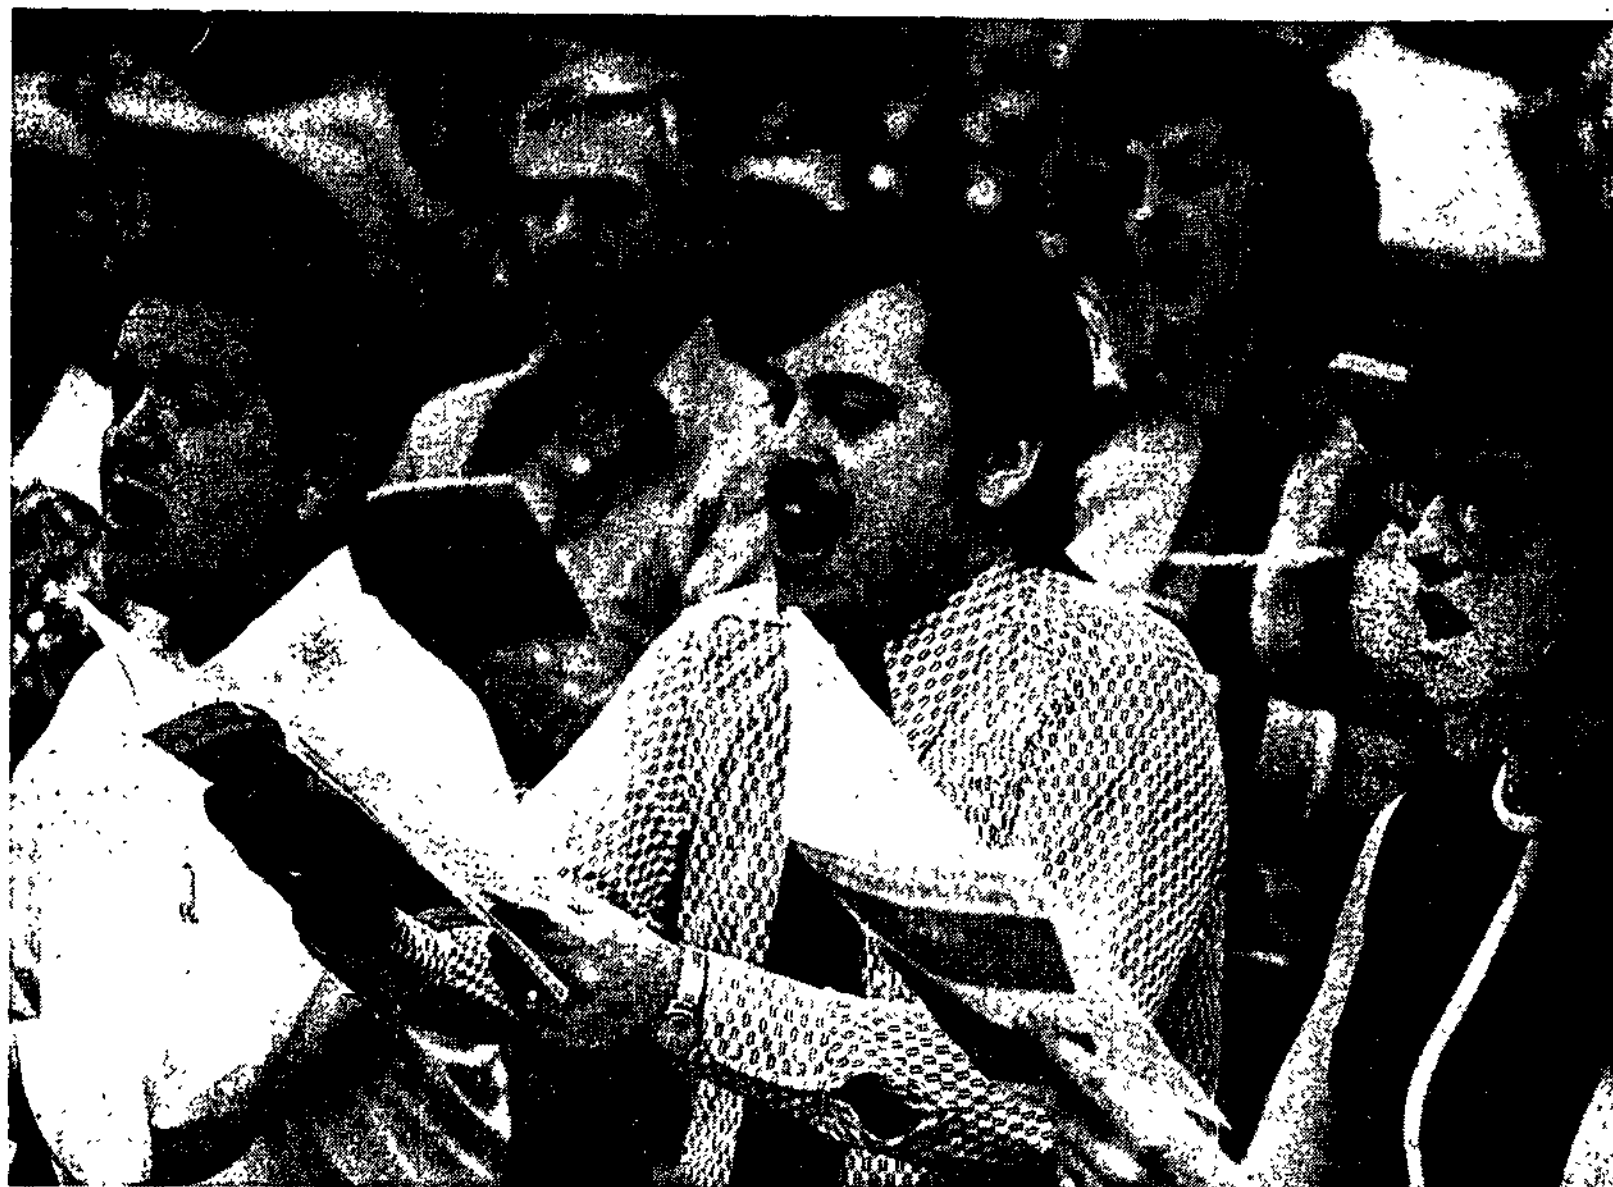

Kunkel said there are no major increases in spending or revenue but the budget does include a six per cent pay hike for park district employees.

Currently, 60 per cent of the budget's corporate fund and 75 per cent of the recreation fund is used for employee salaries.

Kunkel said these figures will probably remain stable for the new budget once it is approved by the park district board of commissioners.

The budget is currently being reviewed by park commissioners but Kunkel could not say when it will be approved.

He said several adjustments may be made in the budget before it is completed.

"DONA NOBIS PACEM" (Grant Us Peace) was one of the selections presented by the Elk Grove Festival Chorus and the Northwest Symphony Orchestra at a special Mother's Day concert Sunday at Elk Grove High School. The concert honored all Vietnam veterans and their mothers.

Driver 'fair' after crash in forest preserve

Three men were injured, one seriously, when two cars collided in the Forest Preserve west of Arlington Heights Road and south of Higgins Road.

Listed in fair condition yesterday in Alexian Brothers Medical Center was Gareth Griswold, 21, of 1000 Willow Rd., Prospect Heights. He was trapped in his car after the collision Thursday night until Elk Grove Village firemen rescued him. He was in serious condition in the intensive care unit of the hospital.

Phil Klek, 24, 1601 Winchester, Schaumburg, was the driver of the second car. He was treated at the hospital for minor injuries and released. Also released after treatment was a passenger in the Klek car, David Bixby, 24, of 1460 Prospect, Des Plaines.

Cook County Forest Preserve Rangers said details of the accident are unknown, but a fireman said it appeared the two cars had been racing.

Dear Superman,

There is a lot of room for you to fly. Des Plaines is a suburb outside of Chicago. I like Des Plaines because of the trees and the parks. If you decide to come you will like it. The airport is about 2 miles from where I live. If you still want to work for a newspaper you can take your choice of one of the papers in Des Plaines.

Your friend,
Jim Blomquist

Dear Sandy Duncan,

I would like to invite you to live in Des Plaines. You would like it here because you can go swimming in the summertime and go skating in the wintertime. In Des Plaines there are many stores to go to. You can go to Woodfield, Randhurst, K-Mart and lots of other shopping centers. You can go to the YMCA and do things and if you want to go somewhere O'Hare is five minutes away. There are many nice restaurants in Des Plaines such as Seven Eagles and Brass Rail. Township center may not get new staff members

Big cut for mental health grant?

Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center may receive only 56 per cent of the grant it requested from the state — which would prevent the center from hiring needed additional staff members.

Jordan Rosen, executive director of the center, said the Illinois Department of Mental Health recommended that the center receive only $52,000, the same amount awarded last year. The center had requested a grant of $91,978 for this year. Grants are usually made in July.

Rosen said the center is considering an appeal to the recommendation. He said, however, that the state may not permit an appeal to be made.

Without the full grant, the center will not be able to hire additional staff members, according to Rosen.

WHEN THE CENTER received its first grant of $52,000 last July, about 60 clients were being treated and there was no waiting list. The center is now handling about 360 cases and has a waiting list of 50.

Rosen has reported to the mental health center board of directors that the current case load requires maximum use of staff and facilities.

If the state grant is only $52,000, Rosen said the center may seek additional funds from the two township governments and from municipalities within the townships.

The mental health center is a recently formed organization designed to provide mental health care for all residents within the two townships. The center was developed as a new agency from Elk Grove

Village Community Service.

Community Service was a village agency that provided mental health counseling, youth services and other community programs. The agency was funded by the village and various charity organizations.

EARLY LAST YEAR, Community Service requested a grant from the state health department to provide a mental health center for Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships. Previously, the two townships, along with Palatine and Wheeling townships, received state-funded mental health care from the Northwest Mental Health Association in Arlington Heights.

The state approved the Community Service request and split the area originally served by the NMHA. Palatine and Wheeling township residents continue to receive mental health care from NMHA.

As a result of the initial grant last year, Community Service had to reorganize to create a new agency that would receive and administer funds for mental health care.

Although the mental health center and community service are separate agencies, they share some common members on the two boards of directors and Rosen is executive director of both.

Elder housing project aim: 'community'

The architect for a $4.5 million senior citizens housing project in Elk Grove Village says the development is designed to create a feeling of community.

Carol Barney, of Holabird and Root architectural firm, told village plan commissioners last week that several types of buildings were considered in planning the project for a 17-acre site on Arlington Heights Road south of Blesterfield Road.

She said a team of architects considered a high-rise (10 stories) and a medium-rise (five stories) for a site before deciding two-story apartments arranged in clusters would best serve the needs of residents.

"Green walkways separate from auto traffic, and clustered units give the development a sense of community," she said. Mrs. Barney added that each lower-level unit will have a small fenced yard to add some privacy. Second-story apartments will have balconies, she said.

THE PLAN COMMISSION members indicated they approve of the overall plan for the project, but some commissioners suggested that one or two buildings be omitted from the plan to give more open space.

"I feel it would make the development that much more attractive to take out one or two units to give more open space," Chairman William Shannon said.

Comr. Leah Cummins said a housing development for the elderly is needed, and she believes the proposed plan would not be overcrowded.

Mrs. Barney said there would be seven building types in the project with combinations of one-bedroom and efficiency units. Fourteen buildings will be two-story, two buildings will be completely one story, and 33 buildings will be combinations one and two-story.

ALTHOUGH THE details of the plan may change, about 300 dwelling units are planned for the project. Walkways will be eight feet wide to accommodate residents in wheelchairs.

A public hearing is scheduled May 29 at the village hall, 901 Wellington Ave., on two changes of the village zoning ordinance that will affect senior citizen housing.

The ordinance changes would allow the village to approve the plans for the project. Village approval is necessary before Marvin Myers, the developer, can apply for a state-subsidized loan from the Illinois Housing Development Authority to build the apartments.

Costly 'dream'

Skyrocketing home prices push many out of market

by KURT BAER

Still thinking about someday moving into that dream house? Even if it exists, the chances are you can't afford it.

Real estate appraisers say prices on expensive homes are going up 6 to 10 per cent a year in many suburban locations. More moderately priced housing is increasing in cost even faster at about 12 to 15 per cent annually.

Housing salesmen will tell you that it's the old game of supply and demand that's pushing home costs higher and higher. Builders cite the cost of land, labor and materials, as well as the building requirements of local governments.

Taken together, all these factors have priced many people right out of the single-family housing market into lower-priced townhouses and condominiums.

"Most people want to live in houses. They don't want condominiums or townhouses, but they're got to live somewhere so they buy what they think they can afford. Today that often means a townhouse," says Al Gundelach, a real estate appraiser with offices in Elk Grove Village.

IN RARE INSTANCES where single-family housing is available at "yesterday's prices," such as at the Centex-Winston Grove development in Elk Grove, prospective buyers literally stand in line to purchase home sites that have been carved out of a cornfield.

"Those houses sold like hot cakes and the griddle wasn't even warm," Gundelach said, adding that he believes the success of the Centex-Winston project should prove a point to builders.

"Builders are too tied to the old notion that land should be only one-tenth the cost of the house. They think they should be able to buy land for $1,000 a lot, when they now have to pay $3,000.

"In Beverly Hills (Calif.), 50 per cent of the cost of a home is land and 50 per cent the actual house. By holding out for apartment development (because of the cost of the land) builders have severely limited the supply of (single-family) housing. It's a trap of their own making," he says.

MARTY MUNSON, Arlington Heights building director and a man who has been closely associated with the building industry for over 20 years, says today's builder is faced with unprecedented building costs.

"Lumber is the number one item. Price and scarcity are both going up phenomenally," he says. The cost of other home building materials — masonry, sheet metal, copper, aluminum and the wages of the men who work with them have also risen.

Munson admits that local build-

A BAKE AND JUNK sale turned into natural beauty Friday as the students of Mark Hopkins School, 231 Shadywood Ln., Elk Grove Village, planted trees they purchased with the proceeds from the sale. The children raised $150 and the park district added another $150 for the trees and shrubs. The children took turns planting during free periods Friday. This group got its chance in the afternoon, directed by teacher Joan Barnett.

UFOs? Planes? What were those lights?

by STEVE BROWN

The unidentified flying objects sighted in the area might have easily been explained if Thursday had been New Year's Eve, but it wasn't.

Thursday night was a warm, clear spring evening and government and military officials were hard pressed to offer an explanation for the unusual lights seen in the southeastern sky by hundreds of area residents.

Police said over the weekend they received other reported UFO sightings, but not as many as had been reported Thursday.

Police departments in several villages were swamped with calls reporting UFOs. Most callers said they saw unexplained lights over the southern portion of the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

THE REPORTS from the public were supplemented by reports from at least a dozen police officers.

Two different military sources said the lights were probably reflections from aircraft landing lights at nearby O'Hare International Airport.

But witnesses to the phenomena said the UFOs appeared in groups of pulsating lights, some V-shaped and hovered at altitudes ranging from 1,000 feet to tree top level at about 9:30 p.m.

A spokesman for the Glenview Naval Air Station theorized aircraft lights must have caused the unusual effect.

But an official at the National Weather Service said the clear skies present at the time of sightings tended to discount the light reflection theory.

"BESIDES IN my 25 years on the job, I have never heard of any phenomena occurring at low altitude," he said.

Radar installations at O'Hare, Glenview and the Chicago-Gary Defense Base in Arlington Heights reported no UFO sightings.

Major James R. Lapp of Chanute Air Force Base, Rantoul, said he had UFO reports but said he had seen a meteor in the sky about the same time.

Puzzled officials, however, could not explain the eyewitness accounts of lights hovering for up to a half hour.

Police in Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove

Village, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and members of the Illinois State Police and the Cook County Sheriff's Police all offered similar accounts of the lights.

Schaumburg Patrolman William Barakavitch reported that he saw nine sets of lights in the vicinity of the WGN Radio transmitting tower. He said that he could differentiate the lights from those of nearby aircraft.

SHERILL ECKERSLEY, an Elk Grove Village fire alarm operator, reported a triangular object, hovering across from the fire station on Blesterfield Road.

She said the lights moved about 25 to 30 miles per hour.

"If I was the only one who saw it, I would really think I was crazy," she said, adding she had never seen anything like it. Other firemen also saw the object.

Early speculation that the lights came from helicopters was discounted after a check of many civilian and military installations revealed that no helicopters were airborne at the time.

The reflecting lights theory was also discounted by a leading authority in the UFO field, Dr. J. Allen Hynek of Northwestern University.

"I DO NOT BUY the reflections theory, because of the hovering effect that was reported," he said. Hynek, who was the scientific consultant for Air Force's UFO project, Operation Bluebook, has authored a book on similar sightings, "The UFO Experience."

Hynek said he believes the objects sighted were "nocturnal lights." He said he would reserve further comment until more information is received on the sightings. Associates of Hynek will be interviewing persons who reported the sightings.

"I do not buy the reflecting lights story either," said a police officer who asked that his name not be used.

"I did not see any little green men, but what I did see was the most unusual experience I have ever witnessed," he added.

THIS WRECKAGE was left after two cars collided on a Forest Preserve road near Elk Grove Village Thursday night. One driver, Gareth Griswold, 1000 Willow Rd., Prospect Heights, was seriously injured. Two other men were treated for minor injuries at Alexian Brothers Medical Center and released. They were Phil Klek of Schaumburg and David Bixby of Des Plaines.

Village to take recycling center responsibility

Elk Grove Village may assume full responsibility for the recycling center behind the village hall.

The Elk Grove Village Jaycees, Junior Woman's Club and the high school Ecology Club have been responsible for the center since it was installed last year.

Robert Franz, administrative assistant to the village manager, said the proposal submitted last week to take over operation of the center is now being considered. He said the village has been responsible for the general supervision and clean-up for the center.

The three civic clubs now are responsible for publicity and financial operation of the center.

Franz said the civic clubs may continue to handle publicity, even if the village assumes responsibility for the center.

He said one problem the village has to consider before accepting responsibility is the growing reluctance of recycling companies to take material from recycling centers. He said people are not observing the rules for depositing material.

For example, debris and other objects have been found in the recycled glass container. Glass companies will not accept glass for recycling that has debris in it because it is too expensive to remove the waste material.

Bulldozer caper leaves $1,000 damage

A 25-ton bulldozer was found in a ditch south of Thorndale Avenue last week after someone took it on a joy ride that started from a construction site on Mark Street in Elk Grove Village.

Police said the bulldozer knocked down 64 feet of chain-link fence surrounding a village water pumping station. Damage amounted to $1,000.

Officials of Conti Construction Co. said the $50,000 bulldozer had enough gasoline for at least a three-hour ride.

Driver 'fair' after crash in forest preserve

Three men were injured, one seriously, when two cars collided in the Forest Preserve west of Arlington Heights Road and south of Higgins Road.

Listed in fair condition yesterday in Alexian Brothers Medical Center was Gareth Griswold, 21, of 1000 Willow Rd., Prospect Heights. He was trapped in his car after the collision Thursday night until Elk Grove Village firemen rescued him. He was in serious condition in the intensive care unit of the hospital.

Phil Klek, 24, 1601 Winchester, Schaumburg, was the driver of the second car. He was treated at the hospital for minor injuries and released. Also released after treatment was a passenger in the Klek car, David Bixby, 24, of 1480 Prospect, Des Plaines.

Cook County Forest Preserve Rangers said details of the accident are unknown, but a fireman said it appeared the two cars had been racing.

Parks summer signup set

Registration for the Elk Grove Park District summer program will begin May 21. Complete summer program books are expected to be mailed to all residents this week.

Richard Ludovissy, superintendent of recreation, said more than 100 programs will be available during the summer.

Pool passes for the season will go on sale May 17.

Resident in 'Speak Up'

David Gattorna, 94 Keswick, tied for first place in the "Speak Up" contest at the Jaycee Illinois State Convention, May 4-6, in Springfield.

Gattorna, a member of the Elk Grove Village Jaycees, represented the local chapter and the North Region Jaycees in the contest. All 276 state Jaycee chapters, with a total membership of more than 7,000, were represented in the contest.

"Speak Up" is a program of local chapters and is part of the Jaycees leadership development. Members are required to write and present three-minute speeches for the "Speak Up" program.

Fifteen members of the local Jaycees and their wives were also sent to Springfield to take part in the convention and election of state officers.

Rep. Chapman proposes bill to protect home buyers

The disclosure of information aimed at protecting new home buyers will be covered in a bill proposed by State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights.

There are people who go out to buy a first home who need protection assuring they understand what schools their children will attend and whether the house is on a flood plain, said Mrs. Chapman. Some people don't even know what a flood plain is, she added.

Her proposed legislation, House Bill 1687, is co-sponsored by Representatives Donald Totter, R-Hoffman Estates, and Richard Mugallan, D-Palatine. It will be up for consideration by the Illinois House of Representatives Registration and Regulations Committee.

The proposal will be known as the "Residential Housing Disclosure Act." It is the first major legislation of its type covering single-family homes, she said.

MRS. CHAPMAN said she was encouraged to sponsor the legislation because of a series of articles in The Herald and because of interest for the need of legislation protecting people buying new houses.

In a presentation tomorrow, Mrs. Chapman said she will seek the support of people from the area and has an indication Carol Johnson of Schaumburg's Timbercrest subdivision may appear to testify on needs for passage of the act.

Mrs. Chapman also encourages people write to their representatives if they agree legislation is needed.

"We're trying to make sure of getting it passed in this session," she said, adding, "I think it's needed now."

"If the bill has to wait until the legislature's next session for passage, there will be thousands of people in the state buying new homes without the protections it offers," she added.

THE BILL requires the developers of subdivisions with 10 or more homes to provide information on what type of land conditions exist on and around the property where the house is located.

It also requires an explanation of the adequacy of storm and sanitation sewer facilities and the proximity of the house to all public, shopping and church facilities.

Also significant, said Mrs. Chapman, is the requirement developers inform the buyer of zoning on nearby land and of any nearby utility easements.

This would prevent a salesman telling someone a park will be located where an apartment complex is planned, she added.

MRS. CHAPMAN said the intention of the bill is to give protection to home buyers both before and after the closing of the contract.

Another major feature of the bill is protection for a homeowner going to court to get satisfaction from a developer who hasn't lived up to the contract, she said.

The bill makes the developer responsible for any legal cost the homeowner faces in the suit.

Smith to head park board

Park Comr. Lew Smith was elected president of the Elk Grove Village Park District board at the reorganization meeting Thursday. He succeeds Edward Hauser.

Other officers elected were: Martin Durkin, vice president; Jack Ramey, secretary, and Bart Dill, treasurer.

Former Park Comr. David von Schaumburg was given a watch by the board in honor of his seven years of service. Von Schaumburg was on the original park board when it was formed seven years ago. He did not seek reelection last April.

Jack Claes was rehired by the board as the park director.

In other action at the meeting: • The board presented merit awards to Jeri Fedel, Angie Foster, Bud Lindahl and Orville Brown. Five-year staff awards were given to John Schaefer, park superintendent; Al Hattendorf, recreation program supervisor, and Tom Strauss, maintenance foreman.

• Roland Schapanski was hired by the board to do the architectural work for new tennis courts and other proposed park improvements.

• A contract was awarded to Lattot Motors for the purchase of a 1973 Chevrolet at a cost of $2,210.

Centex gains OK for more homes

The Elk Grove Village Plan Commission has given tentative approval of Centex Homes Corp. plans for two new sections of single-family homes in the Winston Grove subdivision west of Ill. Rte. 53.

The commissioners said last week they approved the general layout but they wanted a minor change in one of the streets and a utility easement.

Originally plans called for a drainage ditch to run through the subdivision, but the commissioners strongly objected to the ditch and a pond was substituted, to retain water. The retention pond and a park site will be given to Elk Grove Park District as a recreation area.

The lots are part of the Vale Tract, which includes 1,096 acres. About 260 homes are planned for the two sections.

Man 'serious' after stabbing incident

Jerry Poca of 941 Higgins, Elk Grove Village, was listed in serious condition in the intensive care unit of Northwest Community Hospital yesterday after receiving several stab wounds Saturday night.

Palatine Police reported the stabbing incident occurred at 245 W. Johnson, Apt. 311, Palatine, at 9 p.m. Saturday. Palatine police said the stabbing is still under investigation and no arrests have been made yet.

Village sought big reductions

Move to cut land owners' Colfax cost nixed by court

An attempt by the Village of Palatine to substantially reduce the amount of money that W. Colfax Street property owners would pay toward the proposed $1.4 million street improvements was denied Friday by Cook County Circuit Court Judge Helen F. McGillicuddy.

Tro Judge instead set final arguments in the special assessment case for 10:15 a.m. today in the Civic Center. The case is expected to go to the 12-member jury this afternoon.

Kenneth O. Stonesifer, attorney for the village, moved Friday, out of the presence of the jury, that the assessments on the 33 parcels of property between Smith Street and Quentin Road be reduced, in most cases by more than half.

THE VILLAGE has contended in the suit that the owners should pay 30 per cent of the cost of improving the road, and the village, through motor fuel taxes, would provide the remaining 70 per cent.

The property owners challenged the breakdown, contending that the road improvements would benefit all residents and should be paid fully by the village.

The improvements include widening the street from two to four lanes, and installing storm sewers, streets lights, sidewalks, curbs and gutters.

Stonesifer proposed Friday that the 30 per cent figure be lowered to reflect the estimated increase in property value suggested by Frank J. Muriello, a real estate appraiser who testified on behalf of the village.

MURIELLO evaluated the present and projected market value of the 33 parcels as affected by the street improvements. In general, he estimated increases in value of 10 to 12 per cent.

One increase was as low as 2 per cent, and two climbed as high as 40 per cent.

The testimony was startling in that Muriello, the village's own witness, acknowledged that 31 of the 33 pieces of property would not go up in value anywhere near the 30 per cent suggested by the village in levying the special assessment.

Muriello played no role in setting the 70-30 breakdown, which was determined by a three-member special commission with the advice of Stonesifer.

IN DENYING Stonesifer's motion to reduce the amount of the assessments, Judge McGillicuddy agreed with James Brandvik, attorney for the property owners, that it is up to the jury to determine the level of the assessments.

Brandvik apparently is hoping that the jury will discount the credibility of Muriello's testimony in favor of the earlier testimony of the property owners' appraiser.

That appraiser, James J. Curtis Jr., estimated no increase in property value for 24 parcels after street improvements, and modest increases — up to 6.25 per cent — for the other nine parcels.

Stonesifer had sought on Thursday to strike Curtis' testimony from the record, contending it is "inconceivable these parcels would have no benefit (in market value) at all." The motion was denied by Judge McGillicuddy.

THE DISCREPANCY between the proposed assessments based on the 30 per cent figure, and Muriello's estimated increase in market value, was brought out in cross examination of the witness Friday by Brandvik.

He noted that according to Muriello's estimates, one homeowner, Wayne N. Peterson, 722 W. Colfax St., would pay $4,228 under the present cost formula while his property would gain in value only $1,400.

The values of two neighboring homes, one owned by Concha Ramirez and the other by Michael T. Novosel, would go up $1,300 each if the improvements were made, according to Muriello's testimony, but each would be assessed $3,730.

Muriello acknowledged that two parcels involved in the suit — a house at 270 N. Smith St. and a small apartment building at 306 N. Smith St. — were mistakenly omitted from his inspections. Brandvik indicated he would ask the judge today for a directed verdict in those two instances.

BASED ON THE 70-30 breakdown, property owners would be assessed $50 per frontage foot of property. The amounts of the assessments range from $421 for the small apartment buildings to $15,971 for the Georgetown apartment complex.

The Smith Street Apartments and the Palatine Transportation Center, two of the most heavily assessed parcels, pulled out of the suit on Thursday, settling with the village at an undisclosed amount.

Thirty-six other W. Colfax Street property owners did not legally object to the 70-30 split, and will be assessed at the $50 per frontage foot rate.

Multi-grade classrooms OKd for two schools

School renovation plans to allow several grade levels to be taught in a single classroom have been approved for Jonas Salk School in Rolling Meadows and Virginia Lake School in Palatine.

The Dist. 15 board of education has approved $5,032 for renovation work at the two schools during 1973-74. A second phase of the renovation slated for completion in 1974-75 will cost an estimated $7,668 if approved by the board.

Under the program, children from two or three grade levels will be combined into one classroom. Instruction is mainly individualized. School officials believe multi-age grouping creates a classroom environment conducive to optimum learning. Students are able to learn the basic skills at their own rate and because of the wider age range they learn to accept individual differences among children, grades lose their importance, younger students are motivated by older ones and older students learn to assume more responsibility, according to school studies.

AT VIRGINIA Lake School, the walls between six classrooms will be removed at an estimated cost of $2,724, and the wall between the teachers' workroom and a classroom will be removed at a cost of $831.

Approximately 280 students were in a multi-age grouping pilot program at Virginia Lake School this year and next year the pilot will be expanded to include 335 students. The multi-age groups will include a kindergarten and first-grade unit; a first, second and third-grade unit; a second, third and fourth grade unit; and two units of fourth, fifth and sixth-grade students.

Two teachers will be assigned to each multi-age group and they will be assisted by instructional aides and clerical aides.

This year there are eight multi-age groups at Virginia Lake School with one teacher assigned to each group. The groups are smaller than those planned for next year and isolated to one classroom. By combining classrooms but keeping the teacher-student ratio approximately the same, the school hopes to maximize the learning experiences to be gained from multi-age grouping.

NEXT YEAR WILL be the first year for multi-age grouping at Jonas Salk School. Two classroom walls are being removed at a cost of $1,706.

Jonas Salk School is proposing dual-age grouping of 110 second and third-grade students. Four teachers will be assigned to the dual-age group which will meet in an open space equivalent to four existing classrooms.

At both schools, self-contained, traditional classrooms will be provided so parents will be able to choose the type of classroom their child is assigned to.

Proposed for the second year of the renovation plan is the carpeting of major parts of each classroom at a cost of $7,668.

Trustees to discuss Wynngate complex

The Palatine Village Board tonight will continue its discussion of the proposed Wynngate North apartment complex to be located on Wood Street, near the proposed extension of Merrill Avenue.

Developers Ralph and Ray Marotte have proposed two five-story buildings containing a total of 206 units. The Z-shaped buildings would have underground parking.

The village board discussed the project at its meeting last week, but deferred action pending consultation with the project's engineer.

The trustees were concerned about drainage of storm water from the property.

Tonight's meeting will start at 8 p.m. in village hall.

Costly 'dream' Skyrocketing home prices push many out of market

by KURT BAER

Still thinking about someday moving into that dream house? Even if it exists, the chances are you can't afford it.

Real estate appraisers say prices on expensive homes are going up 6 to 10 per cent a year in many suburban locations. More moderately priced housing is increasing in cost even faster at about 12 to 15 per cent annually.

Housing salesmen will tell you that it's the old game of supply and demand that's pushing home costs higher and higher. Builders cite the cost of land, labor and materials, as well as the building requirements of local governments.

Taken together, all these factors have priced many people right out of the single-family housing market into lower-priced townhouses and condominiums.

"Most people want to live in houses. They don't want condominiums or townhouses, but they're got to live somewhere so they buy what they think they can afford. Today that often means a townhouse," says Al Gundelach, a real estate appraiser with offices in Elk Grove Village.

IN RARE INSTANCES where single-family housing is available at "yesterday's prices," such as at the Centex-Winston Grove development in Elk Grove, prospective buyers literally stand in line to purchase home sites that have been carved out of a cornfield.

"Those houses sold like hot cakes and the griddle wasn't even warm," Gundelach said, adding that he believes the success of the Centex-Winston project should prove a point to builders.

"Builders are too tied to the old notion that land should be only one-tenth the cost of the house. They think they should be able to buy land for $1,000 a lot, when they now have to pay $5,000."

"In Beverly Hills (Calif.), 50 per cent of the cost of a home is land and 50 per cent the actual house. By holding out for apartment development (because of the cost of the land) builders have severely limited the supply of (single-family) housing. It's a trap of their own making," he says.

MARTY MUNSON, Arlington Heights building director and a man who has been closely associated with the building industry for over 20 years, says today's builder is faced with unprecedented building costs.

"Lumber is the number one item. Price and scarcity are both going up phenomenally," he says. The cost of other home building materials — masonry, sheet metal, copper, aluminum and the wages of the men who work with them have also risen.

Munson admits that local builders

School board reconsiders smoke areas

by WANDALYN RICE

The High School Dist. 211 board has decided it wants to take a look at the student smoking areas at its four schools to see whether they should be continued.

The board members agreed to reconsider the policy which allows the schools to have outdoor smoking areas after board member Glen Hargrave said he was upset by the appearance of the areas at Fremd and Palatine high schools.

Hargrave referred to an editorial in the Fremd High School student newspaper which called the Fremd smoking area as a "garbage dump." Hargrave said he was philosophically opposed to smoking areas but said, "If we have them, we should keep them clean. If we can't clean them up, I'd like to see the issue come back to the board and take them away."

ASSOCIATE Supt. Bruce Altergott told the board the principals at the school have been aware of the problem of litter in the smoking areas. "The principals were not very optimistic about having all butts put in the garbage cans," Altergott said. "The areas are cleaned every day except Monday when the groundskeepers are off work."

Board Pres. Robert Creek said he was not happy with the fact the district is paying groundskeepers to clean up the areas. "I think we can take the attitude with the students of 'clean them or close them,'" Creek said.

Supt. Richard Kolze said more information on the problem will be brought to the board later.

In another item, the board heard a report that its school buses have all but two of the 45 safety features suggested in a recent article in the "American School Board Journal."

Claude Bailey, dir. of transportation, said the district's fleet of 74 buses are not equipped with automatic transmission or with emergency exit ladders in back, but do have padding on backs of seats, dual breaking systems, speed governors and other suggested safety features.

Bailey said the district's buses run 20,000 bus routes and 400,000 miles each school year and has not had a serious accident in the 10 years he has managed the transportation system.

"I almost hate to say that," Bailey said. "It's one of those things you hope will never happen but you know it might someday."

Bailey also said he was dubious about the value of having seat belts in school buses, partly because of enforcement problems and partly because they are not needed.

"We have had cars hit buses and the buses are built so strong the driver didn't even know he'd been hit," Bailey said. "The one situation where seat belts might help would be if you were hit by a train or a big truck and then I don't know how much good it would do."

The Viet Cong said American warplanes "killed and injured" 34 civilians in a single air strike in South Vietnam and asked the international peace-keeping force to conduct an "emergency investigation" of the incident. It was the second time in as many days the Provisional Revolutionary Government has protested to the International Commission for Control and Supervision about alleged U.S. raids inside South Vietnam near the Cambodian border.

Police in Belfast, Northern Ireland, detained three suspects in the bombings of a crowded Roman Catholic pub in which 12 persons were injured, six of them seriously. Army experts defused two bombs planted in the social room of a football club in Londonderry's Catholic Bogside district, police said.

UFOs? Planes? What were those lights?

by STEVE BROWN

The unidentified flying objects sighted in the area might have easily been explained if Thursday had been New Year's Eve, but it wasn't.

Thursday night was a warm, clear spring evening and government and military officials were hard pressed to offer an explanation for the unusual lights seen in the southeastern sky by hundreds of area residents.

Police said over the weekend they received other reported UFO sightings, but not as many as had been reported Thursday.

Police departments in several villages were swamped with calls reporting UFOs. Most callers said they saw unexplained lights over the southern portion of the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

THE REPORTS from the public were supplemented by reports from at least a dozen police officers.

Two different military sources said the lights were probably reflections from aircraft landing lights at nearby O'Hare International Airport.

But witnesses to the phenomena said the UFOs appeared in groups of pulsating lights, some V-shaped and hovered at altitudes ranging from 1,000 feet to tree top level at about 9:30 p.m.

A spokesman for the Glenview Naval Air Station theorized aircraft lights must have caused the unusual effect.

But an official at the National Weather Service said the clear skies present at the time of sightings tended to discount the light reflection theory.

"BESIDES IN my 25 years on the job, I have never heard of any phenomena occurring at low altitude," he said.

Radar installations at O'Hare, Glenview and the Chicago-Gary Defense Base in Arlington Heights reported no UFO sightings.

Major James R. Lapp of Chanute Air Force Base, Rantoul, said he had UFO reports but said he had seen a meteor in the sky about the same time.

Puzzled officials, however, could not explain the eyewitness accounts of lights hovering for up to a half hour.

Police in Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove

Village, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and members of the Illinois State Police and the Cook County Sheriff's Police all offered similar accounts of the lights.

Schaumburg Patrolman William Barkevitch reported that he saw nine sets of lights in the vicinity of the WGN Radio transmitting tower. He said that he could differentiate the lights from those of nearby aircraft.

SHERILL ECKERSLEY, an Elk Grove Village fire alarm operator, reported a triangular object, hovering across from the fire station on Blesterfield Road.

She said the lights moved about 25 to 30 miles per hour.

"If I was the only one who saw it, I would really think I was crazy," she said, adding she had never seen anything like it. Other firemen also saw the object.

Early speculation that the lights came from helicopters was discounted after a check of many civilian and military installations revealed that no helicopters were airborne at the time.

The reflecting lights theory was also discounted by a leading authority in the UFO field, Dr. J. Allen Hynek of Northwestern University.

"I DO NOT BUY the reflections theory, because of the hovering effect that was reported," he said. Hynek, who was the scientific consultant for Air Force's UFO project, Operation Bluebook, has authored a book on similar sightings, "The UFO Experience."

Hynek said he believes the objects sighted were "nocturnal lights." He said he would reserve further comment until more information is received on the sightings. Associates of Hynek will be interviewing persons who reported the sightings.

"I do not buy the reflecting lights story either," said a police officer who asked that his name not be used.

"I did not see any little green men, but what I did see was the most unusual experience I have ever witnessed," he added.

'Bridge' slates open house

The Bridge, an area youth services bureau, will have an open house tonight at the Bridge offices, 434½ E. Northwest Hwy. in Palatine, from 7-10 p.m. The open house is part of the activities scheduled for Bridge Week, which started Saturday. Other plans include a storytelling session Thursday night with Ruven Gold, and a rock and folk circus at Barrington High School, Barrington, on Sunday afternoon and evening.

Library needs volunteers

Volunteers are needed at the Palatine Public Library to help with various projects and activities planned for the coming months. Two meetings for volunteers with the Friends of the Palatine Library will be held Wednesday, at 1 p.m. and 8 p.m., to discuss the various projects.

They include covering books, framing prints which are circulated, preparing to lead Great Books and Great Decisions groups, developing a resource file, preparing multiple copies and reading to the partially sighted.

Geraldine Cosby, president of the Friends, said that some of the projects may be done in the home rather than at the library, due to space limitations. Volunteers do not have to be members of the Friends to attend one of the two Wednesday organizational meetings at the library, 149 N. Brockway St.

LWV township observer

Lyn Rowe, a member of the Palatine League of Women Voter, has been appointed the league's observer of Palatine Township government. She assumes the duties formerly performed by Ann Scollay, who is working now as the Cook County LWV chairman on township government.

The league has been observing meetings of Palatine Township for the past 2½ years, and the Palatine LWV was one of four area leagues to sue northwest suburban townships last fall. The Palatine LWV lawsuit, to force township officials to hold a referendum on the question of abolishing township government, was dismissed on a preliminary motion.

'Report from China' movie

The Palatine Public Library will be showing a film made by a Japanese crew during Chairman Mao's Great Cultural Revolution in China entitled "Report from China." The film shows the economic and social development of China, including peasants and workers participating in agricultural and industrial programs.

Emphasis of the film, is on the efforts by the Chinese to eliminate class structures threatening the progress of the country. The program is free and open to the public, at 149 N. Brockway St.

Arlington teacher gets job back

An Arlington Heights teacher who was fired by the school board for cruelty toward children was given his job back by a Cook County Circuit Court judge Friday.

John Fender, accused of striking children while a teacher in School Dist. 25 and subsequently fired by the district, apparently has won his job back following a decision by Judge Edward Healy. Judge Healy on Friday reversed the decision of the board of education to dismiss Fender.

Details of the return of Fender to the school district and the matter of whether he is entitled to back pay, and whether the school board will appeal Judge Healy's decision await deliberations of the school board with its attorney tonight. Board members contacted refused to speculate on the board's probable course of action.

FENDER, A language arts teacher for 10 years in School Dist. 25, was fired by the board in June. The School district charged there were several incidents of Fender striking students.

Parents of a seventh grade student signed a complaint on Fender, charging him with battery last June. The parents charged that Fender struck their daughter several times without provocation on the head and across the face.

In September, Fender was found innocent of battery by a Cook County Circuit Court branch jury in Evanston.

THE BOARD will meet tonight with its attorney for details of the court decision. The board must decide either to reinstate Fender or to continue fighting in the courts for his dismissal.

"We're not sure if there's going to be anything definite," said Richard Schlott, board president. According to Judge Healy, the board has 30 days to file an appeal.

According to Fender's attorney, Edward Jackson, the decision means the court has set aside the dismissal and that Fender is "automatically reinstated" as a teacher in good standing as he was before he was fired in June.

"Our position is that they should pay Fender up to date," said Jackson. "However, we don't know what the board will do now."

School Board Director of administering and planning, Donald Monroe, said Fender's status depends on a possible appeal.

JACKSON SAID the court upheld that Fender should have been given written notice to cease corporal punishment before charges were brought against him.

The court finally ruled that the school board's attorney, Ralph Miller, was acting as prosecutor, and at the same time acted as counsel for the school board, which is unlawful, said Jackson.

Miller refused to comment on the case.

If the school board decides to appeal the decision, the earliest the court could arrive at a ruling is within several months, said Jackson. Also if the board loses, it can file for appeal again, in the state supreme court.

Fender was not available for comment.

Rep. Chapman proposes bill to protect home buyers

The disclosure of information aimed at protecting new home buyers will be covered in a bill proposed by State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights.

There are people who go out to buy a first home who need protection assuring they understand what schools their children will attend and whether the house is on a flood plain, said Mrs. Chapman. Some people don't even know what a flood plain is, she added.

Her proposed legislation, House Bill 1687, is co-sponsored by Representatives Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, and Richard Mugalian, D-Palatine. It will be up for consideration by the Illinois House of Representatives Registration and Regulations Committee.

The proposal will be known as the "Residential Housing Disclosure Act." It is the first major legislation of its type covering single-family homes, she said.

MRS. CHAPMAN said she was encouraged to sponsor the legislation because of a series of articles in The Herald and because of interest for the need of legislation protecting people buying new houses.

In a presentation tomorrow, Mrs. Chapman said she will seek the support of people from the area and has an indication Carol Johnson of Schaumburg's Timbercrest subdivision may appear to testify on needs for passage of the act.

Mrs. Chapman also encourages people write to their representatives if they agree legislation is needed.

"We're trying to make sure of getting it passed in this session," she said, adding, "I think it's needed now."

"If the bill has to wait until the legislature's next session for passage, there will be thousands of people in the state buying new homes without the protections it offers," she added.

THE BILL requires the developers of subdivisions with 10 or more homes to provide information on what type of land conditions exist on and around the property where the house is located.

It also requires an explanation of the adequacy of storm and sanitation sewer facilities and the proximity of the house to all public, shopping and church facilities.

Also significant, said Mrs. Chapman, is the requirement developers inform the buyer of zoning on nearby land and of any nearby utility easements.

This would prevent a salesman telling someone a park will be located where an apartment complex is planned, she added.

MRS. CHAPMAN said the intention of the bill is to give protection to home buyers both before and after the closing of the contract.

Another major feature of the bill is protection for a homeowner going to court to get satisfaction from a developer who hasn't lived up to the contract, she said.

The bill makes the developer responsible for any legal cost the homeowner faces in the suit.

City treasurer outlines plan

Revenue-sharing cash may avert water rate fee hike

Rolling Meadows City Treasurer Robert Cole has suggested that the city use a portion of its 1973 federal revenue sharing money to rebuild the city water fund and avoid a water rate increase.

Cole told the city council last week the water fund has been depleted during the past year because of several major expenditures, including the new city well site on Golf Road. Cole said Friday using a portion of the federal money for the water fund would be an appropriate use of the money and could eliminate the need for possible rate increases to rebuild the fund.

Residents currently pay 63 cents per 1,000 gallons of water. The rate went into effect in 1971 over the objections of the business community. Previously industrial and commercial interests in the city had been given special reduced water rates as the amount of water used increased.

"Over the past year the water fund has had some major capital expenditures," Cole said Friday. He said the expenditures have totaled some $144,000 and have been funded largely through transferring funds from other general city uses to the water fund.

COLE SAID FRIDAY the council must submit a report to the federal government by June 20 on the planned uses for federal revenue sharing money.

The report is required of all communities and must be filed with the U.S. Treasury Department. It will include how the city intends to spend some $200,000 in anticipated 1973 federal revenue sharing.

The report will not include the expenditure of some $61,000 for flood control equipment authorized last week by the council, Cole said. This is because funds for that purchase came from 1972 revenue sharing money, which does not have to be reported until Jan. 1, 1974.

Cole said no explanation was given by the government for submitting the 1973 report before the 1972 report. The 1973 report due this June will cover revenue received from January through June of this year.

THE REPORT asks for the city's plans in spending but can be amended if stated uses change, Cole said.

To date this year, the city has received about $51,000 in federal revenue sharing. The money is sent in four installments, with the next sum due in June. Cole said the next amount is expected to also be about $51,000 and that the city will probably receive about $200,000 this year.

That amount is expected to increase until 1976, the fifth year of the federal revenue sharing program. After that, the total may begin to decrease, Cole added.

Last year the city received some $177,000 from the federal revenue sharing program.

Schar named plan commission head

Richard Schar, reappointed Tuesday by Mayor Roland Meyer to the Rolling Meadows Plan Commission, has been voted that group's chairman.

Schar was voted in as chairman by commission members to succeed Robert T. Byrnes.

Byrnes, along with Pat Jacobsen and Schar, were renamed to the commission Tuesday upon approval of the city council. Byrnes had been the commission's chairman during the last year.

Teens participate in 'Christ' campaign

Three area teenagers recently participated in the "Campaign for Christ," sponsored by the Reorganized Latter Day Saint Church, in Independence, Mo.

Scott Brown and Don Simon of Rolling Meadows and Blaine Nelson of Palatine attended the "Campaign for Christ" aimed at providing the participants with the spiritual equipment to witness for Christ.

Senior wins Sousa award

Paul Germano of 2307 Willow Ln., Rolling Meadows, was the recipient of the John Philip Sousa Band Award, given for the first time at the recent Rolling Meadows High School spring concert.

Germano is a senior and a trombonist in both the high school symphonic and jazz bands. He was selected for the award by a vote of his fellow band members based on excellence in musicianship, leadership, scholarship and citizenship.

His name is engraved on the Sousa band plaque which will be on permanent display in the high school band room.

During the last year, Germano was chosen to play in the all-state high school orchestra, Dist. VII high school orchestra and the Triton College high school honor jazz band.

He served as an officer on last year's band council, was co-writer of this year's first football halftime show, directed the basketball pep band and is currently playing in the pit orchestra for the upcoming musical at the school. He is also a member of the varsity tennis team.

Germano was named an Illinois State Scholar and will attend Millikin University in Decatur in the fall and major in music.

Man charged with marijuana possession

Arlington Heights police arrested a Mount Prospect man and a juvenile girl companion last week and charged them with possession of marijuana.

Police said they stopped Steve Krejci, 20, of 1803 Hopi Ln., Mount Prospect, early Wednesday morning when his car was observed speeding on South Arlington Heights Road.

Arresting officers searched his auto after allegedly smelling alcohol on Krejci's breath. The search reportedly turned up a can of beer under the front seat and quantity of marijuana in the glove compartment.

Police also reportedly found a pipe and cigarette papers in the car.

Krejci and a juvenile girl in the car were charged with possession of alcohol by a minor and possession of marijuana. He also was charged with speeding.

Science study curriculum OK'd for grades K-6

A new science curriculum has been adopted for all kindergarten through sixth grade classes by the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 Board of Education.

The curriculum adoption for the 1973-74 school year follows a one-year pilot of the program, called Elementary Science Study (ESS), at Jonas Salk School in Rolling Meadows and Virginia Lake School in Palatine.

Equipment to start the program is expected to cost $40,000 and additional costs will be accrued for refurbishing the science units after they are used and storing the units.

An intensive program of inservice training will be provided by the district for teachers who will teach ESS.

ESS ATTEMPTS to capitalize on students' natural curiosity. There is no formal textbook for the program. Children learn by doing, rather than by rote.

Instead of formal textbooks, there are science units for the students to work on. The units are divided into four groups: physical science, biological science, earth science and general skills. The units are adaptable to each of the elementary grade levels.

ESS lends itself to individualization in science education. There is minimal teacher-directed work and the students are allowed and encouraged to work at their own pace and explore areas of special interest.

Costly 'dream'

Skyrocketing home prices push many out of market

by KURT BAER
Still thinking about someday moving into that dream house? Even if it exists, the chances are you can't afford it.

Real estate appraisers say prices on expensive homes are going up 6 to 10 per cent a year in many suburban locations. More moderately priced housing is increasing in cost even faster at about 12 to 15 per cent annually.

Housing salesmen will tell you that it's the old game of supply and demand that's pushing home costs higher and higher. Builders cite the cost of land, labor and materials, as well as the building requirements of local governments.

Taken together, all these factors have priced many people right out of the single-family housing market into lower-priced townhouses and condominiums.

"Most people want to live in houses. They don't want condominiums or townhouses, but they're got to live somewhere so they buy what they think they can afford. Today that often means a townhouse," says Al Gundelach, a real estate appraiser with offices in Elk Grove Village.

IN RARE INSTANCES where single-family housing is available at "yesterday's prices," such as at the Centex-Winston Grove development in Elk Grove, prospective buyers literally stand in line to purchase home sites that have been carved out of a cornfield.

"Those houses sold like hot cakes and the griddle wasn't even warm," Gundelach said, adding that he believes the success of the Centex-Winston project should prove a point to builders.

"Builders are too tied to the old notion that land should be only one-tenth the cost of the house. They think they should be able to buy land for $1,000 a lot, when they now have to pay $5,000."

"In Beverly Hills (Calif.), 50 per cent of the cost of a home is land and 50 per cent the actual house. By holding out for apartment development (because of the cost of the land) builders have severely limited the supply of (single-family) housing. It's a trap of their own making," he says.

MARTY MUNSON, Arlington Heights building director and a man who has been closely associated with the building industry for over 20 years, says today's builder is faced with unprecedented building costs.

"Lumber is the number one item. Price and scarcity are both going up phenomenally," he says. The cost of other home building materials — masonry, sheet metal, copper, aluminum and the wages of the men who work with them have also risen.

Munson admits that local build-

Multi-grade classroom plans OK'd

School renovation plans to allow several grade levels to be taught in a single classroom have been approved for Jonas Salk School in Rolling Meadows and Virginia Lake School in Palatine.

The Dist. 15 board of education has approved $5,632 for renovation work at the two schools during 1973-74. A second phase of the renovation slated for completion in 1974-75 will cost an estimated $7,668 if approved by the board.

Under the program, children from two or three grade levels will be combined into one classroom. Instruction is mainly individualized. School officials believe multi-age grouping creates a classroom environment conducive to optimum learning. Students are able to learn the basic skills at their own rate and because of the wider age range they learn to accept individual differences among children, grades lose their importance, younger students are motivated by older ones and older students learn to assume more responsibility, according to school studies.

AT VIRGINIA Lake School, the walls between six classrooms will be removed at an estimated cost of $2,724, and the wall between the teachers' workroom and a classroom will be removed at a cost of $831.

Approximately 280 students were in a multi-age grouping pilot program at Virginia Lake School this year and next year the pilot will be expanded to include 355 students. The multi-age groups will include a kindergarten and first-grade unit; a first, second and third-grade unit; a second, third and fourth grade unit; and two units of fourth, fifth and sixth-grade students.

Two teachers will be assigned to each multi-age group and they will be assisted by instructional aides and clerical aides.

This year there are eight multi-age groups at Virginia Lake School with one teacher assigned to each group. The groups are smaller than those planned for next year and isolated to one classroom. By combining classrooms but keeping the teacher-student ratio approximately the same, the school hopes to maximize the learning experiences to be gained from multi-age grouping.

NEXT YEAR WILL be the first year for multi-age grouping at Jonas Salk School. Two classroom walls are being removed at a cost of $1,706.

Jonas Salk School is proposing dual-age grouping of 110 second and third-grade students. Four teachers will be assigned to the dual-age group which will meet in an open space equivalent to four existing classrooms.

At both schools, self-contained, traditional classrooms will be provided so parents will be able to choose the type of classroom their child is assigned to.

Proposed for the second year of the renovation plan is the carpeting of major parts of each classroom at a cost of $7,568.

UFOs? Planes? What were those lights?

by STEVE BROWN

The unidentified flying objects sighted in the area might have easily been explained if Thursday had been New Year's Eve, but it wasn't.

Thursday night was a warm, clear spring evening and government and military officials were hard pressed to offer an explanation for the unusual lights seen in the southeastern sky by hundreds of area residents.

Police said over the weekend they received other reported UFO sightings, but not as many as had been reported Thursday.

Police departments in several villages were swamped with calls reporting UFOs. Most callers said they saw unexplained lights over the southern portion of the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

THE REPORTS from the public were supplemented by reports from at least a dozen police officers.

Two different military sources said the lights were probably reflections from aircraft landing lights at nearby O'Hare International Airport.

But witnesses to the phenomena said the UFOs appeared in groups of pulsating lights, some V-shaped and hovered at altitudes ranging from 1,000 feet to tree top level at about 9:30 p.m.

A spokesman for the Glenview Naval Air Station theorized aircraft lights must have caused the unusual effect.

But an official at the National Weather Service said the clear skies present at the time of sightings tended to discount the light reflection theory.

"BESIDES IN my 25 years on the job, I have never heard of any phenomena occurring at low altitude," he said.

Radar installations at O'Hare, Glenview and the Chicago-Gary Defense Base in Arlington Heights reported no UFO sightings.

Major James R. Lapp of Chanute Air Force Base, Rantoul, said he had UFO reports but said he had seen a meteor in the sky about the same time.

Puzzled officials, however, could not explain the eyewitness accounts of lights hovering for up to a half hour.

Police in Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove

Village, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and members of the Illinois State Police and the Cook County Sheriff's Police all offered similar accounts of the lights.

Schaumburg Patrolman William Bartkavitch reported that he saw nine sets of lights in the vicinity of the WGN Radio transmitting tower. He said that he could differentiate the lights from those of nearby aircraft.

SHERILL ECKERSLEY, an Elk Grove Village fire alarm operator, reported a triangular object, hovering across from the fire station on Biesterfeld Road.

She said the lights moved about 25 to 30 miles per hour.

"If I was the only one who saw it, I would really think I was crazy," she said, adding she had never seen anything like it. Other firemen also saw the object.

Early speculation that the lights came from helicopters was discounted after a check of many civilian and military installations revealed that no helicopters were airborne at the time.

The reflecting lights theory was also discounted by a leading authority in the UFO field, Dr. J. Allen Hynek of Northwestern University.

"I DO NOT BUY the reflections theory, because of the hovering effect that was reported," he said. Hynek, who was the scientific consultant for Air Force's UFO project, Operation Bluebook, has authored a book on similar sightings, "The UFO Experience."

Hynek said he believes the objects sighted were "nocturnal lights." He said he would reserve further comment until more information is received on the sightings. Associates of Hynek will be interviewing persons who reported the sightings.

"I do not buy the reflecting lights story either," said a police officer who asked that his name not be used.

"I did not see any little green men, but what I did see was the most unusual experience I have ever witnessed," he added.

Arlington teacher gets job back

An Arlington Heights teacher who was fired by the school board for cruelty toward children was given his job back by a Cook County Circuit Court judge Friday.

John Fender, accused of striking children while a teacher in School Dist. 25 and subsequently fired by the district, apparently has won his job back following a decision by Judge Edward Healy. Judge Healy on Friday reversed the decision of the board of education to dismiss Fender.

Details of the return of Fender to the school district and the matter of whether he is entitled to back pay, and whether the school board will appeal Judge Healy's decision await deliberations of the school board with its attorney tonight. Board members contacted refused to speculate on the board's probable course of action.

FENDER, A language arts teacher for 10 years in School Dist. 25, was fired by the board in June. The School district charged there were several incidents of Fender striking students.

Parents of a seventh grade student signed a complaint on Fender, charging him with battery last June. The parents charged that Fender struck their daughter several times without provocation on the head and across the face.

In September, Fender was found innocent of battery by a Cook County Circuit Court branch jury in Evanston.

THE BOARD will meet tonight with its attorney for details of the court decision. The board must decide either to reinstate Fender or to continue fighting in the courts for his dismissal.

"We're not sure if there's going to be anything definite," said Richard Schlott, board president. According to Judge Healy, the board has 30 days to file an appeal.

According to Fender's attorney, Edward Jackson, the decision means the court has set aside the dismissal and that Fender is "automatically reinstated" as a teacher in good standing as he was before he was fired in June.

"Our position is that they should pay Fender up to date," said Jackson. "However, we don't know what the board will do now."

School Board Director of administration and planning, Donald Monroe, said Fender's status depends on a possible appeal.

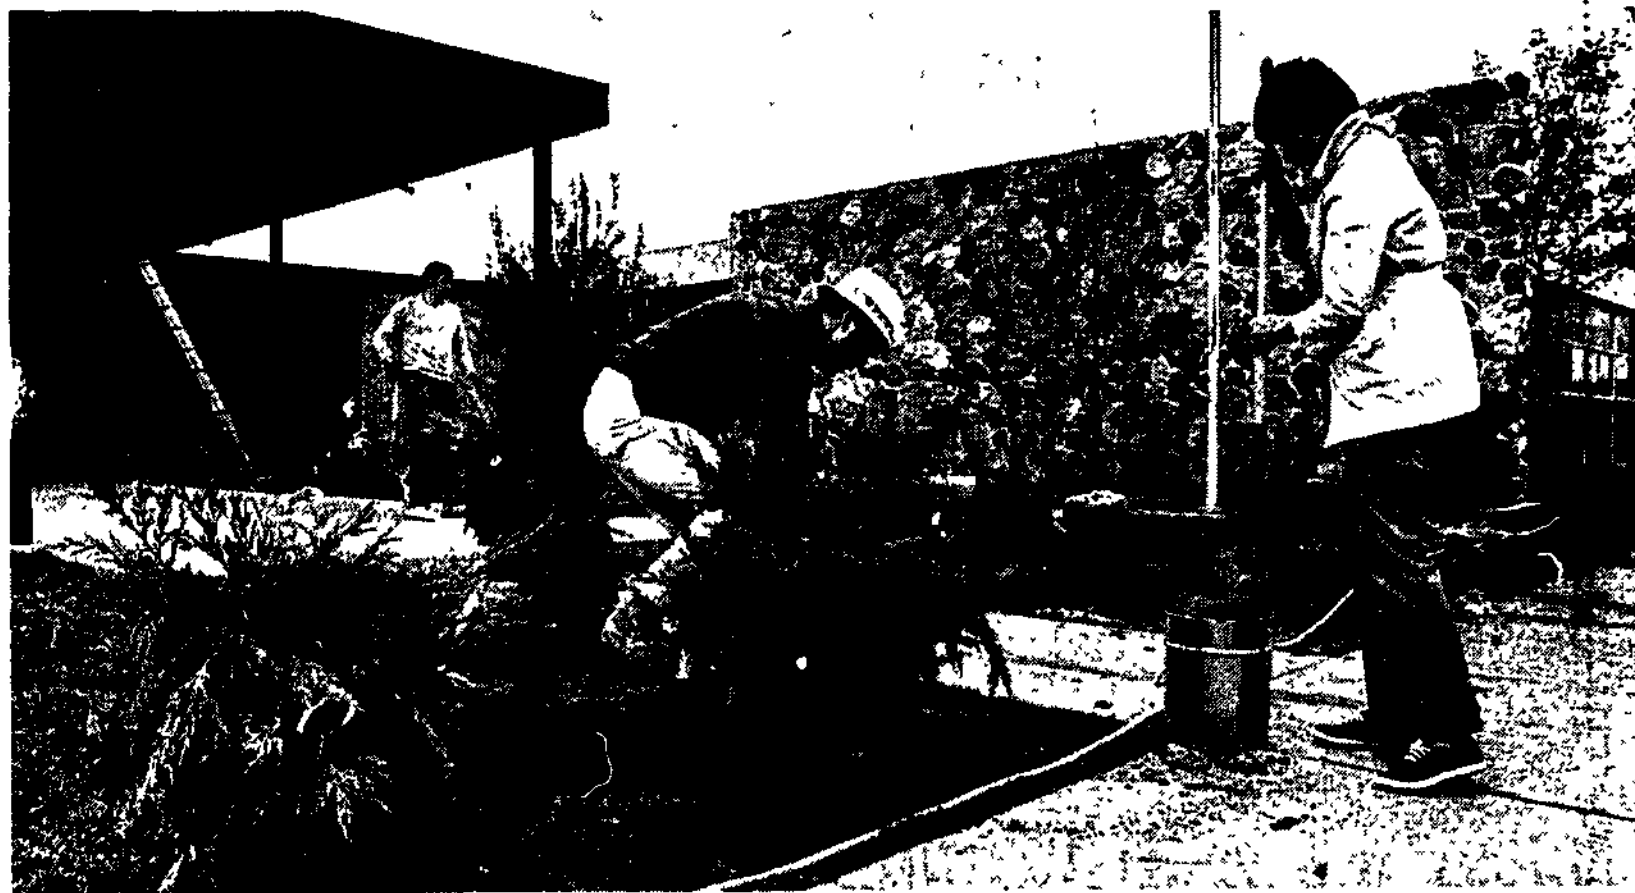

JACKSON SAID the court upheld that Fender should have been given written notice to cease corporal punishment before charges were brought against him.

The court finally ruled that the school board's attorney, Ralph Miller, was acting as prosecutor, and at the same time acted as counsel for the school board, which is unlawful, said Jackson.

Miller refused to comment on the case.

If the school board decides to appeal the decision, the earliest the court could arrive at a ruling is within several months, said Jackson. Also if the board loses, it can file for appeal again, in the state supreme court.

Fender was not available for comment.

PARENTS, TEACHERS and students lent a helping hand Saturday in the Beautification Day at Central Road School in Rolling Meadows. Shrubs and flowering trees were planted at the entrance to the school as part of the second phase of a PTA beautification project.

Rep. Chapman proposes bill to protect home buyers

The disclosure of information aimed at protecting new home buyers will be covered in a bill proposed by State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights.

There are people who go out to buy a first home who need protection assuring they understand what schools their children will attend and whether the house is on a flood plain, said Mrs. Chapman. Some people don't even know what a flood plain is, she added.

Her proposed legislation, House Bill 1687, is co-sponsored by Representatives

Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, and Richard Mugallan, D-Palatine. It will be up for consideration by the Illinois House of Representatives Registration and Regulations Committee.

The proposal will be known as the "Residential Housing Disclosure Act." It is the first major legislation of its type covering single-family homes, she said.

MRS. CHAPMAN said she was encouraged to sponsor the legislation because of a series of articles in The Herald and because of interest for the need of legislation protecting people buying new houses.

In a presentation tomorrow, Mrs. Chapman said she will seek the support of people from the area and has an indication Carol Johnson of Schaumburg's Timbercrest subdivision may appear to testify on needs for passage of the act.

Mrs. Chapman also encourages people write to their representatives if they agree legislation is needed.

"We're trying to make sure of getting it passed in this session," she said, adding, "I think it's needed now."

"If the bill has to wait until the legislature's next session for passage, there will be thousands of people in the state buying new homes without the protections it offers," she added.

THE BILL requires the developers of subdivisions with 10 or more homes to provide information on what type of land conditions exist on and around the property where the house is located.

It also requires an explanation of the adequacy of storm and sanitation sewer facilities and the proximity of the house to all public, shopping and church facilities.

Also significant, said Mrs. Chapman, is the requirement developers inform the buyer of zoning on nearby land and of any nearby utility easements.

This would prevent a salesman telling someone a park will be located where an apartment complex is planned; she added.

MRS. CHAPMAN said the intention of the bill is to give protection to home buyers both before and after the closing of the contract.

Another major feature of the bill is protection for a homeowner going to court to get satisfaction from a developer who hasn't lived up to the contract, she said.

The bill makes the developer responsible for any legal cost the homeowner faces in the suit.

Palatine youth wins scholarship

Steven W. Schroeder, of 929 S. Broadway St., Palatine, has been selected to receive one of two state General Assembly scholarships through State Rep. Richard A. Mugallan, (D-2nd).

Schroeder is the oldest of eight children and has participated in several high school sports. He will attend the University of Illinois.

Schroeder and Carlo M. Stadler of Elgin were chosen for the scholarships from a list of 25 applicants. Members of the selection committee included Mrs. Daryl Frey, Barrington, and Neil Sobel, Palatine, in addition to residents of Elgin, West Chicago and Streamwood.

3 illegal immigrants arrested in village

Arlington Heights police arrested three Mexican nationals Friday morning for illegal entry into this country.

Police stopped a car driven by Augustin Espinoza, 42, of 777 Dorsett Lane, Palatine, for having a loud muffler. Questioning by police revealed that passengers Pedro Vargas-Sanchez, 27, of 777 Dorsett Lane, Palatine; Bonifacio Rivera-Alebedo, 46, of 239 Smith St., Palatine; and Refugio Rivera-Alebedo, 38, of 239 Smith St., Palatine, were illegal immigrants.

Esposito and another passenger were released without charges being filed.

The three were held in the Arlington Heights jail for immigration authorities.

Resource center funds OK'd to develop library plans

A three-year plan for the development of resource centers in School Dist. 15 has been adopted and funds have been allocated for the first year.

The board of education voted Wednesday to adopt the plan which identifies the needs of the resource centers, formerly called school libraries, at all Dist. 15 schools and to budget funds during the 1973-74 fiscal year. The board also indicated it would implement parts of the second year of the plan during 1973-74 as funds become available.

The estimated cost of the entire plan is $80,415. Expenditures during the first year are estimated at $14,515 for work on the resource centers at 14 schools. Proposed for the second year of the plan is an estimated expenditure of $48,900 for resource center improvements at 12 schools. Costs during the third year are anticipated at $17,000 for work on resource centers at five schools. The costs include renovation, electrical work, furniture, shelving and carpeting.

RESOURCE centers are the center for print and non-print materials and audio visual equipment. The resource centers are used as an extension of the classroom with students allowed to read, browse, work at educational equipment and games and work in groups with other students.

Resource centers have been very popular in the schools and there have been several requests from principals for funds to expand the centers and purchase furnishings and carpeting, according to school officials. The three-year plan is aimed at serving as a guide for the board in decisions concerning the development of resource centers.

The total estimated expenditure for the resource centers at each school are as follows: Jane Addams School, $4,860; Cardinal Drive School, $1,300; Central Road School, $3,750; Winston Churchill School, $6,550; Kimball Hill School, $3,500; Hunting Ridge School, $6,700; Marion Jordan School, $4,000; Lake Louise School, $5,870; Lincoln School, $1,700; Stuart R. Paddock School, $23,250; Pleasant Hill School, $4,395; Plum Grove School, $3,250; Jonas Salk School, $1,500; Gray M. Sanborn School, $1,200; Carl Sandburg School, $1,200; Virginia Lake School, $260; Willow Bend School, $1,210; Winston Park School, $3,000, and Joel Wood School, $920.

'Borrowed' elephant causes police query

When Arlington Heights police saw the elephant go by in a truck about 3 a.m. Friday, they decided to stop it.

It turned out that the elephant, made of fiberglass, had been "borrowed" from Muffich Buick, 801 E. Rand Rd., Mount Prospect. Five youths, all aged 18 and 17, told police they had only borrowed the elephant for a football game at Fremd High School.

However, the boys, from Palatine and Barrington, had failed to ask John Muffich if they could take his elephant out for the game. Muffich told Mount Prospect police he would not press charges against the youths if the elephant was returned and any damage to the $3,000 pachyderm was paid.

Mental health grant may be slashed

Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center may receive only 56 per cent of the grant it requested from the state — which would prevent the center from hiring needed additional staff members.

Jordan Rosen, executive director of the center, said the Illinois Department of Mental Health recommended that the center receive only $32,000, the same amount awarded last year. The center had requested a grant of $91,978 for this year. Grants are usually made in July. Rosen said the center is considering an appeal to the recommendation. He said, however, that the state may not permit an appeal to be made.

Without the full grant, the center will not be able to hire additional staff members, according to Rosen.

WHEN THE CENTER received its first grant of $52,000 last July, about 60 clients were being treated and there was no waiting list. The center is now handling about 360 cases and has a waiting list of 50.

Rosen has reported to the mental health center board of directors that the current case load requires maximum use of staff and facilities.

If the state grant is only $32,000, Rosen said the center may seek additional funds from the two township governments and from municipalities within the townships.

The mental health center is a recently formed organization designed to provide mental health care for all residents within the two townships. The center was developed as a new agency from Elk Grove Village Community Service.

Community Service was a village agency that provided mental health counseling, youth services and other community programs. The agency was funded by the village and various charity organizations.

EARLY LAST YEAR, Community Service requested a grant from the state health department to provide a mental health center for Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships. Previously, the two townships, along with Palatine and Wheeling townships, received state-funded mental health care from the Northwest Mental Health Association in Arlington Heights.

The state approved the Community Service request and split the area originally served by the NMHA. Palatine and Wheeling township residents continue to receive mental health care from NMHA.

As a result of the initial grant last year, Community Service had to reorganize to create a new agency that would receive and administer funds for mental health care.

Although the mental health center and community service are separate agencies, they share some common members on the two boards of directors and Rosen is executive director of both.

Costly 'dream'

Skyrocketing home prices push many out of market

by KURT BAER

Still thinking about someday moving into that dream house? Even if it exists, the chances are you can't afford it.

Real estate appraisers say prices on expensive homes are going up 6 to 10 per cent a year in many suburban locations. More moderately priced housing is increasing in cost even faster at about 12 to 15 per cent annually.

Housing salesmen will tell you that it's the old game of supply and demand that's pushing home costs higher and higher. Builders cite the cost of land, labor and materials, as well as the building requirements of local governments.

Taken together, all these factors have priced many people right out of the single-family housing market into lower-priced townhouses and condominiums.

"Most people want to live in houses. They don't want condominiums or townhouses, but they're got to live somewhere so they buy what they think they can afford. Today that often means a townhouse," says Al Gundelach, a real estate appraiser with offices in Elk Grove Village.

IN RARE INSTANCES where single-family housing is available at "yesterday's prices," such as at the Centex-Winston Grove development in Elk Grove, prospective buyers literally stand in line to purchase home sites that have been carved out of a cornfield.

"Those houses sold like hot cakes and the griddle wasn't even warm," Gundelach said, adding that he believes the success of the Centex-Winston project should prove a point to builders.

"Builders are too tied to the old notion that land should be only one-tenth the cost of the house. They think they should be able to buy land for $1,000 a lot, when they now have to pay $5,000."

"In Beverly Hills (Calif.), 50 per cent of the cost of a home is land and 50 per cent the actual house. By holding out for apartment development (because of the cost of the land) builders have severely limited the supply of (single-family) housing. It's a trap of their own making," he says.

MARTY MUNSON, Arlington Heights building director and a man who has been closely associated with the building industry for over 20 years, says today's builder is faced with unprecedented building costs.

"Lumber is the number one item. Price and scarcity are both going up phenomenally," he says. The cost of other home building materials — masonry, sheet metal, copper, aluminum and the wages of the men who work with them have also risen.

Munson admits that local build-

Probe asked of state OK for hospital

An investigation into state approval of plans by Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Medical Center to construct a new hospital in Schaumburg has been asked by state Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect.

Regner, whose district includes Schaumburg, introduced a resolution in the Senate Friday asking for a special subcommittee investigation into a possible conflict of interest on the part of Dr. Mark Lepper, newly appointed state director of comprehensive health planning and also a staff member of Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's.

Regner said that in addition to his $35,000 state salary, Lepper draws $27,500 yearly from the hospital, which received a state permit for construction of a $12 million facility in Schaumburg.

"THERE HAS been extremely sharp competition for permission to build a new hospital to serve the Northwest suburban area," Regner said.

He asked that a subcommittee of the Senate Public Health, Welfare and Corrections committee conduct an investigation "to determine what role this employee of Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's Hospital and now serving as director of comprehensive health planning performed in the decision and whether the best interests of the state were served."

Regner's resolution was referred to the Senate Executive Committee, which will decide whether to order the investigation. The Executive Committee is expected to hold hearing in the near future on whether to confirm Gov. Daniel Walker's appointment of Lepper to the state planning position.

REGNER said he had been informed that Lepper had asked Dr. Joyce Lashof, newly appointed director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, to approve certain matters which can under Lepper's jurisdiction because the planning director wished to avoid conflicts of interest. "But that troubles me, too," said Regner, because comprehensive health planning is not the responsibility of the public health department," Regner said he was not previously aware that Dr. Lashof is also a staff member of Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's.

Regner also criticized Walker for appointing officials to key posts while allowing them to retain positions with private interest. "If you have to pay more money to attract the kind of people the state needs, then it is up to the legislature for the higher salaries," he said. "Otherwise, when you are paying people like Dr. Lepper $35,000 a year, you're not really getting a full-time employee."

New art exhibit opens at library

by STEVE BROWN

The unidentified flying objects sighted in the area might have easily been explained if Thursday had been New Year's Eve, but it wasn't.

Thursday night was a warm, clear spring evening and government and military officials were hard pressed to offer an explanation for the unusual lights seen in the southeastern sky by hundreds of area residents.

Police said over the weekend they received other reported UFO sightings, but not as many as had been reported Thursday.

Police departments in several villages were swamped with calls reporting UFOs. Most callers said they saw unexplained lights over the southern portion of the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

THE REPORTS from the public were supplemented by reports from at least a dozen police officers.

Two different military sources said the lights were probably reflections from aircraft landing lights at nearby O'Hare International Airport.

But witnesses to the phenomena said the UFOs appeared in groups of pulsating lights, some V-shaped and hovered at altitudes ranging from 1,000 feet to tree top level at about 9:30 p.m.

A spokesman for the Glenview Naval Air Station theorized aircraft lights must have caused the unusual effect.

But an official at the National Weather Service said the clear skies present at the time of sightings tended to discount the light reflection theory.

"BESIDES IN my 25 years on the job, I have never heard of any phenomena occurring at low altitude," he said.

Radar installations at O'Hare, Glenview and the Chicago-Gary Defense Base in Arlington Heights reported no UFO sightings.

Major James R. Lapp of Chanute Air Force Base, Rantoul, said he had UFO reports but said he had seen a meteor in the sky about the same time.

Puzzled officials, however, could not explain the eyewitness accounts of lights hovering for up to a half hour.

Police in Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove

Village, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and members of the Illinois State Police and the Cook County Sheriff's Police all offered similar accounts of the lights.

Schaumburg Patrolman William Bartkavitch reported that he saw nine sets of lights in the vicinity of the WGN Radio transmitting tower. He said that he could differentiate the lights from those of nearby aircraft.

SHERILL ECKERSLEY, an Elk Grove Village fire alarm operator, reported a triangular object, hovering across from the fire station on Blesterfield Road.

She said the lights moved about 25 to 30 miles per hour.

"If I was the only one who saw it, I would really think I was crazy," she said, adding she had never seen anything like it. Other firemen also saw the object.

Early speculation that the lights came from helicopters was discounted after a check of many civilian and military installations revealed that no helicopters were airborne at the time.

The reflecting lights theory was also discounted by a leading authority in the UFO field, Dr. J. Allen Hynek of Northwestern University.

"I DO NOT BUY the reflections theory, because of the hovering effect that was reported," he said. Hynek, who was the scientific consultant for Air Force's UFO project, Operation Bluebook, has authored a book on similar sightings, "The UFO Experience."

Hynek said he believes the objects sighted were "nocturnal lights." He said he would reserve further comment until more information is received on the sightings. Associates of Hynek will be interviewing persons who reported the sightings.

"I do not buy the reflecting lights story either," said a police officer who asked that his name not be used.

"I did not see any little green men, but what I did see was the most unusual experience I have ever witnessed," he added.

It's up to you to cut vandalism

by JERRY THOMAS

The rickshaw from a rock that shatters a school room window in Schaumburg Township School Dist. 54's 22 schools is a direct hit at every taxpayer's pocketbook.

Since last July the district has spent approximately $15,000 on glass replacement.

Now, everyone complains about taxes, but apparently parents in Dist. 54 would rather pay than contribute their time to a vandalism prevention program.

Board member Sherwood Spatz, a one-man committee, has attempted in the past to marshal an adult observer force to deter vandalism. He can't do the job alone and the problem is that no one has volunteered to help.

PARENTS CONCERNED about their tax dollars going for glass replacement should call Spatz and see what they can do to help.

Spatz may be reached at 289-5445. What does an adult observer do? Exactly what the words imply, just observe.

Spatz's plan calls for an adult to simply "hang around" a school site for a few hours in the evenings. The aim is not to discourage youngsters from using adjoining park facilities of the school yard for play but to keep vandals from abusing the area.

Jerry Thomas

If an observer sees a suspicious action or witnesses window breakage or entry into a building, he is instructed to telephone the police. Observers do not apprehend the vandals or make any contact with them, but are to act as "extra eyes" for the police.

It costs money to hire guards; money the district should use to educate children.

But, with vandalism increasing the district must find a solution to the problem. Spatz's attempt to start the parent observer program could provide that solution. But, only volunteers can make it work.

'Hike for Mankind' draws 600 marchers, $7,700

Volunteers came in all shapes and sizes Saturday to help raise funds for Project Concern during the Schaumburg Jaycees' Walk for Mankind.

Nearly 600 walkers had sponsorships pledging a total of $7,700 for project which is aimed at raising funds for medical services in both the U.S. and abroad.

A 10-year-old student at Jane Addams Junior High School received an award from the Jaycees for being the first finisher in the 20 mile walk through Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg. John Pujol of 1023 Duxbury Lane, Schaumburg completed the walk in just over 5 hours.

Trophies were also presented to representatives of Prince of Peace Lutheran Church and Jane Addams Junior High School for having the largest groups entered in the walk.

WALK CHAIRMAN Marty Mayer said the amount reportedly raised by the walk is based on a survey of sponsor sheets turned in Saturday.

He said the walkers would now have to return to their sponsors to collect the pledges.

Both Mayer and Jaycee chapter president Barry Goldberg praised the walkers for their efforts.

"I am glad to have so many people involved in this project," Goldberg said.

Most of the walkers appeared to be junior high school and elementary school students. A good number of adults accompanied their youngsters along the route.

POLICE FROM Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, the Cook County Sheriff and civil defense crews from Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and Hanover Park assisted the walkers. A group of National Guardsmen from a hospital unit in Lincolnwood were also on hand to treat the countless number of blisters acquired during the walk.

Mayer predicted that future walks will raise even larger amounts for other projects.

"Now that we have this group interested, we hope that they will be able to attract their friends and neighbors into other walks," he said.

Driver 'fair' after crash in forest preserve

Three men were injured, one seriously, when two cars collided in the Forest Preserve west of Arlington Heights Road and south of Higgins Road.

Listed in fair condition yesterday in Alexian Brothers Medical Center was Gareth Griswold, 21, of 1000 Willow Rd., Prospect Heights. He was trapped in his car after the collision Thursday night until Elk Grove Village firemen rescued him. He was in serious condition in the intensive care unit of the hospital.

Phil Kiek, 24, 1601 Winchester, Schaumburg, was the driver of the second car. He was treated at the hospital for minor injuries and released. Also released after treatment was a passenger in the Kiek car, David Bixby, 24, of 1460 Prospect, Des Plaines.

Cook County Forest Preserve Rangers said details of the accident are unknown, but a fireman said it appeared the two cars had been racing.

PHIA meets with neighboring towns

Prospect Heights inching along toward incorporation

by STEVE FORSYTH

Prospect Heights inched toward unhindered incorporation Saturday in a meeting with three adjoining communities to discuss problems and negotiate differences.

At the meeting called by State Rep. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge, and State Sen. Bradley Glass, R-Northfield, representatives of Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect said there is no major opposition to incorporation of Prospect Heights as a city.

The third village involved—Wheeling—could offer no promise because there was no qualified spokesman there. Wheeling sent village Atty. Paul Hamer, who was unable to answer most questions put to him. The Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA) was represented by several spokesmen.

Juckett and Glass called the meeting in an effort to avoid the necessity of legislative action to allow the incorporation. There are bills now pending in the Illinois General Assembly, introduced simultaneously by Juckett and Glass, that would change state laws to allow Prospect Heights to incorporate, without the assent of neighboring villages. The PHIA has lost legal battles to incorporate because of the approval requirements.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS Village Pres. Jack Walsh said the only objection his village has is "gerrymandered" or "jigsaw puzzle" boundaries. He said his primary aim is to establish "straight lines" where possible.

Mount Prospect Mayor Robert Teichert said his concern is what the people in the affected areas want. He also said the proposed city of Prospect Heights must be solvent and able to support itself.

To simplify discussion, Juckett asked for a map and told officials to point out the problem areas. Walsh said his concern was primarily west of Schoenbeck Road, and that Arlington Heights had no intention of going any farther east.

He suggested that the area north of Palatine Road and east of Schoenbeck be altered on the Prospect Heights map so it would not conflict with plans of Arlington Heights. Walsh said that area will have a large water retention-recreation site, and may include the site of the second campus of Harper College. Since those facilities would be in Arlington Heights, he said he would like to have the village control at least three sides of the boundaries.

PHIA president, Jack Gilligan said the changes could be made. Walsh said boundaries could also be smoothed out in the Waterman Avenue area, but Gilligan asked that any changes there keep residents of both sides of the street in Prospect Heights. The change would cut off part of Prospect Heights from Waterman to Rand Road, but Gilligan did not object.

A MAJOR AREA of concern was Pal-Waukee Airport, which the PHIA seeks to incorporate only the lower third. Juckett urged some other boundary should be drawn. All three villages and the PHIA expressed concern that the airport be maintained, even if it means forming a corporation of all villages involved to operate it municipally.

Work on the incorporation will continue immediately. PHIA spokesmen are scheduled to appear at the Arlington Heights board meeting tonight. Teichert said Mount Prospect would consider public hearings as soon as possible, and Hamer said he would submit a report to the Wheeling Village Board within a week, recommending that it consider the problem.

The PHIA hopes to have some positive results soon, because approval by the three villages would allow Juckett to drop his House bill, which is scheduled for vote May 25. It had been planned for May 9, but Juckett asked the House for a two-week extension so he could arrange Saturday's meeting.

The exact boundaries of Prospect Heights at the time of incorporation would not limit the size of the city later. Spokesmen at the meeting said large areas might disannex, while the new town might also annex other areas not included in the original incorporation.

Walsh and Teichert both said their villages are not interested at this time in major expansion in the Prospect Heights area. Hamer was unable to answer several questions about the intentions of Wheeling in the area. Hamer said some of the PHIA proposals might conflict with the Wheeling comprehensive plan, but he would not say whether that comprehensive plan includes annexation of Pal-Waukee Airport or the developed residential area south of the airport.

Big cut for township mental health center?

Elk Grove-Schaumburg Townships Mental Health Center may receive only 56 per cent of the grant it requested from the state—which would prevent the center from hiring needed additional staff members.

Jordan Rosen, executive director of the center, said the Illinois Department of Mental Health recommended that the center receive only $52,000, the same amount awarded last year. The center had requested a grant of $91,978 for this year. Grants are usually made in July.

Rosen said the center is considering an appeal to the recommendation. He said, however, that the state may not permit an appeal to be made.

Without the full grant, the center will not be able to hire additional staff members, according to Rosen.

WHEN THE CENTER received its first grant of $32,000 last July, about 60 clients were being treated and there was no waiting list. The center is now handling about 360 cases and has a waiting list of 50.

Rosen has reported to the mental health center board of directors that the current case load requires maximum use of staff and facilities.

If the state grant is only $52,000, Rosen said the center may seek additional funds from the two township governments and from municipalities within the townships.

The mental health center is a recently formed organization designed to provide mental health care for all residents within the two townships. The center was developed as a new agency from Elk Grove Village Community Service.

Community Service was a village agency that provided mental health counseling, youth services and other community programs. The agency was funded by the village and various charity organizations.

EARLY LAST YEAR, Community Service requested a grant from the state health department to provide a mental health center for Elk Grove and Schaumburg townships. Previously, the two townships, along with Palatine and Wheeling townships, received state-funded mental health care from the Northwest Mental Health Association in Arlington Heights.

The state approved the Community Service request and split the area originally served by the NMHA. Palatine and Wheeling township residents continue to receive mental health care from NMHA.

As a result of the initial grant last year, Community Service had to reorganize to create a new agency that would receive and administer funds for mental health care.

Although the mental health center and community service are separate agencies, they share some common members on the two boards of directors and Rosen is executive director of both.

Girl, 7, hit by school bus

A 7-year-old Mount Prospect girl was discharged from Northwest Community Hospital yesterday, after she was struck by a school bus Thursday.

According to witnesses, Beverly Trezek, 502 E. Highland Ave., got off the bus but stopped in front of it to play with the front grill. The driver, James A. Scudder, 28, of 936A Boxwood Dr., said he did not see the girl when he started the bus.

Police did not charge Scudder in the accident, which took place at Highland Avenue and Wilshire Drive. The police report said the girl was not run over by the bus but her leg was pinned for a short while. The hospital said she had no broken bones.

The accident occurred at 3:20 p.m. The bus was a River Trails School Dist. 26 vehicle.

Costly 'dream'

Skyrocketing home prices push many out of market

by KURT BAER

Still thinking about someday moving into that dream house? Even if it exists, the chances are you can't afford it.

Real estate appraisers say prices on expensive homes are going up 6 to 10 per cent a year in many suburban locations. More moderately priced housing is increasing in cost even faster at about 12 to 15 per cent annually.

Housing salesmen will tell you that it's the old game of supply and demand that's pushing home costs higher and higher. Builders cite the cost of land, labor and materials, as well as the building requirements of local governments.

Taken together, all these factors have priced many people right out of the single-family housing market into lower-priced townhouses and condominiums.

"Most people want to live in houses. They don't want condominiums or townhouses, but they're got to live somewhere so they buy what they think they can afford. Today that often means a townhouse," says Al Gunderlach, a real estate appraiser with offices in Elk Grove Village.

IN RARE INSTANCES where single-family housing is available at "yesterday's prices," such as at the Centex-Winston Grove development in Elk Grove, prospective buyers literally stand in line to purchase home sites that have been carved out of a cornfield.

"Those houses sold like hot cakes and the griddle wasn't even warm," Gunderlach said, adding that he believes the success of the Centex-Winston project should prove a point to builders.

"Builders are too tied to the old notion that land should be only one-tenth the cost of the house. They think they should be able to buy land for $1,000 a lot, when they now have to pay $5,000."

"In Beverly Hills (Calif.), 50 per cent of the cost of a home is land and 50 per cent the actual house. By holding out for apartment development (because of the cost of the land) builders have severely limited the supply of (single-family) housing. It's a trap of their own making," he says.

MARTY MUNSON, Arlington Heights building director and a man who has been closely associated with the building industry for over 20 years, says today's builder is faced with unprecedented building costs.

"Lumber is the number one item. Price and scarcity are both going up phenomenally," he says. The cost of other home building materials—masonry, sheet metal, copper, aluminum and the wages of the men who work with them have also risen.

Munson admits that local build-

Main St. digging delayed

by TOM VON MALDER

An extra week of hardship has been dumped on merchants along a one-block stretch of Main Street in downtown Mount Prospect.

Scheduled excavation of Main Street from Busse Avenue to Central Road was pushed back a week by heavy rains, although all the preliminary work for the digging, including removal of the sidewalks on both sides of Main Street, had been completed before last week. The lack of sidewalks has caused some customers to shy away.

A Glaze Construction Co. spokesman said at least four dry days are needed before they can start the digging, which itself may take up to four weeks. They hope to begin tomorrow. The work is part of the widening and resignaling of the Main-Central intersection.

It was discovered in preliminary work last fall that the Main Street section was unsound underneath and would have to be replaced.

OF THE AFFECTED merchants, Norb Huecker has been the hardest hit so far. He owns the Arco Service Station, 1 W. Central Rd.

Last week, the station was inaccessible from Central Road, and when Main Street is dug up he'll be closed off on that side.

"Sure business is down," Huecker said Friday as he watched concrete being poured along the north side of his station. "They say that will be done by Monday so people can get in."

If it isn't done by then, Huecker's station will become an unreachable island. As it is, he said, "My customers come in and say, 'Huecker, we must really like you to come through all this.'"

A sign in one of the station's windows reads, "Sorry. Conditions will get better. Smile."

THE PROBLEM is different for people like restaurateur Sammy Skobel. Skobel's Hot Dog Plus, 34 S. Main St., has lost the sidewalk that once ran in front of it and people have to pick their way along a precarious two-foot-wide stretch of concrete that is left.

Skobel said business has not been hurt too much yet, but he has no illusions about what will happen when the street is finally dug up.

"We'll see how it goes for about a week," he said. "Then we just may have to go on vacation for a while." It would be an early vacation for Skobel, whose business is mainly carry-out.

A HAIRDRESSER at the Gilded Cage Beauty Salon, 34A S. Main St., said some of his customers are already complaining because of the elimination of parking along Busse Avenue east of Main Street to Emerson Street and along Emerson Street north to Central Road.

"They won't come in if they have to park far away," he said. He too expects the situation to worsen once the street is actually closed off.

Officials of the construction company said Friday they hoped to start digging tomorrow, if the rain held off over the weekend. Their problem is not that it has to be dry here, but that there has to be four or five dry days where they will dump the dirt. If it rains, they cannot dump the dirt. If they cannot dump, they cannot dig.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

President Nixon may be invited to "state his side of the case" in the Watergate scandal to a Senate committee that opens public hearings this week, the panel's senior Republican said. Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., vice chairman of the special Watergate committee, also hinted his panel has Nixon under investigation and said "clearly" that the President should be impeached should the facts show he was involved in the affair.

The three Skylab 1 astronauts flew to the spaceport at Cape Kennedy to watch this afternoon's launch of the eight-room space station they will call home on a record-breaking 420-orbit 28-day space research program. The near flawless countdown is ticking toward a 12:30 p.m. CDT blastoff of the nation's first space station and largest spaceship ever built.

Prison officials in Bushnell, Fla., are trying to get the Sumter Correctional Institution back to normal while state agents investigate rioting among more than 150 inmates Saturday when "blacks and whites declared war on each other."

Claiming 37 co-sponsors, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., announced plans to reintroduce legislation today that would stop funding for any U.S. military action in Indochina without congressional approval.

Black Panther Bobby Seale, a decided underdog, scrambled for votes while incumbent John Reading worried about overconfidence as they wound up their campaigns for mayor of Oakland, Calif.

The voters in the city of 382,000 on San Francisco Bay will vote tomorrow.

Time Magazine reports that Martha Mitchell, wife of former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, has suffered a nervous breakdown and has entered a medical institution voluntarily for treatment. Her husband is under indictment for perjury and conspiracy to defraud the United States in connection with financier Robert Vesco's contributions to President Nixon's reelection campaign.

The Viet Cong said American warplanes "killed and injured" 34 civilians in a single air strike in South Vietnam and asked the international peace-keeping force to conduct an "emergency investigation" of the incident. It was the second time in as many days the Provisional Revolutionary Government has protested to the International Commission for Control and Supervision about alleged U.S. raids inside South Vietnam near the Cambodian border.

Police in Belfast, Northern Ireland, detained three suspects in the bombings of a crowded Roman Catholic pub in which 12 persons were injured, six of them seriously. Army experts defused two bombs planted in the social room of a football club in Londonderry's Catholic Bogside district, police said.

UFOs? Airplanes? What were those hovering lights?

by STEVE BROWN

The unidentified flying objects sighted in the area might have easily been explained if Thursday had been New Year's Eve, but it wasn't.

Thursday night was a warm, clear spring evening and government and military officials were hard pressed to offer an explanation for the unusual lights seen in the southeastern sky by hundreds of area residents.

Police said over the weekend they received other reported UFO sightings, but not as many as had been reported Thursday.

Police departments in several villages were swamped with calls reporting UFOs. Most callers said they saw unexplained lights over the southern portion of the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

THE REPORTS from the public were supplemented by reports from at least a dozen police officers.

Two different military sources said the lights were probably reflections from aircraft landing lights at nearby O'Hare International Airport.

But witnesses to the phenomena said the UFOs appeared in groups of pulsating lights, some V-shaped and hovered at altitudes ranging from 1,000 feet to tree top level at about 9:30 p.m.

A spokesman for the Glenview Naval Air Station theorized aircraft lights must have caused the unusual effect.

But an official at the National Weather Service said the clear skies present at the time of sightings tended to discount the light reflection theory.

"BESIDES IN my 25 years on the job, I have never heard of any phenomena occurring at low altitude," he said.

Radar installations at O'Hare, Glenview and the Chicago-Gary Defense Base in Arlington Heights reported no UFO sightings.

Major James R. Lapp of Chanute Air Force Base, Rantoul, said he had UFO reports but said he had seen a meteor in the sky about the same time.

Puzzled officials, however, could not explain the eyewitness accounts of lights hovering for up to a half hour.

Police in Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and members of the Illinois State Police and the Cook County Sheriff's Police all offered similar accounts of the lights.

Schaumburg Patrolman William Bartkavitch reported that he saw nine sets of lights in the vicinity of the WGN Radio transmitting tower. He said that he could differentiate the lights from those of nearby aircraft.

SHERILL ECKERSLEY, an Elk Grove Village fire alarm operator, reported a triangular object, hovering across from the fire station on Blesterfield Road.

She said the lights moved about 25 to 30 miles per hour.

"If I was the only one who saw it, I would really think I was crazy," she said, adding she had never seen anything like it. Other firemen also saw the object.

Early speculation that the lights came from helicopters was discounted after a check of many civilian and military installations revealed that no helicopters were airborne at the time.

The reflecting lights theory was also discounted by a leading authority in the UFO field, Dr. J. Allen Hynek of Northwestern University.

"I DO NOT BUY the reflections theory, because of the hovering effect that was reported," he said. Hynek, who was the scientific consultant for Air Force's

UFO project, Operation Bluebook, has authored a book on similar sightings, "The UFO Experience."

Hynek said he believes the objects sighted were "nocturnal lights." He said he would reserve further comment until more information is received on the sightings. Associates of Hynek will be interviewing persons who reported the sightings.

"I do not buy the reflecting lights story either," said a police officer who asked that his name not be used.

"I did not see any little green men, but what I did see was the most unusual experience I have ever witnessed," he added.

Driver 'fair' after crash in forest preserve

Three men were injured, one seriously, when two cars collided in the Forest Preserve west of Arlington Heights Road and south of Higgins Road.

Listed in fair condition yesterday in Alexian Brothers Medical Center was Gareth Griswold, 21, of 1000 Willow Rd., Prospect Heights. He was trapped in his car after the collision Thursday night until Elk Grove Village firemen rescued him. He was in serious condition in the intensive care unit of the hospital.

Phil Klek, 24, 1601 Winchester, Schaumburg, was the driver of the second car. He was treated at the hospital for minor injuries and released. Also released after treatment was a passenger in the Klek car, David Bixby, 24, of 1469 Prospect, Des Plaines.

Cook County Forest Preserve Rangers said details of the accident are unknown, but a fireman said it appeared the two cars had been racing.

Riley students to be shifted to Stevenson

Several children in School Dist. 21 will be spending a lot less time on school buses next year when they begin attending new schools closer to home.

All children who presently ride the bus to Riley School will attend the new Stevenson School at Palatine and Wolf Roads in Wheeling.

Elementary students in the Mill Creek subdivision and apartments are scheduled to go to Irving School. Just off Arlington Heights Road. These children presently attend Longfellow School.

Both buildings are slated to be ready for the opening of school next fall, according to school officials.

Dist. 21 Asst. Supt. John Barger said last week that there will be no immediate changes in the attendance boundaries of other schools in the district because of the opening of Stevenson and Irving.

3 youths arrested in burglary case

Three 15-year-old Mount Prospect boys were arrested last week after police said they confessed to a May 4 burglary in the village.

Mount Prospect police said the trio entered the Dominic Valentino home, 213 N. Elm St., about 3 p.m. May 4. Reported missing were $15 in cash, two watches, some jewelry and liquor.

Sgt. Ralph Doney of the police department said everything but the jewelry and liquor was recovered. The youths allegedly drank the liquor. Doney said a tip led to their arrests.

Johanson to head park district board

John Johanson and Kenneth Rudnick have been elected president and vice president-treasurer, respectively, of the River Trails Park District Board of Commissioners.

Johanson, of 908 Ironwood Pl., Mount Prospect, has served on the board for 2½ years. He was first elected president of the board in January after the resignation of board member Patrick Link.

Rudnick, 1608 Cedar Ln., Mount Prospect, has been on the board for 4½ years. He was elected vice president in January after Johanson was named president.

Store posts prices after IRS warning

Kohl's Mayflower supermarket, 1000 Rand Rd., has complied with regulations for posting ceiling price information after receiving a warning from the Internal Revenue Service.

A spokesman for the IRS said the store did not have ceiling prices posted in the meat department. The store was given 24 hours to post the information.

The spokesman said the store was checked the day after a complaint was filed and the information had been posted.

Two other Kohl's Mayflower stores also were named in the IRS warning — those at 4701 N. Harlem Ave. and at 2555 Touhy Ave. in Chicago.

Failure to comply could have resulted in a $2,500-a-day fine for the stores.

MOUNT PROSPECT

'Run for Dimes' at Holmes

The student council at Holmes Junior High School is sponsoring a "Run for Dimes" from 1:30 to 2 p.m. Saturday at the school, 1900 W. Lonnquist Blvd., Mount Prospect.

Students are getting individuals to sponsor them by paying 10 cents for every lap the students run on the school athletic field. Proceeds will be donated to the March of Dimes Foundation.

Also on Saturday, the school science club will collect old newspapers between noon and 2 p.m. Papers can be dropped off in the northwest parking lot of the school. Only newspapers will be collected. Magazines will not be accepted.

PTA notes

THE FIFTH and sixth grade chorus will entertain at the final meeting of the Westbrook School PTA at 7:45 p.m. tomorrow.

Also featured at the meeting will be some of the talent winners from the school's annual talent show.

Refreshments will be served. The school is at 105 S. Busse Road, Mount Prospect.

STUDENTS in the eighth grade chorus at the Lincoln Junior High School will sing for the children of Westbrook School at 9:15 a.m. Wednesday.

All parents are invited.

Hydrant flushing starts this week

This week the Mount Prospect Public Works department will do its semi-annual flushing of village hydrants. The work will start about 4 a.m. tomorrow.

The flushing is done to remove iron deposits from the hydrant system. It causes problems for housewives if they wash clothes during the flushing period. Residents should wait until flushing operations pass their homes before washing clothes.

Hydrant flushing begins at the north end of the village and works south. It takes about three days for the process to be completed throughout the village.

Chemicals for rust stain removal are available at the public works building, 11 S. Pine St., should they be needed.

Judge reverses dismissal decision

Teacher fired for hitting student gets his job back

An Arlington Heights teacher who was fired by the school board for cruelty toward children was given his job back by a Cook County Circuit Court judge Friday.

John Fender, accused of striking children while a teacher in School Dist. 25 and subsequently fired by the district, apparently has won his job back following a decision by Judge Edward Healy. Judge Healy on Friday reversed the decision of the board of education to dismiss Fender.

Details of the return of Fender to the school district and the matter of whether he is entitled to back pay, and whether the school board will appeal Judge Healy's decision await deliberations of the school board with its attorney tonight. Board members contacted refused to speculate on the board's probable course of action.

FENDER, A language arts teacher for 10 years in School Dist. 25, was fired by the board in June. The School district charged there were several incidents of Fender striking students.

Parents of a seventh grade student signed a complaint on Fender, charging him with battery last June. The parents charged that Fender struck their daughter several times without provocation on the head and across the face.

In September, Fender was found innocent of battery by a Cook County Circuit Court jury in Evanston.

THE BOARD will meet tonight with its attorney for details of the court decision. The board must decide either to reinstate Fender or to continue fighting in the courts for his dismissal.

"We're not sure if there's going to be anything definite," said Richard Schlott, board president. According to Judge Healy, the board has 30 days to file an appeal.

According to Fender's attorney, Edward Jackson, the decision means the court has set aside the dismissal and that Fender is "automatically reinstated" as a teacher in good standing as he was before he was fired in June.

"Our position is that they should pay Fender up to date," said Jackson. "However, we don't know what the board will do now."

School Board Director of administrative and planning, Donald Monroe, said Fender's status depends on a possible appeal.

JACKSON SAID the court upheld that Fender should have been given written notice to cease corporal punishment before charges were brought against him.

The court finally ruled that the school board's attorney, Ralph Miller, was acting as prosecutor, and at the same time acted as counsel for the school board, which is unlawful, said Jackson.

Miller refused to comment on the case. If the school board decides to appeal the decision, the earliest the court could arrive at a ruling is within several months, said Jackson. Also if the board loses, it can file for appeal again, in the state supreme court.

Fender was not available for comment.

Riley students to be shifted to Stevenson

Several children in School Dist. 21 will be spending a lot less time on school buses next year when they begin attending new schools closer to home.

All children who presently ride the bus to Riley School will attend the new Stevenson School at Palatine and Wolf roads in Wheeling.

Elementary students in the Mill Creek subdivision and apartments are scheduled to go to Irving School, just off Arlington Heights Road. These children presently attend Longfellow School.

Both buildings are slated to be ready for the opening of school next fall, according to school officials.

Costly 'dream'

Skyrocketing home prices push many out of market

by KURT BAER

Still thinking about someday moving into that dream house? Even if it exists, the chances are you can't afford it.

Real estate appraisers say prices on expensive homes are going up 6 to 10 per cent a year in many suburban locations. More moderately priced housing is increasing in cost even faster at about 12 to 15 per cent annually.

Housing salesmen will tell you that it's the old game of supply and demand that's pushing home costs higher and higher. Builders cite the cost of land, labor and materials, as well as the building requirements of local governments.

Taken together, all these factors have priced many people right out of the single-family housing market into lower-priced townhouses and condominiums.

"Most people want to live in houses. They don't want condominiums or townhouses, but they're got to live somewhere so they buy what they think they can afford. Today that often means a townhouse," says Al Gundelach, a real estate appraiser with offices in Elk Grove Village.

IN RARE INSTANCES where single-family housing is available at "yesterday's prices," such as at the Centex-Winston Grove development in Elk Grove, prospective buyers literally stand in line to purchase home sites that have been carved out of a cornfield.

"Those houses sold like hot cakes and the griddle wasn't even warm," Gundelach said, adding that he believes the success of the Centex-Winston project should prove a point to builders.

"Builders are too tied to the old notion that land should be only one-tenth the cost of the house. They think they should be able to buy land for $1,000 a lot, when they now have to pay $5,000."

"In Beverly Hills (Calif.), 50 per cent of the cost of a home is land and 50 per cent the actual house. By holding out for apartment development (because of the cost of the land) builders have severely limited the supply of (single-family) housing. It's a trap of their own making," he says.

MARTY MUNSON, Arlington Heights building director and a man who has been closely associated with the building industry for over 20 years, says today's builder is faced with unprecedented building costs.

"Lumber is the number one item. Price and scarcity are both going up phenomenally," he says. The cost of other home building materials — masonry, sheet metal, copper, aluminum and the wages of the men who work with them have also risen.

Munson admits that local build-

Bill urges home buyer protection

The disclosure of information aimed at protecting new home buyers will be covered in a bill proposed by State Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights.

There are people who go out to buy a first home who need protection assuring they understand what schools their children will attend and whether the house is on a flood plain, said Mrs. Chapman. Some people don't even know what a flood plain is, she added.

Her proposed legislation, House Bill 1687, is co-sponsored by Representatives Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, and Richard Muggallan, D-Palatine. It will be up for consideration by the Illinois House of Representatives Registration and Regulations Committee.

The proposal will be known as the "Residential Housing Disclosure Act." It is the first major legislation of its type covering single-family homes, she said.

MRS. CHAPMAN said she was encouraged to sponsor the legislation because of a series of articles in The Herald and because of interest for the need of legislation protecting people buying new houses.

In a presentation tomorrow, Mrs. Chapman said she will seek the support of people from the area and has an indication Carol Johnson of Schaumburg's Timbercrest subdivision may appear to testify on needs for passage of the act.

Mrs. Chapman also encourages people write to their representatives if they agree legislation is needed.

"We're trying to make sure of getting it passed in this session," she said, adding, "I think it's needed now."

"If the bill has to wait until the legislature's next session for passage, there will be thousands of people in the state buying new homes without the protections it offers," she added.

THE BILL requires the developers of subdivisions with 10 or more homes to provide information on what type of land conditions exist on and around the property where the house is located.

It also requires an explanation of the adequacy of storm and sanitation sewer facilities and the proximity of the house to all public, shopping and church facilities.

Also significant, said Mrs. Chapman, is the requirement developers inform the buyer of zoning on nearby land and of any nearby utility easements.

This would prevent a salesman telling someone a park will be located where an apartment complex is planned, she added.

MRS. CHAPMAN said the intention of the bill is to give protection to home buyers both before and after the closing of the contract.

Another major feature of the bill is protection for a homeowner going to court to get satisfaction from a developer who hasn't lived up to the contract, she said.

The bill makes the developer responsible for any legal cost the homeowner faces in the suit.

This Morning In Brief

The nation

President Nixon may be invited to "state his side of the case" in the Watergate scandal to a Senate committee that opens public hearings this week, the panel's senior Republican said. Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., vice chairman of the special Watergate committee, also hinted his panel has Nixon under investigation and said "clearly" that the President should be impeached should the facts show he was involved in the affair.

Black Panther Bobby Seale, a decided underdog, scrambled for votes while incumbent John Reading worried about overconfidence as they wound up their campaigns for mayor of Oakland, Calif.

The voters in the city of 362,000 on San Francisco Bay will vote tomorrow.

The Viet Cong said American warplanes "killed and injured" 34 civilians in a single air strike in South Vietnam and asked the international peace-keeping force to conduct an "emergency investigation" of the incident. It was the second time in as many days the Provisional Revolutionary Government has protested to the International Commission for Control and Supervision about alleged U.S. raids inside South Vietnam near the Cambodian border.

Police in Belfast, Northern Ireland, detained three suspects in the bombings of a crowded Roman Catholic pub in which 12 persons were injured, six of them seriously. # UFOs? Planes? What were those lights?

by STEVE BROWN

The unidentified flying objects sighted in the area might have easily been explained if Thursday had been New Year's Eve, but it wasn't.

Thursday night was a warm, clear spring evening and government and military officials were hard pressed to offer an explanation for the unusual lights seen in the southeastern sky by hundreds of area residents.

Police said over the weekend they received other reported UFO sightings, but not as many as had been reported Thursday.

Police departments in several villages were swamped with calls reporting UFOs. Most callers said they saw unexplained lights over the southern portion of the Ned Brown Forest Preserve.

THE REPORTS from the public were supplemented by reports from at least a dozen police officers.

Two different military sources said the lights were probably reflections from aircraft landing lights at nearby O'Hare International Airport.

But witnesses to the phenomena said the UFOs appeared in groups of pulsating lights, some V-shaped and hovered at altitudes ranging from 1,000 feet to tree top level at about 9:30 p.m.

A spokesman for the Glenview Naval Air Station theorized aircraft lights must have caused the unusual effect.

But an official at the National Weather Service said the clear skies present at the time of sightings tended to discount the light reflection theory.

"BESIDES IN my 25 years on the job, I have never heard of any phenomena occurring at low altitude," he said.

Radar installations at O'Hare, Glenview and the Chicago-Gary Defense Base in Arlington Heights reported no UFO sightings.

Major James R. Lapp of Chanute Air Force Base, Rantoul, said he had UFO reports but said he had seen a meteor in the sky about the same time.

Puzzled officials, however, could not explain the eyewitness accounts of lights hovering for up to a half hour.

Police in Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove

Village, Hoffman Estates, Schaumburg and members of the Illinois State Police and the Cook County Sheriff's Police all offered similar accounts of the lights.

Schaumburg Patrolman William Barakavitch reported that he saw nine sets of lights in the vicinity of the WGN Radio transmitting tower. He said that he could differentiate the lights from those of nearby aircraft.

SHERILL ECKERSLEY, an Elk Grove Village fire alarm operator, reported a triangular object, hovering across from the fire station on Blesterfield Road.

She said the lights moved about 25 to 30 miles per hour.

"If I was the only one who saw it, I would really think I was crazy," she said, adding she had never seen anything like it. Other firemen also saw the object.

Early speculation that the lights came from helicopters was discounted after a check of many civilian and military installations revealed that no helicopters were airborne at the time.

The reflecting lights theory was also discounted by a leading authority in the UFO field, Dr. J. Allen Hynek of Northwestern University.

"I DO NOT BUY the reflections theory, because of the hovering effect that was reported," he said. Hynek, who was the scientific consultant for Air Force's UFO project, Operation Bluebook, has authored a book on similar sightings, "The UFO Experience."

Hynek said he believes the objects sighted were "nocturnal lights." He said he would reserve further comment until more information is received on the sightings. Associates of Hynek will be interviewing persons who reported the sightings.

"I do not buy the reflecting lights story either," said a police officer who asked that his name not be used.

"I did not see any little green men, but what I did see was the most unusual experience I have ever witnessed," he added.

Proposed budget

$500,000 more for schools here

by JILL BETTNER

School expenditures will be increased by about $500,000 in the 1973-74 fiscal year, according to the proposed School Dist. 21 budget.

The increase is due mainly to salary raises, added cost of staffing, equipping two new schools and inflation.

Expenditures for the coming year are in the tentative budget at $11,660,210, as compared to last year's total cash outlay of $11,123,613.

Total revenue indicated in the budget amounts to $10,157,000. In addition to these funds, the district will also have some money left over in each account from the 1972-73 budget. Because bills are still being paid with these funds, it is not yet known exactly how much cash will be available for next year.

The remaining deficit will be made up in tax anticipation warrants, according to Dist. 21 Asst. Supt. John Barger. The warrants are issued by taxing bodies as a means of borrowing against future taxes.

distributed among teachers according to a schedule devised by the Wheeling Faculty Council.

Funds for operating, building and maintenance, bond and interest, transportation and municipal retirement will also be increased. The only area where less money is budgeted than last year is for site and construction.

Washington Irving School in Buffalo Grove and Robert Lewis Stevenson School in Wheeling are both nearing completion and are scheduled to open next fall. No new buildings are planned in the next year.

BARGER AND Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill said they are pleased with the substantial increase in the total assessed valuation of property within the district. Because of the increase, Barger said some residents may see adjustments either up or down in their education tax bills.

"Our tax base is definitely improving," Gill said. "But we're still playing a catch up game to other school districts. Our assessed valuation is way low compared to most of them."

Commenting on the financial outlook of the district next year, Gill said administrators will have to carefully watch spending.

"It will be tight again this year just like it always has been," he said.

Gill added that school officials are still hoping for an increase in the amount of state aid to education.

Cultural panel interviewing architects

The Arlington Heights Cultural Commission has begun interviewing architects to draw plans for the proposed $2.5 million cultural center.

Sidney Rosenfeld, commission chairman, said 15 architects will be interviewed. The screening will last until the end of June.

The architect selected will prepare plans and a model of the two-phase center recommended by George C. Izenour, theater consultant. The plans and model will be used for fundraising in the area, Rosenfeld said.

The commission has been working on the creation of a cultural center in the village for about two years.

Izenour's recommendations include plans for a 530 seat theater to be built in Phase I. Phase II calls for the construction of 1,315 more seats to give the center a concert hall with a seating capacity of more than 1,800.

The multi-purpose center will be built south of the Arlington Heights Memorial Library on a square block currently used as a parking lot.

The commission will next hold interviews May 14 and 15 in the Municipal Building.

Baseball league has openings

The Arlington Heights Boys Baseball League has put out the call for players and foul-line chalkers.

The league has a limited number of openings for boys who are between the ages of 10 and 12 as of July 31.

There is a $16 registration fee and parent participation is required.

The league reserves the right to assign boys to teams that are in the most need of players.

The league grounds crew committee is searching for foul line chalk markers.

Bernie Dabbert has asked that anyone with information concerning the whereabouts of previously issued, but not returned, equipment contact him at 392-8804, or 392-0975.

He would also like information about purchasing new markers.

Information about registration is available by calling 392-0975 between 1 p.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

7 on dean's list

Seven students from Arlington Heights were named to the dean's list at Augustana College, Rock Island.

They are: Catherine R. Johns, daughter of Mrs. Ruth Johns, 1621 N. Arlington Heights Rd.; Trevor J. Will, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Will, 1208 E. Miner St.; Kathy A. Roloff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan A. Roloff, 1903 Spruce Terrace; Carlene S. Aronson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Aronson, 2818 N. Schoenbeck Rd.; Lorle R. ## Broad Newspaper Background Aids Salesman Steve Witte

As far back as Steve Witte can remember his family has been in the newspaper business. His great great grandfather David M. Grier started it all when he bought the only newspaper in DuPage County in 1868 and named it the Naperville Clarion. Since then a family member has worked continuously in some phase of the newspaper industry.

Steve was no exception. As a teenager he literally grew up writing news stories, proofreading and selling advertising.

After college and completion of his Army service Steve chose newspaper advertising as his career. His broad range of experience and knowledge has given him an unusual background upon which to draw when assisting such clients as the Mount Prospect Plaza Merchants Association and other major accounts.

The father of two sons, Steve and his wife Shirle live in Schaumburg. Here Steve enjoys his two long time hobbies of photography and scuba diving.
